MILLIONS, all over the world, as far as moving pictures spread, will learn with deep regret the death of Rudolph Valentino very young man of intense feeling and earnestness, Valentino held his place, without a rival in his [illegible]. Foreign born, with no friends in America to help him, he made his way by hard work, and his talent gave intense pleasure to tens of millions. His life was too short, but it was not wasted.

DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT, president of Harvard for 40 years, is dead, in his 93rd year. Theodore Roosevelt said of him "He is the only man I envy," which is surprising. You would expect Roosevelt to envy Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, Genthis Khan and Tamarlane. President Taft said of Dr. Eliot: "He is as well preserved as though he had spent his years in the atmosphere of the supreme court."

ALTHOUGH head of a great university, Dr. Eliot was not an orthodox Christian. He said fear of hell "has not proved effective to deter men from wrongdoing." And of heaven, "[illegible] as never yet been described so very attractive to the average human woman. Both heaven and hell are, Gibbon said, unimaginable."

He even said that men and women would not be any more inclined to good or evil, "if heaven were burned or hell quenched. The prevailing Christian ideas of Heaven or hell have hardly any more influence with educated people in these days than Olympus and Hades have."

He attacked from the pulpit, but all that sounds mild enough now.

POLITICIANS say President Coolidge wants Frank L. Smith, of Chicago, to retire from the race for senator. That would make room for a pro-world court Republican candidate, and would admirably suit Mr. Brennan, also of Chicago, and Democratic nominee for the senate. Mr. Brennan would become sole proprietor of the anti-world court issue, so strong in Illinois that it prevented Senator McKinley's re-nomination.

GREECE has a new boss, General Condylis, and Pangalos, his predecessor, is under arrest. Greece works swiftly, dramatically. Condylis prepared his revolution, army and navy joining him, the crowd always ready for a change, Pangalos ran away in a flying machine. Fast Greek army planes overtook and turned him over to the Greek destroyer Pergamos. Pangalos persuaded the Pergamos captain to run away with him.

AN AMERICAN horse won the Grand Prix at Deauville. Twenty thousand prosperous spendthrifts from all nations witnessed the American victory and not one cheered. Dead silence greeted the American winner. That will not hurt the feelings of this nations. It might persuade the American spendthrifts to do their spendthrifting at home. Our disregard of law offers them all gambling conveniences from Saratoga to Miami.

CROWDS FIGHT TO VIEW BODY OF VALENTINO IN NEW YORK

Police Reserves Called Out to Quell Disturbances.

FASCISTI GUARD

Pola Goes East to Urge Burial in Los Angeles.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—An unending stream of people, formed into a line six deep for blocks, today, passed into Campbell's funeral church on Broadway, where the body of Rudolph Valentino, lies in state and paid tribute to the famous motion picture star. Fully ten thousand were in the surging crush of humanity. They passed the casket at the rate of 80 a minute.

Police in Control.

It was a more orderly and reverent crowd today. There was no repetition of the rioting of yesterday and last night when persons were injured and scores of women fainted. The line inside the church moved along briskly and quietly. Most of the people genuflected or blessed themselves as they reached the casket and took one swift glance at Valentino in repose.

Police were in complete control of the situation. There was no pushing or rowdyness. Girls and women predominated. Many of them were on the verge of tears.

Black-shirted members of the New York Facisti—an honor guard of six—stood near the casket as the people filed by. Across their satin black shirts were blazing rows of service ribbons.

While the great throng was paying respectful homage to Valentino, defi-

CAMPMEETING CLOSES SUNDAY

Quarterly Conference at Campmeeting Grounds Today.

Free Methodist campmeetings, under way in the tabernacle on Anderson boulevard, will continue until Sunday, with the concluding services on Sunday night.

Rev. Oliver Atkinson, of Uniontown, Pa., preached at yesterday afternoon's services.

The young people's meeting last evening was in charge of Adelaide Latshaw, missionary from Africa. In addition to the regular services, an address was given by Anthony Suchocki, ministerial student.

Dr. E. M. Poland, Pittsburgh, president of the "No Tobacco Army," and editor of the "No Tobacco Educator" gave a half-hour talk on "Evils of Tobacco."

The quarterly conference of the Rochester district was held this morning.

Improvements to Rock Springs Park Started By New Operator

Six Hundred Gallons of Paint Arrives for Use on Buildings and Fences—Work Will be Pushed.

Work of improving Rock Springs park under the direction of C. C. Macdonald of Akron, who has leased the playground for twenty-five years, will begin this week, when shipment of 600 gallons of paint is scheduled to arrive to be applied to park buildings.

New color combination of the entire park is to be straw yellow and white and painters will start their work at the entrance right away. Pickets missing from the parkway fence are being replaced and a landscape gardener will soon be on the job, mapping out his plans for putting the natural scenery of the park into shape.

"I plan to bring the park back in popularity and in improvements and facilities to the days when it was the most popular playground and outing spot in West Virginia, declared Mr. Macdonald.

GERTRUDE EDERLE WILL BE GIVEN ROYAL RECEPTION UPON RETURN

Channel Swimmer Scheduled to Reach New York on Friday—To Be Welcomed by Mayor Walker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A welcome home demonstration, such as will rival if not surpass that accorded Bobby Jones, will be put on for the benefit of Gertrude Ederle, heroine of the recent record-breaking channel swim, when she arrives on the Berengaria on Friday. To the shriek of whistles in the harbor and a "water saluto" from a battery of fire boats, "Trudy" will be escorted ashore by a mayor's committee of welcome and paraded proudly up Broadway to city hall to be officially greeted and felicitated by Mayor Walker.

In spite of the fact that "Trudy" turned professional last year, fifty A. A. U. clubs plan to be represented in the line of march to city hall.

Following the mayor's greeting a reception to New York's "leading lady" will be held in the aldermanic chambers, following which the parade will be resumed to her now-famous Amsterdam avenue home. A guard of honor, composed of mounted, motorcycle and foot policemen, will accompany the swimmer on her triumphal entry, seated between her father and mother.

FARM HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Residence of Charles Zimmerman Near Leetonia Burns.

Fire, caused by a gas stove explosion late yesterday afternoon, totally destroyed the 11 room farm residence occupied by Charles Zimmerman, two miles south of Leetonia. The loss is estimated at $6,500.

The blaze started when Mrs. Zimmerman lit the stove on the back porch preparatory to moving it to the yard. The flames spread to the house and soon the entire structure was a mass of fire.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade but their efforts in fighting the flames proved unavailing. But few articles of household goods were saved.

Playground Outing At Fredericktown All Day Thursday

Annual playground picnic will be held tomorrow at Fredericktown with approximately 100 youngsters participating in the outing.

The children will be taken to the picnic grounds in trucks. The program is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock in the morning and end at 4:30 in the afternoon.

The outing will be supervised by Frank Manton, playground director, and Miss Irma Jones, assistant. Each youngstown will take his own lunch. Games, swimming and other sports are on the program.

The playground season will close on Friday evening with races and novelty events. Prizes will be awarded to winners. The hours will be from 6 to 8.

STORES PLAN "DOLLAR DAY"

More than 70 merchants are taking part in the semi-annual "dollar day" which will be observed by stores here tomorrow under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' division of the chamber of commerce.

Managers and clerks have been busy during the week arranging the varied assortment of merchandise which will be offered to the buying public tomorrow at greatly reduced prices.

Anticipating large crowds, many of which are expected to visit the city from all sections of Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock counties, store owners have engaged a large number of extra sales people to assist the regular clerks.

WALKER NAMED CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY G. O. P. ORGANIZATION

Central Committee Arranges for Fall Campaign.

CROXALL HONORED

County Candidates are Members of Campaign Committee.

County Auditor Elmer E. Walker, Damascus, was elected chairman of the Republican county central committee at a reorganization meeting held in common pleas court room No. 1, Lisbon, Tuesday night.

L. H. Johnson, clerk to the board of county commissioners was elected secretary, with Joseph T. Croxall of East Liverpool as treasurer.

Mr. Walker did not solicit the election, but accepted with the understanding that he would have the wholehearted support of the entire committee.

The report of former treasurer Thomas H. Stevens, East Liverpool, showed a balance in the general fund of the committee, and this was turned over to Treasurer-elect Croxall.

From the general central committee an executive committee is to be selected based upon one member for each 1,000 votes cast at the last general election for President Coolidge.

A committee to draft resolutions of respect in memory of the late Charles E. Hamilton was named by Chairman Walker, the committee consisting of Attorney William B. Moore, Lisbon, J. T. Croxall, East Liverpool, and Samuel Bye.

The campaign committee is to be composed of all county candidates.

There are just three women on the county committee, Miss Rose Hill, Yellow Creek township, and Mrs. John Hutter and Mrs. Robert Young, both of East Palestine.

After the regular business of the meeting had been transacted, brief addresses were made by Mrs. Marshall Cronin and Attorney H. W. Vodrey of East Liverpool; Probate Judge Lodge Riddle of Lisbon; R. N. Chamberlain of East Palestine and C. C. White, Lisbon.

"I was selected the head of this committee without solicitation," Chairman Walker said before the meeting closed. "I want your help. I'll be fair and square and will always be willing to take your advice. Many hands make light work. I hold no animosity toward a soul in this county and I have nothing but friendship for every one."

WISE NAMED POLICE CHIEF

CANTON, O., Aug. 25.—Police Sergeant John G. Wise, was appointed acting chief of the Canton police department today by Mayor S. M. Swarts to supplant S. A. Lengel, former chief, who was removed yesterday by the mayor on charges of bungling the Mellett murder case, associating with law violators and neglect of duty.

Wise, who is a young war veteran, has been termed the "most honest man in the police department," and in his work on the Mellett slaying has gathered valuable evidence.

Ruling Announced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The interstate commerce commission today held that the proposal of the railroads to increase the freight rate on iron and steel articles, imported in carloads from New Orleans and other gulf ports, except Texas, with its restriction to lines east of the Mississippi river, was justified.

NEW HIGH RECORD SET IN APPEALED CASE OF DEPOSED POLICE CHIEF

Fifty-nine Persons Subpoened to Appear for Examination Today While 96 Others Will Report Tomorrow—Hearing Resumed at 9:30 O'clock This Morning When Fogo is Recalled.

HEARING IS HALTED FREQUENTLY AS JUDGE SPENCE QUESTIONS WITNESSES

Acting Police-Chief Newton Asserts That "I Don't Want the Job; I Have Another One Waiting for Me," When Placed Upon Stand Today—Court Adjourns at 11:30 for Lunch.

Columbiana county common pleas court records to date in the matter of number of witnesses in any one case will be shattered when the appeal hearing of former Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville, is brought to a conclusion before Judge W. H. Spence, it was indicated today.

Subpoenas have been issued for 229 witnesses in the hearing. Of this number 59 were scheduled for questioning today and 96 more have been ordered to report for examination on Thursday.

A. L. Newton, Wellsville's acting chief of police following Fultz's removal, was the chief witness for the prosecution as the hearing was resumed this morning.

Shows Police Manual.

"I don't want Fultz's job," asserted Newton, while he was being questioned by the court. "I have another job waiting for me and I'm not trying to get the place."

Newton had previously told Judge Spence that he was the oldest man on the force, and eligible for the appointment as head of the department.

The Fultz case was resumed at 9:35 this morning when Mayor W. L. Fogo was recalled to the stand and was asked to identify the fire and police manual of the city of Wellsville, pages 25 to 29, inclusive, referring to police duties. The court told counsel that it was necessary to show how the book was formed before it could be admitted.

"You have had all the time you wanted to prepare the case," the court informed Attorney S. W. Crawford. "It's an easy matter to show whether rules have been adopted by the civil service commission." Mayor Fogo then left the stand.

Sisters Are Called.

Lindy Schmidt, a sister of "Ike" Freeman, was examined by Attorney Crawford and testified that Mandy Edwards had got one dollar after she voted last November.

Dora Schmidt, another sister of Freeman's, was informed by the court during the early part of her examination that if money was given anyone for voting, that the witness would not be compelled to testify if she was in any way connected with a violation of law and her testimony would incriminate her.

She said that she had talked to Mayor Fogo at city hall after Chief Newton went to her house and hold her the mayor wanted "us over there." She testified that her brother had been arrested many times.

Rules Against Testimony.

Mayor Fogo was again recalled to the stand and testified that the woman had been subpoened and that he had never talked to her.

The direct examination of Joseph Carney, who sold the Gem Moving Picture theatre in East End, East Liverpool, to Fultz, was cut short by the court who said that "this may be omitted."

Counsel for Mayor Fogo was bringing out the fact that Carney had sold the theatre to Fultz.

"He might be engaged in a hundred lines of business outside of chief of police but this does not enter into the case. The evidence is not competent," the court said to Attorney Crawford.

"The court does not seek to prevent you from showing his duties about the city of Wellsville.

Carney then left the stand, there being no cross-examination.

WAGE WAR ON BARBERRY BUSH

Government Men Here to Combat Black Rust.

The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of plant industry, co-operating with state agricultural and other agencies, is carrying its campaign against the barberry bush into the East Liverpool district.

Ralph Gosen, Myron Hetzel and Harry Atwood, from the United States department of agriculture, and Paul Liles, from the state department of agriculture, have been detailed by John W. Baringer, of the federal barberry eradication forces to inspect shrubbery in the city for common barberry bushes which are alleged to spread black stem rust to grain.

The government agents started work this morning. The barberry scouts will be reuired to visit every property in the city as well as farm property in the vicinity.

The survey of East Liverpool is part of a campaign now in progress in 13 north central states. The movement is sponsored by the national and state governments with many other interested agencies participating. In accordance with a plan worked out by the United States department of agriculture, each state is being covered, county by county, the scouts visiting every property and making a thorough inspection for the presence of barberries.

The Japanese barberry, the agents say, is harmless and should not be destroyed.

Important Meet of Northside Civic Association Thursday

Business of importance will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of the Northside Civic association in the Northside fire station at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. All residents of the Northside, Maplewood and Park boulevard sections have been invited to attend.

HARMONY MARKS REPUBLICAN CONVENTION AS LEADERS PREDICT G. O. P. VICTORY AT THE POLLS IN NOVEMBER

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25.—With the declarations of United States Senator Frank Willis, Simeon Fess, and Myers Y. Cooper, Ohio's G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, and other speakers who addressed their convention still ringing in their ears, and the promises of strictest economy in the administration of state affairs still warm, Republicans reassembled in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium this morning to adopt their platform and complete plans for their campaigning preliminary to the November election.

The opening session yesterday afternoon at which Senator Fess sounded the party keynote, was marked by unequalled enthusiasm. Committees appointed in the earlier hours functioned like carefully designed machinery, and went through their business rapidly, speakers sounded the party's sentiments on the vital topics of the day and all was ready for the submission of the platform when the convention adjourned last night.

Closest harmony marked the convention and there was not a contest in the drafting of the planks for the platform upon which the candidates will seek election this fall. Meanwhile the committee working on the financial management of the campaigns went forward in its work.

Fess praised the National Administration's Tariff and Immigration policies and lauded the handling by President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of the financial problems, pointing out that, as a result of their able services, the national debt was reduced to $19,500,000,000 from $26,500,000,000 during the past five years of Republican administration.

Fess predicted that, barring Democratic trifling, the entire debt will be wiped out within the next thirty years.

Senator Willis stressed the present era of business prosperity, contrasting employment, business and industrial conditions today with those prevailing when the late President Harding was inaugurated five years ago. He referred to the refusal of Democrats to vote for Woman Suffrage, and predicted that "under Republican leadership, the United States will not become a member of the League of Nations, or any other super-government."

Cooper said the pre-primary campaign was a clean one, voiced belief that the entire Republican ticket in Ohio will be elected this fall and promised to put into the business of government the same principles that made for success "in my private enterprise and those you use in yours."

Mrs. Dwight J. Peterson, Toledo, addressing the convention, telling the delegates "why I am a Republican," said Willis voted for suffrage and former Atlee Pomerene, Democratic candidate for re-election, did not. She said Governor Donahey never appointed a woman to any major position and that he refused to see women leaders for conferences relative to state conditions.

Wise, who is a young war veteran, has been termed the "most honest man in the police department," and in his work on the Mellett slaying has gathered valuable evidence.

Ruling Announced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The interstate commerce commission today held that the proposal of the railroads to increase the freight rate on iron and steel articles, imported in carloads from New Orleans and other gulf ports, except Texas, with its restriction to lines east of the Mississippi river, was justified.

NEW HIGH RECORD SET IN APPEALED CASE OF DEPOSED POLICE CHIEF

Fifty-nine Persons Subpoened to Appear for Examination Today While 96 Others Will Report Tomorrow—Hearing Resumed at 9:30 O'clock This Morning When Fogo is Recalled.

HEARING IS HALTED FREQUENTLY AS JUDGE SPENCE QUESTIONS WITNESSES

Acting Police-Chief Newton Asserts That "I Don't Want the Job; I Have Another One Waiting for Me," When Placed Upon Stand Today—Court Adjourns at 11:30 for Lunch.

Columbiana county common pleas court records to date in the matter of number of witnesses in any one case will be shattered when the appeal hearing of former Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville, is brought to a conclusion before Judge W. H. Spence, it was indicated today.

Subpoenas have been issued for 229 witnesses in the hearing. Of this number 59 were scheduled for questioning today and 96 more have been ordered to report for examination on Thursday.

A. L. Newton, Wellsville's acting chief of police following Fultz's removal, was the chief witness for the prosecution as the hearing was resumed this morning.

Shows Police Manual.

"I don't want Fultz's job," asserted Newton, while he was being questioned by the court. "I have another job waiting for me and I'm not trying to get the place."

Newton had previously told Judge Spence that he was the oldest man on the force, and eligible for the appointment as head of the department.

The Fultz case was resumed at 9:35 this morning when Mayor W. L. Fogo was recalled to the stand and was asked to identify the fire and police manual of the city of Wellsville, pages 25 to 29, inclusive, referring to police duties. The court told counsel that it was necessary to show how the book was formed before it could be admitted.

"You have had all the time you wanted to prepare the case," the court informed Attorney S. W. Crawford. "It's an easy matter to show whether rules have been adopted by the civil service commission." Mayor Fogo then left the stand.

Sisters Are Called.

Lindy Schmidt, a sister of "Ike" Freeman, was examined by Attorney Crawford and testified that Mandy Edwards had got one dollar after she voted last November.

Dora Schmidt, another sister of Freeman's, was informed by the court during the early part of her examination that if money was given anyone for voting, that the witness would not be compelled to testify if she was in any way connected with a violation of law and her testimony would incriminate her.

She said that she had talked to Mayor Fogo at city hall after Chief Newton went to her house and hold her, the mayor wanted "us over there." She testified that her brother had been arrested many times.

Rules Against Testimony.

Mayor Fogo was again recalled to the stand and testified that the woman had been subpoened and that he had never talked to her.

The direct examination of Joseph Carney, who sold the Gem Moving Picture theatre in East End, East Liverpool, to Fultz, was cut short by the court who said that "this may be omitted."

Counsel for Mayor Fogo was bringing out the fact that Carney had sold the theatre to Fultz.

"He might be engaged in a hundred lines of business outside of chief of police but this does not enter into the case. The evidence is not competent," the court said to Attorney Crawford.

"The court does not seek to prevent you from showing his duties about the city of Wellsville.

Carney then left the stand, there being no cross-examination.

Government Men Here to Combat Black Rust.

The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of plant industry, co-operating with state agricultural and other agencies, is carrying its campaign against the barberry bush into the East Liverpool district.

Ralph Gosen, Myron Hetzel and Harry Atwood, from the United States department of agriculture, and Paul Liles, from the state department of agriculture, have been detailed by John W. Baringer, of the federal barberry eradication forces to inspect shrubbery in the city for common barberry bushes which are alleged to spread black stem rust to grain.

The government agents started work this morning. The barberry scouts will be reuired to visit every property in the city as well as farm property in the vicinity.

The survey of East Liverpool is part of a campaign now in progress in 13 north central states. The movement is sponsored by the national and state governments with many other interested agencies participating. In accordance with a plan worked out by the United States department of agriculture, each state is being covered, county by county, the scouts visiting every property and making a thorough inspection for the presence of barberries.

The Japanese barberry, the agents say, is harmless and should not be destroyed.

Important Meet of Northside Civic Association Thursday

Business of importance will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of the Northside Civic association in the Northside fire station at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. All residents of the Northside, Maplewood and Park boulevard sections have been invited to attend.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25.—With the declarations of United States Senator Frank Willis, Simeon Fess, and Myers Y. Cooper, Ohio's G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, and other speakers who addressed their convention still ringing in their ears, and the promises of strictest economy in the administration of state affairs still warm, Republicans reassembled in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium this morning to adopt their platform and complete plans for their campaigning preliminary to the November election.

The opening session yesterday afternoon at which Senator Fess sounded the party keynote, was marked by unequalled enthusiasm. Committees appointed in the earlier hours functioned like carefully designed machinery, and went through their business rapidly, speakers sounded the party's sentiments on the vital topics of the day and all was ready for the submission of the platform when the convention adjourned last night.

Closest harmony marked the convention and there was not a contest in the drafting of the planks for the platform upon which the candidates will seek election this fall. Meanwhile the committee working on the financial management of the campaigns went forward in its work.

Fess praised the National Administration's Tariff and Immigration policies and lauded the handling by President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of the financial problems, pointing out that, as a result of their able services, the national debt was reduced to $19,500,000,000 from $26,500,000,000 during the past five years of Republican administration.

Fess predicted that, barring Democratic trifling, the entire debt will be wiped out within the next thirty years.

Senator Willis stressed the present era of business prosperity, contrasting employment, business and industrial conditions today with those prevailing when the late President Harding was inaugurated five years ago. He referred to the refusal of Democrats to vote for Woman Suffrage, and predicted that "under Republican leadership, the United States will not become a member of the League of Nations, or any other super-government."

Cooper said the pre-primary campaign was a clean one, voiced belief that the entire Republican ticket in Ohio will be elected this fall and promised to put into the business of government the same principles that made for success "in my private enterprise and those you use in yours."

Mrs. Dwight J. Peterson, Toledo, addressing the convention, telling the delegates "why I am a Republican," said Willis voted for suffrage and former Atlee Pomerene, Democratic candidate for re-election, did not. She said Governor Donahey never appointed a woman to any major position and that he refused to see women leaders for conferences relative to state conditions.

SOLONS TO ACT ON SEWER PLAN

Will Hold Conference With Traction Company.

Looking forward to rushing local sewer construction projects to completion at the earliest possible moment, city solons will put the plan up to the officials of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company and then will meet on Monday night in an adjourned session to decide upon their course of action.

That immediate action is necessary, in view of conditions in the west end of the city over the week-end following one of the heaviest rain storms in recent years, was the opinion of councilmen and city officials.

As a result, members of the council street and light committee, Engineer McGill, Safety-Service Director G. P. Ashley and Solicitor Samuel C. Luccock will hold a conference with representatives of the traction company, within the next few days, if possible, and will ask the car company how much of the cost it will bear in installing the needed sewers at the Commerce and Seventeenth street intersection and in Twentieth street.

That the McQueen's run storm sewer might have carried away the near deluge of water that swept down Saturday night had the city been able to clear it out properly was the opinion of several councilmen at last night's session. It was pointed out that the city had cleaned out part of the sewer last year, going as far as its money would carry the work. When funds ran out, work had to stop and at this point, it was said, the break occurred.

Construction of another breaker in McQueen's Run hollow as an additional preventative measure met with approval of council. The one breaker now in use was practically covered with rock and debris Sunday and although slightly twisted stood up well under the battering it received.

A 24-inch sewer to carry away the Commerce street surplus would cost $24,000, solons were told, and a 36-inch pipe would cost $10,000 additional.

FERNLEAF CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Games and music were the diversions. Contests were won by Mrs. John Hand and Mrs. Nona Moorehead, the consolation award going to Mrs. William Wilson.

Mrs. O. Givens rendered a number of piano selections. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Dwight Moorehead and Mrs. Fern Fawcett.

At the close of the affair a four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Nancy Kenney and Mrs. Denton Thomas.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Ed McIntosh, Eleventh street.

Sunday School Class Meets.

Mrs. Walter Weldon was hostess to members of the Loyal Women's Sunday school class of the First Christian church last evening at her home in Chester avenue. The monthly business session was followed by a social hour.

Undergoes Operation.

Miss Beatrice McQueen, of Seventh street, has been removed to the East Liverpool city hospital for an operation for the removal of her tonsils.

MRS. J. W. LAWSON FUNERAL FRIDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Lawson, of this city, who died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edith Chapman, in Cleveland, will be held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of a son, J. C. Lawson, in Riverside avenue.

The services will be in charge of Rev. Frank H. Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased had been a lifelong member.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Although it was originally planned to bring the body to Wellsville last night, the removal will not be made until this evening.

Mrs. Lawson was born in 1845 in Madison township. She lived there until her marriage and afterward resided in Wellsville. Her husband died three years ago.

CITY MAY CUT OFF "ARCADIA"

Set Date for Hearing on Proposed Move.

If there are any reasons for not repealing the ordinance passed by council several months ago, making the "Arcadia" sub-division in the west end of the city a part of the municipality, solons will hear them in open session on the night of September 21.

At their adjourned meeting last night, council decided upon this course of hearing protests, if any, before formally taking action repealing the measure which made the sub-division a part of the city.

In an ordinance acted on several months ago by council, "Arcadia" was added to the city prior to the sale by auction of a number of lots there.

In recent weeks, councilmen have brought to the attention of city officials the fact that it would practically be impossible to install sewers and make other improvements such as might be demanded by persons who bought lots in "Arcadia," in view of the city's limited finances, although no such requests have developed until the present time.

What money the city can obtain, solons pointed out, is badly needed in the construction of sewers and other important improvement work in the city proper.

CHESTER TOSSERS HERE THURSDAY

The Chester City Industrial League club, leading the race down the second half, will stack up against the Wellsville nine tomorrow evening at Central park.

With "Mike" Cebula on the mound, Chester last night shut out Laughlin, the first half winners, 2 to 0, Cebula allowing three hits. Wilde or Stoffell may be assigned to mound duty against the locals tomorrow.

Widower Congratulated

"Since my wife's death, five years ago, I have suffered greatly from stomach and liver trouble and gas attacks. I lost over 50 lbs., and at times was as yellow as saffron. My doctors could not help me. Six doses of MAYR'S have entirely cured me. I have regained my weight and every one is congratulating me how well I look." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway.

Meeting of the O. N. O. club, which was to have been held this evening at the home of Mrs. J. Brown, in St. Clair avenue, East Liverpool, has been postponed until Wednesday, September 8.

WOMEN ARE IN MINORITY

VIENNA.—With a population of a little more than six millions, Austria now has 238,690 more women than men. It will take about eighteen years to even things between the sexes in the country, it is estimated, although the birth rate of boys has been ten per cent greater than girls during the last six years.

This condition, which is due to the war, is reverse of that of pre-war Austria, which, with a population almost three times as great, had about 400,000 surplus men.

LEGION SEEKS TO GET OUT VOTERS

26 State Departments Pledge Co-operation in Campaign.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., August 25.—Twenty-six American Legion state departments have pledged their active support in the attempt of the National American commission of the American Legion, working in conjunction with the National Civic federation, to stimulate participation of erstwhile neglectful citizens in party politics, and to awaken the dormant vote of the country at the general election Nov. 2.

"The movement is growing with a sudden, irresistible force, and letters from state Legion officials, many of whom at this time are busily engaged with their state conventions, are arriving daily offering to do everything in their power to aid in arousing men and women to their duties of citizenship," Frank C. Cross, National director of the American commission of the Legion, said today.

"Editors throughout the country are commenting on the huge possibilities for good that the movement will do and are commending the legion for tackling the problem, which all realize is a difficult one. But the Legion never hesitates at difficulties, and what could be more inspiring than to know we have a part in bringing out the controlling force in the election of our public officials? If we can awaken the dormant voter we will have awakened the honest voter, not the one herded to the polls by selfish bosses. Some editors even declare that this great movement spells the doom of bossism."

POSTAL SERVICE IS IMPROVED

VIENNA.—The Austrian postal service is more efficient today with thirty-five per cent less employees than it was in 1920, says a departmental report. When the League of Nations insisted that the government rid itself of thousands of unneeded wage earners as the initial step toward monetary stability, the postal department was attacked first. Altogether 14,777 postal employees have been discharged from the former 40,000 employed.

COUNCIL HOLDS SPECIAL MEET

Tax Levy Is Confirmed by Solons; School Board Acts.

Members of council met last night in the municipal building for the purpose of confirming the annual tax levy adopted two weeks ago at the regular session. The budget as approved will be submitted to the state tax commission at Charleston.

Hancock county levy amounting to 20 cents on the $100 valuation, will continue throughout the ensuing year as a result of the action taken at a meeting of the county court held at New Cumberland.

Two weeks ago the commissioners surveyed their prospective expenditures for the coming year and decided that no change was necessary. Yesterday, after the customary two weeks interim, they met and confirmed their action.

The levy by districts follows:

PANHANDLE HERDS GIVEN AWARDS

Two dairy herds in the northern panhandle gained state recognition in the annual survey of the department of dairy husbandry of West Virginia College of Agriculture for the year ending July 1, 1926. Fifteen herds were picked as outstanding in the state, and the Mt. de Chantal farm of Wheeling gained sixth place with 17 Holsteins averaging 335-7 pounds of butter fat. S. P. Wood, of West Alexander, Pa., was awarded eleventh place in the standing with nine Holsteins that averaged 315-5 pounds of butter fat production.

Armstrong Jones, a Berkeley county farmer, carried top honors this year, when his herd of nine Jerseys showed an average production of 416.6 pounds of butter fat. No herd consisting of less than five cows was permitted to enter the competition. A beautifully engraved silver loving cup will be presented to Mr. Jones this fall, the cup to become the permanent possession of any entry winning the same three times.

SPUD INSPECTION PROVES SUCCESS

West Virginia potatoes, given inspection under the new arrangement between the state and federal governments, have received a warm welcome on the leading markets of the country since the movement of the "Mountain State Brand" started early this month. The price brought by the West Virginia potatoes, properly graded and found to be up to the standard of the "U. S. No. 1 Grade," were very satisfactory to the growers in every case, according to the state department of agriculture.

Although this is the first year that West Virginia potato growers have ever secured federal-state inspection of their potatoes, they have already convinced themselves that they can compete with the finest potatoes grown anywhere. This does not mean, of course, that any kind of potatoes can be thrown on the market, but when carefully graded and prepared for market so they can pass the U. S. grades, they can command the kind of prices that justify the additional care that they gave their potatoes.

KIWANIS STATE MEET SCHEDULED

Charles W. Gold, of Greensboro, N. C., international trustee of the Kiwanis International organization, and Fred C. W. Parker, international secretary and editor of the Kiwanis magazine, will be two of the speakers at the West Virginia district Kiwanis convention in Charleston on September 27 and 28, it was announced yesterday.

Some of the plans for entertaining the club are as yet tentative, it was said. About 1,000 delegates from all over the state are expected to be in Charleston for the meeting.

Many of the Kiwanians will make the trip by motor. It has been announced that a "motorcade" of Kiwanians and their families will form in the northern part of the state and proceed down the Ohio river and pass through Huntington. Special trains or coaches have always been provided towns where it is not convenient to come by automobile.

$46,000,000 Tube Under River Nearing Completion.

TOLLS PAY BILL

New Route Will Have 3,800 Cars Per Hour Capacity.

NEW YORK—The new Holland Vehicular Tunnel connecting New York with Jersey City under the Hudson River is practically completed and will be thrown open to the public the early part of next year.

Imagine, if you will, two spacious, well-lighted, tile-walled caverns, incased in a tube two miles long, with 1900 vehicles bulging forth at either end every hour, and you have some conception of thsi stupendous engineering accomplishment.

There are vehicle tunnels in London and other European cities, but none approaches the Holland Tunnel in length and traffic capacity.

With 3,800 vehicles an hour rolling through the two twenty-foot roadways, the engineers were confronted with the extremely difficult problem of providing a ventilating system which would properly eliminate the resulting dangerous exhaust gases.

Ventilating Scheme.

Because of the tunnel's length and the presence of these gases, the ordinary method of ventilating a tunnel, blowing in it at one end and out the other, was found impracticable. The amount of air necessary to dissipate the gases would have created a veritable gale whichc would have been uncomfortable and even dangerous.

Therefore, a plan was hit upon whereby air comes into the tunnel roadway through continuous openings on either side of the roadway at from ten to fifteen foot intervals, leading from fresh air ducts under the road way. The air mixes with the exhaust gases and they gradually rise and are eliminated through openings leading into exhaust ducts. This method also minimizes the smoke danger from possible fires, as tests have shown that smoke cannot spread more than thirty feet on each side of its source because of the upward course of the air currents in the tunnel.

Tolls To Pay Bill.

It is estimated that it will take ten minutes for pleasure cars to negotiate the tunnel with fifteen minutes allowed for trucks. By the present ferry rout, trans-Hudson motorists must consume a half an hour when traffic is at its lightest and as much as two and three hours on Sundays when tourists abound.

Ole Singstad, chief engineer, attributes the success of the project to the work of its first chief engineer Holland, for whom the tunnel was named. Holland died October 27, 1924, two days before the New York and New Jersey headings were scheduled to meet under the river. He was succeeded as chief engineer by M. H. Freeman who also died less than five months later.

It is expected that the tunnel will soon earn its cost, $46,000,000, by revenue from toll charges.

Austria plans to spend $30,000,000 in improving its telephone system.

Arctic Imagination

Lincoln Ellsworth, the young sportsman-philanthropist who accompanied Amundsen and Nobile on their flight over the Pole, has kept modestly in the background since that exploit. Recently, he gave a little talk to some American newspaper men that is all the more worth recording because of the unseemly squabble that his associates have gotten into. Listen to this:

"As the snow-crowned peaks of Spitzbergen lost their identity in the deepening blue of the southern sky, civilization seemed to recede beyond recall, and we hung like a speck suspended at the heart of an oppressive mystery. A sense of utter solitude took possession of us.

'Il found myself hanging over the side of the fuselage, lost in wonder and amazement at a world that God had seemingly forgotten.

"As to the value of the flight above its appeal to the imagination, only time can tell."

It is good to know that there was a man in that airship with the heart of a poet, and to have authentic expression of such a mood as may come to many of us hereafter, when Arctic flights become more common. If the Arctic is never good for anything else, it will serve to stir the human imagination.

Hundred Billions In Home Trade

The total volume of American business during the current year, the National Association of Retail Credit Men estimates, will exceed $100,000,000,000. Just say that over slowly—"one hundred billion dollars."

That is still more eloquent testimony to the value of the domestic market. Compared with that stupendous total, the greatest foreign trade on record was a mere mouthful. Exports and imports together reached about $13,000,000,000 in the big year of 1920; and for a good deal of that, be it remembered, the buyers have not yet paid. Ordinarily our foreign trade amounts to seven or eight billions.

We sell to ourselves more than 12 times as much as we sell to all the rest of the world together. When we prospering now, it is due pre-eminently to the fact that we get rich by selling to ourselves. And the domestic market is still far from being fully developed.

Foreign trade opportunities are important; yet for every such opportunity abroad there are 20 right here at home, for the man who has vision to see them and enterprise to seek them.

A Royal Cyclist

Two policemen, halting a lone motor-cyclist racing toward Brussels the other day, when they asked to look at his driver's license, found to their chagrin that the cyclist was King Albert.

"You did right to stop me," said the good-natured king. "It is your duty. But I am a little late for work." So he sped on toward his palace.

Albert is economizing, to set a good example to his people. Given dictatorial powers, he is doing his best to restore his country to prosperity through thrift and hard work. So he lets his three royal automobiles stand in the garage unused, while he rides a plebeian motorcycle.

The moral effect is probably good. Yet is it sound business policy? The big expense of an automobile, as every intelligent owner knows, is the overhead expense; and the overhead is going right on with those three cars, whether the king uses them or not. Also, while snorting around on a motorcycle, he may break his royal neck, which is worth as much to the country as it is to him.

France Prospering

Ambassador Herrick, returning from France for a vacation, tells Americans that the basic economic condition of France is "splendid," that there is work for the natives and in addition 2,000,000 foreign laborers are employed there, and the country's present financial condition is most political, due to loss of confidence in the government.

Americans are glad to hear this. It might help matters, though, if the ambassador would tell it to the French, who have been imagining themselves poor, downtrodden and helpless, and blaming all their troubles on "Shylock Uncle Sam" because he wants to collect fifty cents on the dollar in 62 years.

Silent Building

Electric welding's the thing. In a test at Washington, made by the Bureau of Standards, two plates of a big steel girder were joined together silently, and so solidly that when a crushing machine was used to test them, the girder buckled while the joint held. Electric rivets beat steel rivets, for strength and quietness both.

So, they say, we shall soon have silent construction of steel buildings. Skyscrapers will rise as quickly as Solomon's Temple is famed to have risen. That will be a great boon to the nerves of city-dwellers.

Now is the time when the amateur gardener goes out manfully and hoes the flowers out of his weed garden.

Mickey (Himself) McGuire— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Manhattan is a trifle annoyed with its summer desolation. This summer it was worse than ever before. Week ends gave it such a deserted village look that a clocker discovered pedestrianic traffic had slowed up 75 per cent one Saturday afternoon.

"To be seen in town" has become a social gauche comparable to tan oxfords with evening dress. And the usual week-end from Friday night to Monday morning was lengthened from Thursday night to Tuesday morning. It was not an elegant gesture for business.

Coupled with this was the exodus to Europe and resorts a little nearer New York. The idea is being advanced that if New Yorkers by leaving town give the impression summer weather is intolerable how can they really expect visitors to come here?

In other words a "Stay at Home" movement is being urged. Big sums are to be expended by awakened civic boosting organizations to dispel the illustion New York is not a summer town. As a matter of fact there is no city in the world offering such advantages.

So-called "heat waves" are rare. New York nights are almost invariably cool. The finest bathing beaches in the world are short distances away. Hotel rates go down instead of up. There are the best of summery theatrical oferings and outdoor amusement parks and eating places.

The truth is that New York has paid no attention to her summer attractions until merchants began to howl. Modern cooling and ventilating systems have given hotels, stores and public amusement places a comfort beyond that of any other city.

It is the old time New Yorkers who appreciate the town's summer virtues. The mansions of the newly rich are shuttered but in old Murray Hill and other aristocratic purlieus people have long since learned summer is the most delightful season of all.

A leading man was recently sent a huge basket of flowers on an opening night. He was touched and in his dressing room said: "This is the first time in my life I ever received flowers."

"Don't let it discourage you," chirped the comedienne, "you will probably also get a few at the finish."

The recent passing of E. E. Thomas, of the Morning Telegraph, recalls a vivid epoch in the progress of automobile speed. Mr. Thomas was once arrested for driving his car beyond the six mile an hour speed law.

It may be broad humor but I think the most hilarious touch I have seen in the theatre was an one of those street back drops of a musical comedy. A sign read: "The Eagle Laundry—We Wash Your Eagle Free."

Tommy Lyman, Broadway's sweet singer, is on his way back to Broadway. Tommy is a pale faced young man with a wistful voice who roams from table to table in the cafes of Paris, London and New York singing of soft moonlight nights and faithless lovers. He is called "The Tubercular Tenor" although his capacious lungs are sound as a dollar. He is a glum and silent figure when not singing. He neither smokes or drinks.

There is also another silent figure of the night clubs. He is called "The Turk" for no apparent reason. He always comes alone, immaculately dressed and usually spends is time pencilling odd hieroglyphics on the white table cloth.

The Navy's Peacetime Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 25.—The science of navigation, the charting of the oceans, and the operations of naval strategy have all undergone very great changes since the World War and because of inventions during the war or resulting from the War. The United States Navy has occupied an advanced position in bringing the new discoveries into practical use, and many of the modern inventions are the work of officers of the Navy.

The sonic depth-finder, the radio compass, and the radio-acoustic device, are all either Naval inventions or have been developed by the Navy. The air navigating skill which enabled Commander Byrd to fly over the North Pole was a development of naval science since the War, and equally important work has been done afloat.

During recent the Navy dirigible Los Angeles has made a number of flights along the Atlantic Coast, engaged in calibrating radio compass stations. This statement has been accepted by the public as no doubt a proper thing for the big airship to be doing, but only those trained in radio navigation aids have known what it really meant.

The extent to which the radio compass method has come to be used by floating craft to determine their positions has grown until it might safely be called the modern method of position finding. It is quite possible that the day will come when navigators no longer consult the sun and stars at all in locating their positions at sea, but rely wholly on radio waves from shore stations, which no doubt will come to be visually recorded on a luminous chart by some automatic system.

The Navy's radio compass stations, established at the close of the War and steadily extended, gave to ships at sea 150,000 records of their position last year, and this increased use of the radio compass service has helped develop the accuracy of the work. The one method of testing absolutely the accuracy of the work is by calibration on a visible object with which the station is in radio contact.

Thus while stations may be calibrated with a vessel afloat, the range of action of an airship in a complete circle around the radio compass station is much more advantageous. The experts in charge of the work also have wanted for some time to get some special checks on radio compass locations of aircraft in order to make certain on several points of difference between air locating and sea locating.

The Process of Calibrating.

The process of calibrating the radio compass with the airship Los Angeles involves two simultaneous readings over consecutive intervals of time. A visual bearing on the ship is made at the same instant a radio signal arrives, and this is repeated as the airship moves in a circle around the compass station. Deflections between the exact visible bearing, and the radio compass record, are thereby carefully plotted, and the station has an exact record of any deflections in its radio compass bearings.

The work done this summer on two trips of the Los Angeles, one along the New England Coast as far as Cape Cod, and another south from her New Jersey base to the North Carolina coast, has been conducted on a basis of the airship's operating in a circle on 15 miles radious from the radio compass being tested. A continuous radio signal was sent from the airship, except at intervals for receiving radio messages from the land station.

At the compass station one receiver is kept steadily at the task of recording the signals from the ship and the position recorded by radio compass, with the time of each reading. Located beside the compass coil is a transit, with another observer taking visual records of the position of the airship and recording these, with the time of each. These two recorders then plot their results and the comparison gives the complete record of deviation of the radio compass findings from precise visual bearings.

While position finding for ships at sea, and especially coastwise shipping in foggy or bad weather, was the first idea back of the Navy radio compass stations, the assistance to air navigation is likely in time to be an equally useful purpose. With the cooperation of the Hydrographic Office, which is charting landmarks along probable coastwise airways, the compass stations will be equipped to give aircraft which is radio-equipped the data on its position in all sorts of weather conditions and regardless of visibility.

While the mammoth airship has been working along the east coast on radio compass calibrations, another branch of the government service has been at work for many months on the west coast with coastal surveys conducted by the aid of radio and under-water sound waves. The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey has had two of its vessels, the Guide and the Pioneer, working off the coast of Oregon and Washington, which have been charted and mapped out to the depth of more than a mile.

Radio Acoustic Scheme.

The radio-acoustic scheme used by these ships is now being added to the equipment of the U. S. S. Lydonia, the largest Coast and Geodetic Survey ship on the east coast. This equipment is designed to give these ship their exact position off-shore in any sort of weather, so that they can go ahead making soundings and not have to wait for clear days to keep the position record. The principle involved lies in timing underwater sound waves between ship and shore, and recording the time by radio flash. Since the rate of sound waves undersea water is fixed at 4,800 feet per second, the

ABSOLUTELY NO REASON FOR IT.

Harry Beresford, the actor, was born in England but has lived long enough in America practically to have recovered from it. One fall a friend sent him two tickets for one of the world's series ball games at the Polo Grounds, and he took with him to the game a newly arrived Englishman, a distant kinsman and also an actor.

The stranger sat patiently enough through seven innings. The whole riotous proceeding was a puzzle to him but he was too polite to mention it. Then, when the mighty crowd, following the baseball custom, stood up to stretch, he rose, too, and started for the aisle.

"Hold on!" said Beresford. "It ain't over yet."

"I was only going to get a cup of tea, old chap," explained his guest.

"You can't get tea now," said Beresford; "the game goes right on."

"You mean to say there is no tea being served?" demanded the Englishman in amazement.

"Certainly not!" said Beresford.

"Well," demanded the other, "what then, is the purpose of the bally game?"

Arctic Imagination

Lincoln Ellsworth, the young sportsman-philanthropist who accompanied Amundsen and Nobile on their flight over the Pole, has kept modestly in the background since that exploit. Recently, he gave a little talk to some American newspaper men that is all the more worth recording because of the unseemly squabble that his associates have gotten into. Listen to this:

"As the snow-crowned peaks of Spitzbergen lost their identity in the deepening blue of the southern sky, civilization seemed to recede beyond recall, and we hung like a speck suspended at the heart of an oppressive mystery. A sense of utter solitude took possession of us.

'Il found myself hanging over the side of the fuselage, lost in wonder and amazement at a world that God had seemingly forgotten.

"As to the value of the flight above its appeal to the imagination, only time can tell."

It is good to know that there was a man in that airship with the heart of a poet, and to have authentic expression of such a mood as may come to many of us hereafter, when Arctic flights become more common. If the Arctic is never good for anything else, it will serve to stir the human imagination.

Hundred Billions In Home Trade

The total volume of American business during the current year, the National Association of Retail Credit Men estimates, will exceed $100,000,000,000. Just say that over slowly—"one hundred billion dollars."

That is still more eloquent testimony to the value of the domestic market. Compared with that stupendous total, the greatest foreign trade on record was a mere mouthful. Exports and imports together reached about $13,000,000,000 in the big year of 1920; and for a good deal of that, be it remembered, the buyers have not yet paid. Ordinarily our foreign trade amounts to seven or eight billions.

We sell to ourselves more than 12 times as much as we sell to all the rest of the world together. When we prospering now, it is due pre-eminently to the fact that we get rich by selling to ourselves. And the domestic market is still far from being fully developed.

Foreign trade opportunities are important; yet for every such opportunity abroad there are 20 right here at home, for the man who has vision to see them and enterprise to seek them.

A Royal Cyclist

Two policemen, halting a lone motor-cyclist racing toward Brussels the other day, when they asked to look at his driver's license, found to their chagrin that the cyclist was King Albert.

"You did right to stop me," said the good-natured king. "It is your duty. But I am a little late for work." So he sped on toward his palace.

Albert is economizing, to set a good example to his people. Given dictatorial powers, he is doing his best to restore his country to prosperity through thrift and hard work. So he lets his three royal automobiles stand in the garage unused, while he rides a plebeian motorcycle.

The moral effect is probably good. Yet is it sound business policy? The big expense of an automobile, as every intelligent owner knows, is the overhead expense; and the overhead is going right on with those three cars, whether the king uses them or not. Also, while snorting around on a motorcycle, he may break his royal neck, which is worth as much to the country as it is to him.

France Prospering

Ambassador Herrick, returning from France for a vacation, tells Americans that the basic economic condition of France is "splendid," that there is work for the natives and in addition 2,000,000 foreign laborers are employed there, and the country's present financial condition is most political, due to loss of confidence in the government.

Americans are glad to hear this. It might help matters, though, if the ambassador would tell it to the French, who have been imagining themselves poor, downtrodden and helpless, and blaming all their troubles on "Shylock Uncle Sam" because he wants to collect fifty cents on the dollar in 62 years.

Silent Building

Electric welding's the thing. In a test at Washington, made by the Bureau of Standards, two plates of a big steel girder were joined together silently, and so solidly that when a crushing machine was used to test them, the girder buckled while the joint held. Electric rivets beat steel rivets, for strength and quietness both.

So, they say, we shall soon have silent construction of steel buildings. Skyscrapers will rise as quickly as Solomon's Temple is famed to have risen. That will be a great boon to the nerves of city-dwellers.

Now is the time when the amateur gardener goes out manfully and hoes the flowers out of his weed garden.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Manhattan is a trifle annoyed with its summer desolation. This summer it was worse than ever before. Week ends gave it such a deserted village look that a clocker discovered pedestrianic traffic had slowed up 75 per cent one Saturday afternoon.

"To be seen in town" has become a social gauche comparable to tan oxfords with evening dress. And the usual week-end from Friday night to Monday morning was lengthened from Thursday night to Tuesday morning. It was not an elegant gesture for business.

Coupled with this was the exodus to Europe and resorts a little nearer New York. The idea is being advanced that if New Yorkers by leaving town give the impression summer weather is intolerable how can they really expect visitors to come here?

In other words a "Stay at Home" movement is being urged. Big sums are to be expended by awakened civic boosting organizations to dispel the illustion New York is not a summer town. As a matter of fact there is no city in the world offering such advantages.

So-called "heat waves" are rare. New York nights are almost invariably cool. The finest bathing beaches in the world are short distances away. Hotel rates go down instead of up. There are the best of summery theatrical oferings and outdoor amusement parks and eating places.

The truth is that New York has paid no attention to her summer attractions until merchants began to howl. Modern cooling and ventilating systems have given hotels, stores and public amusement places a comfort beyond that of any other city.

Miss Loa Johns of Zanesville, Is Bride Of Albert Bowersox

The marriage of Miss Loa Johns, daughter of S. B. Johns of Zanesville, and Albert Bowersox was solemnized Saturday evening, August 21, in the home of Rev. A. H. Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The bride was graduated from the Schauffler Institute of Cleveland in 1922 and later was connected with the Associated Charities of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowersox were honor guests Sunday at a dinner given by the bride's sister, Mrs. C. A. Schell. After August 26 they will be at home in a newly furnished home at 1017 Bradshaw avenue.

Plan Class Organization.

An organization will be formed at the first annual reunion of the class of 1925 and 26 of the East Liverpool High school, when the members will be entertained at a basket picnic at Rock Springs park, Friday evening at 6 o'clock. Officers will be elected at this time.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Misses Edna Clouse, Marjorie Shope, Evelyn Carmen and Edith Boyd; Messrs. Kenneth Pyle, E. K. Bennett Jr., and Vincent Broomhall.

Wedding Anniversary.

Celebrating their forty-fifth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoff entertained a group of friends Sunday in their home on Florence street. The day was spent informally, dinner being served by the hostess. Covers were arranged for Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Hoff and sons, Clyde, Leonard, Lawrence and Paul, and daughter, Elva, of Sherard, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hoff and daughter, Hilda, and son, Dale, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Deshler and sons, Ralph, Thomas, Carl and Gordon; Mr. and Mrs. John Hoff and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoff.

Entertained at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Denver Williams entertained a group of friends at a six o'clock dinner in their home Tuesday evening near Echo Dell, honoring Mr. and Mrs. James T. Fortiner, who have just returned from an eastern honeymoon. Covers were arranged for 12 guests at the attractively decorated table, which was centered with summer flowers. During the evening a porch party was enjoyed, 12 guests being present.

Wee-Gee Club Meets.

Members of the Wee-Gee club were entertained with a weiner sizzle and corn roast last evening at the home of Mrs. Roy Thompson on Cleveland avenue. During the evening a handkerchief shower was given in honor of the birthday anniversary of Miss Dorothy Dawson. Fifteen guests were present.

Class Meeting.

The Bereau Bible class of Pleasant Heights will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, in the home of Mrs. Henry Thomas of Grandview avenue. Mrs. Charles Shaffer will be in charge of the devotionals, while Mrs. Mentor Shenkle will be in charge of the lesson.

To Install Officers.

Stratton Circle No. 49, Protected Home Circle will hold its regular meeting this evening in the Trades & Labor hall, Washington street. Installation of oficers or the coming year will take place, the work to be done by Supreme officer, Charles Barton of Sharon.

Lodge Picnic Scheduled.

A basket picnic will be held Saturday at Morado Park, Beaver Falls, when all Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges and their families of the Beaver Valley will be special guests. A program including races and other sport events, bathing and dancing will be presented during the day.

Burlingame Reunion.

The eighth annual reunion of the Burlingame family will be held on Labor Day, September 6, at the home of Joseph Burlingame, one and one-half miles south of Negley. Miss Mary Burlingame is secretary of the association.

Meeting Postponed.

There will be no meeting of the Mothers' club of the First Church of Christ during August. The next regular meeting will be held Thursday, September 23.

Corn Roast Arranged.

Members of the Luther League of St. John's Lutheran church will hold a corn roast at the Bailey farm, near the State line, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Circle To Entertain.

McCoy Circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., will entertain the Youngstown Circle tomorrow at noon, in the Sons of Veterans hall, East Sixth street. All members are invited to attend.

Missionary Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of the Orchard Grove Avenue Methodist Episcopal church was held last evening following a coverdish party held at 6 o'clock on the lawn of the home of Mrs. A. M. Burns on Orchard Grove avenue. The meeting was lead by Mrs. Herbert Crawford, who was also in charge of the devotionals. Piano selections were given by Misses Ruth Cooper, Freda Barlow, Mary Burns and Ruth Brokaw. Mrs. Wilson of Davenport, Iowa, gave talks after which a short business session was held.

The next meeting, which will be held the third Tuesday in September, will be a dues paying meeting at the home of Mrs. Howard Moninger of Orchard Grove avenue.

Juice of Lemon Whitens The Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

CUPID SETTLES SHOP RIVALRY

Barber Shop Feud Ends When "Bosses" Wed.

WORCESTER, Mass. — Cupid has settled a business rivalry here. Ernest L. Trahan, hung out his barber sign on Pleasant street and waited for the girls to come and get their hair bobbed.

Miss Jane A. Roche likewise hung out a sign just across the street telling Worcester that within was a woman's beauty shop.

Trahan watched girls enter the rival business place and Miss Roche looked to see other girls go into that Trahan shop.

Some sage once said that great minds think alike. An idea dawned on Trahan, and it apparently also dawned on Miss Roche. Though rivals, they bowed pleasantly when they met.

The idea eventually found its way into words, and the two shops were combined. Thus was born the Peacock Beauty Shope at No. 2 Foster street, with Trahan president and Miss Roche, manager.

But that doesn't end the story. Miss Roche stepped to the altar in St. Peter's church and became Mrs. Ernest L. Trahan.

POLICE CLAIM MAN DESTITUTE

Stranger Who Exploded Bomb in Pittsburgh Unidentified.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.—A foreigner in destitute circumstances exploded the bomb in the Farmers' Deposit National bank here late yesterday, which claimed two lives and injured 40 persons, according to the theory on which police were working today.

The bomb-carrier received the full force of the blast and was almost decapitated. George C. Ortmann, bank policeman, who was rushing the man when the bomb exploded, died ten minutes later in a hospital.

Police Lieut. Peter Connors, head of the homicide squad, said there was a bare possibility that the identity of the bomb hurler will be established.

Hundreds of persons viewed the body in the morgue today, but thus far none has recognized the man. The only clues police have, which may ultimately lead to identifying him, are a cheap belt buckle, initialed "L," and remnants of his clothing.

Examination of parts of the bomb picked up from the floor of the wrecked banking room showed it to be of the nitroglycerine type. Had the bomb not been on the marble floor when it exploded many more persons would have been killed, police believe.

Twenty-four persons, bank employees, depositors and passersby, were rushed to hospitals in ambulances and any means of transportation available.

After receiving first aid treatment, fifteen of the victims were taken to their homes. The condition of four others is critical, although physicians hoped all would recover.

The interior of the bank in the vicinity of the explosion was wrecked. President Coll estimated the damage to the building and bank fixtures at $150 000.

The bank opened for business as usual today.

nite arrangements for the funeral services Monday were made. It was announced that the funeral procession will start from Campbell's at Sixty-sixth street and Broadway, at 10:30 Monday morning.

The hearse, containing the body of the late motion picture star, will be followed by three hundred automobiles carrying stage and screen celebrites and close friends of Valentino.

A motorcycle police escort will precede the hearse.

Aeroplanes will fly overhead, dropping flowers on the procession. The cortage will proceed down Broadway, the street that knew "Rudy" so well before he gained his world-wide fame at Hollywood, to the actor's church at Forty-ninth street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Thousands of admirers of Rudolph Valentino assembled again today in the streets for blocks around Campbell's funeral church in Broadway in the hope of getting a two-second glimpse of the body of the famous motion picture star which is lying in state.

Several Are Injured.

They came in great numbers in spite of the fact that one hundred persons were injured late yesterday and last night when a crowd of 100,000 fought with police reserves for a glimpse of the features of the dead star. Most of the injured were women and three of them policemen. They were deluged with fragments of plate glass windows that had been pushed in or injured in the rioting in the streets.

Sidewalks and streets were littered with pocketbooks, umbrellas, furs and women's shoes when the doors of the chapel were closed at midnight and the police chased, or rather tried to chase, the people home.

Reserves Called Out.

The doors of the funeral chapel were opened at 9:30 and the crowd began to file in rapidly. They passed the casket at the rate of thirty-five a minute. The crowd was distinctly orderly this morning. It was estimated that 50,000 persons, at least, would view the body today.

Two hundred police reserves, picked men from every precinct in the city, stood guard at the chapel to prevent a repetition of yesterday's rioting.

The riotious scenes enacted at the funeral curch were without precedent in New York, in the opinion of the police. Frank Campbell, proprietor of the chapel and a veteran undertaker, said:

"I have never seen anything like it. I had something to do with the funeral of President Grant, and we thought we had huge crowds to handle, but it was nothing like this."

Counts made during the night showed that the line of people were passing the coffin, where Valentino lay in peaceful repose, at the rate of 150 a minute, or 9,000 an hour. The people filed by from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until midnight when they almost caused another riot when men were sent out with megaphones notifying them that the doors were closed.

Mussolini Sends Wreath.

This morning a huge be-ribboned wreath, inscribed "From Benito Mussolini," was beside the casket. New York Fascisti announced the premier had cabled to provide the wreath in his name.

Shortly after midnight ten men clad in the black shirts of the Fascisti, who said they represented the Fascisti league of North America, arrived and arranged to have two of their number stand guard over the coffin throughout the night, each pair standing guard two hours. They said this action had been taken upon the cabled advice of Mussolini.

Early today the body of Valentino was moved to the first floor of the funeral church to facilitate handling of the throng. It had been removed from the "gold room," upstairs.

As another huge crowd began to form, Police Commissioner George McLaughlin took personal charge of police arrangements.

Services Next Monday.

No change had been made this morning in the plan to hold the funeral service next Monday in St. Malachi's church, although an International News Service dispatch from Paris today carried a request from Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the dead screen star, that the funeral be delayed until he gets to America. He has sailed for the United States on the White Star liner Homeric.

MISSING FLYER IS LOCATED

Aviator, Missing Since Monday, Found Near Bellefonte, Pa.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Two boys, who found Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis wandering in the mountain forests between here and Lewiston, brought the missing army aviator to Bellefonte hospital today.

Hospital physicians said Lieut. Bettis was suffering from a fractured jaw and a fractured leg. Although the pilot's physical condition generally is good; it will be some time before he is able to leave the hospital, it was learned.

The boys brought Bettis here in an automobile from the mountains. He was almost exhausted from lack of food and from his harrowing experience in the treacherous Alleghenies.

At the hospital, it was said Bettis had not been questioned about the crash because his fractured jaw made it difficult for him to talk, but the boys who brought him here said his plane was wrecked.

229 Witnesses Called

said that he had drunk a bottle of beer in the office of the late Mayor Barnes, in the presence of Barnes, Chief Fultz, but that no one gave it to him.

"Now wait," the court interposed, "the questions should be connected with Fultz." "That may be excluded."

The witness couldn't say whether Fultz or any one else in the office had anything to drink. There was no cross-examination.

Admits Drinking at City Hall.

Acting Chief of Police Newton was on the stand longer than any other witness thus far in this case.

Newton testified that he had knowledge about drinking in the city hall at different times and of the stuff that had been confiscated. He said he saw Chief Fultz drink in the mayor's office.

Under further examination Newton said Chief Fultz had warned him not to make raids without warrants, and that sometimes Fultz went with him and at other times Fultz gave him warrants and at very few places we got anything.

The uestion of how many poker rooms in Wellsville in 1925 was ordered omitted from the record by the court.

Newton testified of Officer Hurd in helping making raids and that he had put Hurd in the cellroom one time when Hurd was drunk and that Fultz later ordered Hurd placed in the volunteer police room but that he did not inform the mayor of the incident.

Newton said he made no police slip and that Hurd created no disorder. He testified that he assisted making a raid at 1224 Commerce street; that he reported the place to Mayor Fogo but not to Chief Fultz because he did not see Fultz, neither did he call at his home.

"Wait, the court will take you for a minute," Judge Spence said to the witness. "Did you make raids?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell Fultz before you got the warrants?"

"I didn't tell Fultz."

"I can't say that. I reported one to Fultz and made a raid."

"You know your duty was to report to the chief?"

"I can't say the chief was in town or not."

"On statement you said you drank at city hall?"

"Was it intoxicating?"

"It was home brew."

"Did you tell Mayor Fogo you were in the habit of drinking at city hall?"

"He found it out at the hearing."

"And you'r still acting chief of police?"

"Yes."

"Under Mayor Fogo?"

"Yes."

Under cross examination by Attorney Bennett, the witness was asked if he had not talked to people about Fultz.

"I can't say that I have," the witness replied, and he continued, "he never expressed any feeling about Chief Fultz."

"Didn't you say after the hearing you would swear to to anything in the higher court to get Fultz out"?"

No Ill Will Toward Fultz.

"No, sir. I never showed any ill will or hatred toward Fultz."

The witness went on to say that he had been on the police force for 15 years and that there had been gambling and other violations of law there for the last 20 years.

Testimony given at the Wellsville hearing by Modesta Lozzi, both direct and cross examination, was admitted to the record by the court, because the witness had failed to respond to a summons.

Samuel Hannum, druggist, testified briefly, that the call for the sheriff to come to Wellsville to make a raid on the Newton farm was sent over the telephone in his store and that the call was put in by Dr. Swift.

Newton, in response to a query by the court, testified that officers went to his farm to make a raid and that he told them he would assist them but that no raid was made.

Court adjourned at 11:30.

Witness after witness placed on the stand Tuesday afternoon refused to answer queries put to them by counsel for the city of Wellsville on the ground that what they might testify to would be self incriminating. The court sustained this view of the witnesses, and openly charged them that "they need not testify to anything that in their opinion would incriminate them in any criminal action."

City Solicitor Luccock took exception to the ruling of the court, but this did not alter the view of Judge Spence who firmly held to his ruling.

Prohibition Inspector Testifies.

The star witness of the afternoon session Tuesday proved to be A. G. Baynham, deputy state prohibition inspector working out of the office of Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald of Columbus, admitted under direct and cross examination that when he talked to Fultz about the conditions in Wellsville, declared that Fultz had offered him his cooperation at any time.

Baynham declared that he went to Wellsville upon orders of his superior officer after letters had been received at the Columbus office designating certain places where it was supposed there was an alleged violation of the liquor laws. He testified that out of five searches four arrests were made and the victims taken before Mayor George H. Russell at Salem, and fines were assessed amounting to $2,900.

"Did Chief Fultz assist you in any of these raids?" the witness was asked.

"No he didn't."

"Did you ask him?"

"No sir. We talked over conditions later, however."

"What did the Chief say?"

"I do not know now what he did say."

"How did you know about those places in Wellsville?"

"The letters gave me the information, and we visited the homes mentioned in the letters."

The witness admitted that he did not make any other investigations.

"Did you ever ask Fultz to aid you in making arrests?" the witness was asked under cross-examination by Attorney Frank H. Grosshans of counsel for Fultz.

"No sir."

"Or the sheriff or any other officers?"

"No, I never did. Fultz told me he would glady assist me any time."

Tells of "Densmore's Place."

Mrs. Elizabeth Rolley under direct examination by Attorney Cochran admitted that she had talked with Fultz about a raid on the Densmore "place," but she could not remember the time of the conversation. "It's been so long ago I forget," the witness said.

Under cross-examination by Attorney W. A. O'Grady, Mrs. Rolley testified that Fultz told her "they" were going to raid the place and if "I didn't keep my mouth shut I'd be arrested."

"What did he say about tipping?"

"I do not recall."

"Who all was there at the time?"

"Oyster, Fultz, Thompson and my husband."

"Where does your husband work?"

"Keys Motor Supply Co., in East Liverpool."

Admits Poker Game.

Lester Rolley, husband of the preceding witness, declared he had been employed in a stud poker game at the Densmore place, but he did not know for how long a time. He testified that he received $1.50 per hour.

He admitted that Densmore's place had been "pinched" once when he was there, when the game was being played at 1321 Main street. He said there was just one game going at a time.

"Any liquor sold there?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

"Who sold it?"

"Earl Densmore."

"See Fultz there any?"

"Once, when the place was raided and I was arrested then."

"What kind of a club room was it?" Attorney Ben L. Bennett queried Rolley.

"Gambling."

"Ever raided by the chief of police?"

"Yes, the police took a forfeit."

"Another day your wife tipped you off?"

"Yes."

"What did Fultz say to your wife about tipping off the game?"

"Took her to task about tipping off the poker game raid."

"When did you quit?" Attorney Crawford asked.

"When we got arrested."

When Lester Trainer was placed on the stand he immediately admitted that he played poker, and that he was also a sign painter.

"I've already said," put in the court, "that unless you connect Fultz with these things it is a waste of time to proceed along these lines."

Mayor Fogo Called.

"The civil service commission sets the duties of the chief of police," put in the court.

"They are not in the civil service book," came from Attorney Crawford.

"Then his oath of office will cover that," declared the court.

Mayor Fogo was then handed a photograph showing a lot of stills, containers, that one time was testified held liquor.

"When was that taken?"

"After the hearing in Wellsville," the witness replied.

Mayor Fogo then admitted that Fultz took part in a raid where some of the stuff photographed was taken. He testified that on the second raid made Fultz was not in it because of being off on account of illness.

"The mayor cannot testify about the stills, but the people who brought them in can," interjected the court, it being testified that seven or eight stills had been brought in.

"You have experienced difficulties in enforcing the law?" asked Mr. O'Grady under cross-examination.

"No doubt there are difficulties at all times."

"Ever exterminate gambling in your former years in office?"

"There was not as much then as now."

"What policy did you lay down when you took office?"

"I told the police the strings were cut, and that I wanted all the gamblers and all the bootleggers brought in."

"Who told you a still was operating in Wellsville?"

"Newton."

"Send Fultz after it?"

"Yes."

"He bring it in?"

"Yes."

"Who gave you information about the second still?"

"Newton."

"Say anything to Fultz about that one?"

Fultz Obeyed Orders.

"Did he ever refuse your orders?"

"He never did."

"Ever refuse to sign any warrant?"

"No sir."

Was there any time Chief Fultz ever refused to anything you asked of him?"

"He never refused to sign any papers."

"He brought in stills?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you say in the presence of Mayor Blackburn that you would remove Fultz?"

"I never did."

"Any gambling in Wellsville?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Any drinking?"

"No sir."

"Have you knowledge there are about 32 places in Wellsville where you can get drink now?"

"I have not."

"You told Fultz not to patrol the town in a machine?"

"Yes."

"Newton has a machine?"

"Yes."

"Why did you discriminate between Fultz and Newton?"

"I ride with Newton since I have no service director."

"Don't you go on raids."

"It's not my duty to go on raids."

"How many outside officers have come in?"

"Sheriff made 15 to 20 searches and got two pinches, I understand.

"Why did you select Newton to go on raids instead ofFultz?"

"Newton worked for the city of Wellsville and for Catlett to get inside information. He's turned in over $5,000 to the city."

"Why was Fultz suspended?" asked Mr. Cochran on re-direct examination.

Discusses Monte Carlo.

Frank Geisse testified that he knew a place called "Monte Carlo," and that he worked there off and on for about a year in 1925. He said the proprietors of the place were Ralph Anania, Fred Wolf, Willard Davidson, Robert Thompson and himself. He testified the place was within two blocks of the Wellsville city building, and that it was opened early in 1925 and closed last December, and that it had been raided two or three times. He testified that the fine was paid by Willard Davidson, and that the fine was taken out of the receipts of the house.

"You're putting the cart before the horse in this case," Judge Spence declared. "There is no evidence that you have connected Fultz with the place."

"And that is just what we're trying to do," came from Mr. Crawford.

"You gave money to Fultz?" the witness was asked.

"Yes, a check for my appearance, and the check was returned for there was no evidence," the witness replied.

Under cross examination by Attorney Grosshans the witness testified that all evidence of gambling had been removed. He also declared liquor was not permitted to be sold in the place, but that the "house took a rake off on each game" He also testified that the place had been raided three times and that fines were paid twice.

Hackworth Refuses Information.

Willis E. Hackworth was told that he did not have to offer any testimony that might incriminate him in any violation of law when he took the stand and after he was asked if he ever played in a stud poker game, he was excused from further inquiry.

Robert Thompson, 34, a clerk, said that he had been associated with others in the operation of a club for about eight months, and that it was a social club. He testified there had been card playing for money and that the place had been raided and a check for $800 had been put up as a forfeit.

Mrs.. Oyster, wife of the merchant police told Mrs. Rolley the place was to be raided," Thompson testified, and "we were fined." He also said that the place had been raided eight or ten times and that "we paid fines each time."

Fogo is Recalled.

Mayor Fogo was then recalled, and referring to the mayor's docket, showed that for the $800 forfeit check, James Viola had entered a plea of guilty before Mayor Barnes, and that a fine of $250 had been suspended. Fultz filed the affidavit.

Willard Davidson, examined by Attorney Cochran, said he was one of the owners of "Monte Carlo" and that he had been arrested there. "If I thought the officers were coming I would tip the game off," Davidson testified "so they would not get pinched if I could help it."

Patsy Aaania told the court that when he was not engaged in keeping a club room clean he "mixed concrete when the weather would permit."

"Ever see cards played for money in that club room?" the witness was asked by Mr. Cochran.

"No, sir."

This club room that the witness referred to was located on Twelfth street, Wellsville.

"You ever engaged in the business of dealing cards?" Leonard Swaile was asked under direct examination by Mr. Cochran.

"Do I have to answer that?" he asked the court.

"You don't have to answer that if you connect yourself with any crime."

"You worked for Modesta Lozzi where liquor was sold?"

"You don't have to answer," the court replied to a query.

"I refuse to answer," the witness testified.

Leopold Yannucci testified he rented the upper floor of his home in Wellsville to Ralph Anania.

Charles McSwiggin testified that "Monte Carlo" closed the first of the year, and that he dealt cards there for three weeks. He said there were several tables, chairs and a desk in the room.

Sheriff's Office Called.

Dr. E. F. Swift, under examination by Attorney Cochran, testified to Chief Fultz calling for aid from the sheriff's office at Lisbon to investigate a report that there was a still on Newton's farm and that he didn't want to take part in the work on account of Newton being a fellow officer. Sheriff Wright was in Columbus at the time and the call was responded to be Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter and Deputy James Elliott. The witness also testified that Officer Pugh went with the deputies.

"Did you find a still on the Newton farm?" the court asked.

"I don't know."

Wright's Sworn Statement.

The statement of William Wright, of Wellsville, which was made by him before he was released from the county jail, and introduced by Attorney Ben L. Bennett of counsel for Fultz reads:

"William Wright personally appeared before me, the undersigned, M. K. Zimerman, justice of the peace in and for Center township, Columbiana county, Ohio, and being first duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

"That he is the William Wright who testified in the matter of the hearing of J. H. Fultz before the civil service commission of the City of Wellsville. That the testimony so submitted by him to said commission, so far as it pertained to any relationship between affiant and the said J. H. Fultz was false and untrue.

"That the day prior to his being called as a witness in said case, John Riel, a former chief of police of the city of Wellsville, called at affiant's home and talked with him concerning said case; that the said Riel suggested that, it was important to have some testimony against the Chief, J. H. Fultz, to the effect that some one had paid him money. That affiant, ever since the arrest of his brother, Walter Wright, and his conviction and electrocution for murder, which arrest was brought about through the efforts of the said J. H. Fultz, has entertained a grudge against the said Fultz, and when the said John Riel talked with him concerning the matter, affiant grasped the opportunity as a means of getting even with Fultz.

"That affiant says that he at no time ever paid the said J. H Fultz any money for the privilege of operating a still, engaging in the traffic of intoxicating liquor or for any other purpose at any time; that when affiant was so engaged in the operation of a still and traffic in intoxicating liquors, it was without the knowledge, so far as he is concerned, of the said J. H. Fultz, and that the said Fultz at the time of affiant's arrest for operating a still, told him that if he ever caught him again engaging in either the operation of a still or the traffice in intoxicating liquors, he would lock him up.

"That on the evening of the afternoon that affiant talked with the said John Riel, W. L. Fogo, Mayor of the city of Wellsville called at his home concerning the statement he had made to Riel, and that affiant reaffirmed said statements and at that time asked the said W. L. Fogo if anybody was to be permitted to engage in the sale of intoxicating liquors in Wellsville, if he would be accorded privilege also, and that the said W. L. Fogo replied as follows. "I can give you no answer now, but if anybody is permitted during by administration to sell liquor, you will be given the same privilege."

"That thereafter affiant became apprehensive as to submitting said testimony and getting himself in any trouble, and he conferred with Edward Fogo, son of W. L. Fogo, about the matter, and was told by the said Edward Fogo that if he offered his testimony, nothing could happen to him, and that if it did, they would stand by him.

"That affiant further states that the statement of W. L. Fogo appearing in the newspapers of the city of East Liverpool and Wellsville regarding the visit of the said J. H. Fultz to affiant's home at about the hour of 1 o'clock on the night that he submitted his testimony is untrue.

"That affiant has never talked with the said W. L. Fogo since the night he testified in said hearing and he has never told the said W. L. Fogo anything concerning the visit of Fultz to his home, and that the said J. H. Fultz on said night at his home in the city of Wellsville, did not request affiant to change his testimony in the manner set forth in said statements, but inquired of affiant why he had offered the false testimony against him and urged him to tell the truth, and that the truth of the situation is the reverse of the testimony so submitted.

"That affiant at this time offers this, his statement under oath, without any promise of reward, leniency or assistance on behalf of any person in connection with said case, but because he believed it in the interest of justice so to do, and because he feels that he has wronged the said J. H. Fultz and wishes to make amends so far as possible for his conduct in so doing. That his testimony against the said Fultz was prompted solely and absolutely by his desire to get even for the electrecution of his brother, brought about by said Fultz, as hereinbefore stated.

"This statement is also made by affiant with full knowledge of the gravity of the serious situation into which it may lead him."

Three Things

In LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes you get all that can be in any very fine cigarette—also the added pleasure produced by the extra process of toasting.

But here are three additional things:

LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos are toasted for 45 minutes in superheat. This (1) removes all "bite" and harshness. It (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic, tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals the moist fragrance in, insuring freshness.

"IT'S TOASTED" represents a costly extra process that adds the finishing touch to a wonderfully fine cigarette.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

POLICE CLAIM MAN DESTITUTE

Stranger Who Exploded Bomb in Pittsburgh Unidentified.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.—A foreigner in destitute circumstances exploded the bomb in the Farmers' Deposit National bank here late yesterday, which claimed two lives and injured 40 persons, according to the theory on which police were working today.

The bomb-carrier received the full force of the blast and was almost decapitated. George C. Ortmann, bank policeman, who was rushing the man when the bomb exploded, died ten minutes later in a hospital.

Police Lieut. Peter Connors, head of the homicide squad, said there was a bare possibility that the identity of the bomb hurler will be established.

Hundreds of persons viewed the body in the morgue today, but thus far none has recognized the man. The only clues police have, which may ultimately lead to identifying him, are a cheap belt buckle, initialed "L," and remnants of his clothing.

Examination of parts of the bomb picked up from the floor of the wrecked banking room showed it to be of the nitroglycerine type. Had the bomb not been on the marble floor when it exploded many more persons would have been killed, police believe.

Twenty-four persons, bank employes, depositors and passersby, were rushed to hospitals in ambulances and any means of transportation available.

After receiving first aid treatment, fifteen of the victims were taken to their homes. The condition of four others is critical, although physicians hoped all would recover.

The interior of the bank in the vicinity of the explosion was wrecked. President Coll estimated the damage to the building and bank fixtures at $150 000.

The bank opened for business as usual today.

nite arrangements for the funeral services Monday were made. It was announced that the funeral procession will start from Campbell's at Sixty-sixth street and Broadway, at 10:30 Monday morning.

The hearse, containing the body of the late motion picture star, will be followed by three hundred automobiles carrying stage and screen celebrites and close friends of Valentino.

A motorcycle police escort will precede the hearse.

Aeroplanes will fly overhead, dropping flowers on the procession. The cortage will proceed down Broadway, the street that knew "Rudy" so well before he gained his world-wide fame at Hollywood, to the actor's church at Forty-ninth street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Thousands of admirers of Rudolph Valentino assembled again today in the streets for blocks around Campbell's funeral church in Broadway in the hope of getting a two-second glimpse of the body of the famous motion picture star which is lying in state.

Several Are Injured.

They came in great numbers in spite of the fact that one hundred persons were injured late yesterday and last night when a crowd of 100,000 fought with police reserves for a glimpse of the features of the dead star. Most of the injured were women and three of them policemen. They were deluged with fragments of plate glass windows that had been pushed in or injured in the rioting in the streets.

Sidewalks and streets were littered with pocketbooks, umbrellas, furs and women's shoes when the doors of the chapel were closed at midnight and the police chased, or rather tried to chase, the people home.

Reserves Called Out.

The doors of the funeral chapel were opened at 9:30 and the crowd began to file in rapidly. They passed the casket at the rate of thirty-five a minute. The crowd was distinctly orderly this morning. It was estimated that 50,000 persons, at least, would view the body today.

Two hundred police reserves, picked men from every precinct in the city, stood guard at the chapel to prevent a repetition of yesterday's rioting.

The riotious scenes enacted at the funeral curch were without precedent in New York, in the opinion of the police. Frank Campbell, proprietor of the chapel and a veteran undertaker, said:

"I have never seen anything like it. I had something to do with the funeral of President Grant, and we thought we had huge crowds to handle, but it was nothing like this."

Counts made during the night showed that the line of people were passing the coffin, where Valentino lay in peaceful repose, at the rate of 150 a minute, or 9,000 an hour. The people filed by from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until midnight when they almost caused another riot when men were sent out with megaphones notifying them that the doors were closed.

Mussolini Sends Wreath.

This morning a huge be-ribboned wreath, inscribed "From Benito Mussolini," was beside the casket. New York Fascisti announced the premier had cabled to provide the wreath in his name.

Shortly after midnight ten men clad in the black shirts of the Fascisti, who said they represented the Fascisti league of North America, arrived and arranged to have two of their number stand guard over the coffin throughout the night, each pair standing guard two hours. They said this action had been taken upon the cabled advice of Mussolini.

Early today the body of Valentino was moved to the first floor of the funeral church to facilitate handling of the throng. It had been removed from the "gold room," upstairs.

As another huge crowd began to form, Police Commissioner George McLaughlin took personal charge of police arrangements.

Services Next Monday.

No change had been made this morning in the plan to hold the funeral service next Monday in St. Malachi's church, although an International News Service dispatch from Paris today carried a request from Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the dead screen star, that the funeral be delayed until he gets to America. He has sailed for the United States on the White Star liner Homeric.

MISSING FLYER IS LOCATED

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Two boys, who found Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis wandering in the mountain forests between here and Lewiston, brought the missing army aviator to Bellefonte hospital today.

Hospital physicians said Lieut. Bettis was suffering from a fractured jaw and a fractured leg. Although the pilot's physical condition generally is good; it will be some time before he is able to leave the hospital, it was learned.

The boys brought Bettis here in an automobile from the mountains. He was almost exhausted from lack of food and from his harrowing experience in the treacherous Alleghenies.

At the hospital, it was said Bettis had not been questioned about the crash because his fractured jaw made it difficult for him to talk, but the boys who brought him here said his plane was wrecked.

said that he had drunk a bottle of beer in the office of the late Mayor Barnes, in the presence of Barnes, Chief Fultz, but that no one gave it to him.

"Now wait," the court interposed, "the questions should be connected with Fultz." "That may be excluded."

The witness couldn't say whether Fultz or any one else in the office had anything to drink. There was no cross-examination.

Admits Drinking at City Hall.

Acting Chief of Police Newton was on the stand longer than any other witness thus far in this case.

Newton testified that he had knowledge about drinking in the city hall at different times and of the stuff that had been confiscated. He said he saw Chief Fultz drink in the mayor's office.

Under further examination Newton said Chief Fultz had warned him not to make raids without warrants, and that sometimes Fultz went with him and at other times Fultz gave him warrants and at very few places we got anything.

The uestion of how many poker rooms in Wellsville in 1925 was ordered omitted from the record by the court.

Newton testified of Officer Hurd in helping making raids and that he had put Hurd in the cellroom one time when Hurd was drunk and that Fultz later ordered Hurd placed in the volunteer police room but that he did not inform the mayor of the incident.

Newton said he made no police slip and that Hurd created no disorder. He testified that he assisted making a raid at 1224 Commerce street; that he reported the place to Mayor Fogo but not to Chief Fultz because he did not see Fultz, neither did he call at his home.

"Wait, the court will take you for a minute," Judge Spence said to the witness. "Did you make raids?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell Fultz before you got the warrants?"

"I didn't tell Fultz."

"As a matter of fact, you and the mayor attempted to operate independently of the chief."

"I can't say that. I reported one to Fultz and made a raid."

"You know your duty was to report to the chief?"

"I can't say the chief was in town or not."

"On statement you said you drank at city hall?"

"Was it intoxicating?"

"It was home brew."

"Did you tell Mayor Fogo you were in the habit of drinking at city hall?"

"He found it out at the hearing."

"And you'r still acting chief of police?"

"Yes."

"Under Mayor Fogo?"

"Yes."

Under cross examination by Attorney Bennett, the witness was asked if he had not talked to people about Fultz.

"I can't say that I have," the witness replied, and he continued, "he never expressed any feeling about Chief Fultz."

"Didn't you say after the hearing you would swear to to anything in the higher court to get Fultz out?"

No Ill Will Toward Fultz.

"No, sir. I never showed any ill will or hatred toward Fultz."

The witness went on to say that he had been on the police force for 15 years and that there had been gambling and other violations of law there for the last 20 years.

Testimony given at the Wellsville hearing by Modesta Lozzi, both direct and cross examination, was admitted to the record by the court, because the witness had failed to respond to a summons.

Samuel Hannum, druggist, testified briefly, that the call for the sheriff to come to Wellsville to make a raid on the Newton farm was sent over the telephone in his store and that the call was put in by Dr. Swift.

Newton, in response to a query by the court, testified that officers went to his farm to make a raid and that he told them he would assist them but that no raid was made.

Court adjourned at 11:30.

Witness after witness placed on the stand Tuesday afternoon refused to answer queries put to them by counsel for the city of Wellsville on the ground that what they might testify to would be self incriminating. The court sustained this view of the witnesses, and openly charged them that "they need not testify to anything that in their opinion would incriminate them in any criminal action."

City Solicitor Luccock took exception to the ruling of the court, but this did not alter the view of Judge Spence who firmly held to his ruling.

Prohibition Inspector Testifies.

The star witness of the afternoon session Tuesday proved to be A. G. Baynham, deputy state prohibition inspector working out of the office of Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald of Columbus, admitted under direct and cross examination that when he talked to Fultz about the conditions in Wellsville, declared that Fultz had offered him his cooperation at any time.

Baynham declared that he went to Wellsville upon orders of his superior officer after letters had been received at the Columbus office designating certain places where it was supposed there was an alleged violation of the liquor laws. He testified that out of five searches four arrests were made and the victims taken before Mayor George H. Russell at Salem, and fines were assessed amounting to $2,900.

"Did Chief Fultz assist you in any of these raids?" the witness was asked.

"No he didn't."

"Did you ask him?"

"No sir. We talked over conditions later, however."

"What did the Chief say?"

"I do not know now what he did say."

"How did you know about those places in Wellsville?"

"The letters gave me the information, and we visited the homes mentioned in the letters."

The witness admitted that he did not make any other investigations.

"Did you ever ask Fultz to aid you in making arrests?" the witness was asked under cross-examination by Attorney Frank H. Grosshans of counsel for Fultz.

"No sir."

"Or the sheriff or any other officers?"

"No, I never did. Fultz told me he would glady assist me any time."

Tells of "Densmore's Place."

Mrs. Elizabeth Rolley under direct examination by Attorney Cochran admitted that she had talked with Fultz about a raid on the Densmore "place," but she could not remember the time of the conversation. "It's been so long ago I forget," the witness said.

Under cross-examination by Attorney W. A. O'Grady, Mrs. Rolley testified that Fultz told her "they" were going to raid the place and if "I didn't keep my mouth shut I'd be arrested."

"What did he say about tipping?"

"I do not recall."

"Who all was there at the time?"

"Oyster, Fultz, Thompson and my husband."

"Where does your husband work?"

Admits Poker Game.

Lester Rolley, husband of the preceding witness, declared he had been employed in a stud poker game at the Densmore place, but he did not know for how long a time. He testified that he received $1.50 per hour.

He admitted that Densmore's place had been "pinched" once when he was there, when the game was being played at 1321 Main street. He said there was just one game going at a time.

"Any liquor sold there?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

"Who sold it?"

"Earl Densmore."

"See Fultz there any?"

"Once, when the place was raided and I was arrested then."

"What kind of a club room was it?" Attorney Ben L. Bennett queried Rolley.

"Gambling."

"Ever raided by the chief of police?"

"Yes, the police took a forfeit."

"Another day your wife tipped you off?"

"Yes."

"What did Fultz say to your wife about tipping off the game?"

"Took her to task about tipping off the poker game raid."

"When did you quit?" Attorney Crawford asked.

"When we got arrested."

When Lester Trainer was placed on the stand he immediately admitted that he played poker, and that he was also a sign painter.

"I've already said," put in the court, "that unless you connect Fultz with these things it is a waste of time to proceed along these lines."

Mayor Fogo Called.

"The civil service commission sets the duties of the chief of police," put in the court.

"They are not in the civil service book," came from Attorney Crawford. "Then his oath of office will cover that," declared the court.

Mayor Fogo was then handed a photograph showing a lot of stills, containers, that one time was testified held liquor.

"When was that taken?"

"After the hearing in Wellsville," the witness replied.

Mayor Fogo then admitted that Fultz took part in a raid where some of the stuff photographed was taken. He testified that on the second raid made Fultz was not in it because of being off on account of illness.

"The mayor cannot testify about the stills, but the people who brought them in can," interjected the court, it being testified that seven or eight stills had been brought in.

"You have experienced difficulties in enforcing the law?" asked Mr. O'Grady under cross-examination.

"No doubt there are difficulties at all times."

"Ever exterminate gambling in your former years in office?"

"There was not as much then as now."

"What policy did you lay down when you took office?"

"I told the police the strings were cut, and that I wanted all the gamblers and all the bootleggers brought in."

"Who told you a still was operating in Wellsville?"

"Newton."

"Send Fultz after it?"

"Yes."

"He bring it in?"

"Yes."

"Who gave you information about the second still?"

"Newton."

"Say anything to Fultz about that one?"

Fultz Obeyed Orders.

"Did he ever refuse your orders?"

"He never did."

"Ever refuse to sign any warrant?"

"No sir."

Was there any time Chief Fultz ever refused to anything you asked of him?"

"He never refused to sign any papers."

"He brought in stills?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you say in the presence of Mayor Blackburn that you would remove Fultz?"

"I never did."

"Any gambling in Wellsville?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Any drinking?"

"No sir."

"Have you knowledge there are about 32 places in Wellsville where you can get drink now?"

"I have not."

"You told Fultz not to patrol the town in a machine?"

"Yes."

"Newton has a machine?"

"Yes."

"Why did you discriminate between Fultz and Newton?"

"I ride with Newton since I have no service director."

"Don't you go on raids."

"How many outside officers have come in?"

"Sheriff made 15 to 20 searches and got two pinches, I understand.

"Why did you select Newton to go on raids instead ofFultz?"

"Newton worked for the city of Wellsville and for Catlett to get inside information. He's turned in over $5,000 to the city."

"Why was Fultz suspended?" asked Mr. Cochran on re-direct examination.

Discusses Monte Carlo.

Frank Geisse testified that he knew a place called "Monte Carlo," and that he worked there off and on for about a year in 1925. He said the proprietors of the place were Ralph Anania, Fred Wolf, Willard Davidson, Robert Thompson and himself. He testified the place was within two blocks of the Wellsville city building, and that it was opened early in 1925 and closed last December, and that it had been raided two or three times. He testified that the fine was paid by Willard Davidson, and that the fine was taken out of the receipts of the house.

"You're putting the cart before the horse in this case," Judge Spence declared. "There is no evidence that you have connected Fultz with the place."

"You gave money to Fultz?" the witness was asked.

"Yes, a check for my appearance, and the check was returned for there was no evidence," the witness replied.

Under cross examination by Attorney Grosshans the witness testified that all evidence of gambling had been removed. He also declared liquor was not permitted to be sold in the place, but that the "house took a rake off on each game" He also testified that the place had been raided three times and that fines were paid twice.

Hackworth Refuses Information.

Willis E. Hackworth was told that he did not have to offer any testimony that might incriminate him in any violation of law when he took the stand and after he was asked if he ever played in a stud poker game, he was excused from further inquiry.

Robert Thompson, 34, a clerk, said that he had been associated with others in the operation of a club for about eight months, and that it was a social club. He testified there had been card playing for money and that the place had been raided and a check for $800 had been put up as a forfeit.

Mrs. Oyster, wife of the merchant police told Mrs. Rolley the place was to be raided," Thompson testified, and "we were fined." He also said that the place had been raided eight or ten times and that "we paid fines each time."

Fogo is Recalled.

Mayor Fogo was then recalled, and referring to the mayor's docket, showed that for the $800 forfeit check, James Viola had entered a plea of guilty before Mayor Barnes, and that a fine of $250 had been suspended. Fultz filed the affidavit.

Willard Davidson, examined by Attorney Cochran, said he was one of the owners of "Monte Carlo" and that he had been arrested there. "If I thought the officers were coming I would tip the game off," Davidson testified "so they would not get pinched if I could help it."

Patsy Aania told the court that when he was not engaged in keeping a club room clean he "mixed concrete when the weather would permit."

"Ever see cards played for money in that club room?" the witness was asked by Mr. Cochran.

"No, sir."

This club room that the witness referred to was located on Twelfth street, Wellsville.

"You ever engaged in the business of dealing cards?" Leonard Swaile was asked under direct examination by Mr. Cochran.

"Do I have to answer that?" he asked the court.

"You don't have to answer that if you connect yourself with any crime."

"You worked for Modesta Lozzi where liquor was sold?"

"You don't have to answer," the court replied to a query.

"I refuse to answer," the witness testified.

Charles McSwiggin testified that "Monte Carlo" closed the first of the year, and that he dealt cards there for three weeks. He said there were several tables, chairs and a desk in the room.

Sheriff's Office Called.

Dr. E. F. Swift, under examination by Attorney Cochran, testified to Chief Fultz calling for aid from the sheriff's office at Lisbon to investigate a report that there was a still on Newton's farm and that he didn't want to take part in the work on account of Newton being a fellow officer. Sheriff Wright was in Columbus at the time and the call was responded to be Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter and Deputy James Elliott. The witness also testified that Officer Pugh went with the deputies.

"Did you find a still on the Newton farm?" the court asked.

"I don't know."

Wright's Sworn Statement.

The statement of William Wright, of Wellsville, which was made by him before he was released from the county jail, and introduced by Attorney Ben L. Bennett of counsel for Fultz reads:

"William Wright personally appeared before me, the undersigned, M. K. Zimerman, justice of the peace in and for Center township, Columbiana county, Ohio, and being first duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

"That he is the William Wright who testified in the matter of the hearing of J. H. Fultz before the civil service commission of the City of Wellsville. That the testimony so submitted by him to said commission, so far as it pertained to any relationship between affiant and the said J. H. Fultz was false and untrue.

"That the day prior to his being called as a witness in said case, John Riel, a former chief of police of the city of Wellsville, called at affiant's home and talked with him concerning said case; that the said Riel suggested that it was important to have some testimony against the Chief, J. H. Fultz, to the effect that some one had paid him money. That affiant, ever since the arrest of his brother, Walter Wright, and his conviction and electrocution for murder, which arrest was brought about through the efforts of the said J. H. Fultz, has entertained a grudge against the said Fultz, and when the said John Riel talked with him concerning the matter, affiant grasped the opportunity as a means of getting even with Fultz.

"That affiant says that he at no time ever paid the said J. H Fultz any money for the privilege of operating a still, engaging in the traffic of intoxicating liquor or for any other purpose at any time; that when affiant was so engaged in the operation of a still and traffic in intoxicating liquors, it was without the knowledge, so far as he is concerned, of the said J. H. Fultz, and that the said Fultz at the time of affiant's arrest for operating a still, told him that if he ever caught him again engaging in either the operation of a still or the traffice in intoxicating liquors, he would lock him up.

"That on the evening of the afternoon that affiant talked with the said John Riel, W. L. Fogo, Mayor of the city of Wellsville called at his home concerning the statement he had made to Riel, and that affiant reaffirmed said statements and at that time asked the said W. L. Fogo if anybody was to be permitted to engage in the sale of intoxicating liquors in Wellsville, if he would be accorded privilege also, and that the said W. L. Fogo replied as follows. "I can give you no answer now, but if anybody is permitted during by administration to sell liquor, you will be given the same privilege."

"That thereafter affiant became apprehensive as to submitting said testimony and getting himself in any trouble, and he conferred with Edward Fogo, son of W. L. Fogo, about the matter, and was told by the said Edward Fogo that if he offered his testimony, nothing could happen to him, and that if it did, they would stand by him.

"That affiant further states that the statement of W. L. Fogo appearing in the newspapers of the city of East Liverpool and Wellsville regarding the visit of the said J. H. Fultz to affiant's home at about the hour of 1 o'clock on the night that he submitted his testimony is untrue.

"That affiant has never talked with the said W. L. Fogo since the night he testified in said hearing and he has never told the said W. L. Fogo anything concerning the visit of Fultz to his home, and that the said J. H. Fultz on said night at his home in the city of Wellsville, did not request affiant to change his testimony in the manner set forth in said statements, but inquired of affiant why he had offered the false testimony against him and urged him to tell the truth, and that the truth of the situation is the reverse of the testimony so submitted.

"That affiant at this time offers this, his statement under oath, without any promise of reward, leniency or assistance on behalf of any person in connection with said case, but because he believed it in the interest of justice so to do, and because he feels that he has wronged the said J. H. Fultz and wishes to make amends so far as possible for his conduct in so doing. That his testimony against the said Fultz was prompted solely and absolutely by his desire to get even for the electrocution of his brother, brought about by said Fultz, as hereinbefore stated.

"This statement is also made by affiant with full knowledge of the gravity of the serious situation into which it may lead him."

Three Things

In LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes you get all that can be in any very fine cigarette—also the added pleasure produced by the extra process of toasting.

But here are three additional things:

LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos are toasted for 45 minutes in superheat. This (1) removes all "bite" and harshness. It (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals the moist fragrance in, insuring freshness.

"IT'S TOASTED" represents a costly extra process that adds the finishing touch to a wonderfully fine cigarette.

FRENCH WOMEN OPPOSED TO FAT

PARIS, Aug. 25.—"Thou shalt not be fat" is the eleventh commandment of fashionable Paris.

I have seen not more than three fat Parisiennes since I arrived here two months ago. Whenever I catch a glimpse of a fat woman resembling a tent waddling along the avenue, I know at once she is an American.

French women somehow do not seem to tend to embonpoint. But if in exceptional cases they show a disposition to stoutness, they become as alarmed as if threatened with some fatal malady and diet and starve and exercise to reduce to normal slim proportions. So in realms of fashion, Paris is a city of svelte women.

In the salons of the fashionable dressmakers, you see only models for the hat pin figure. There is nothing for the unpretty person known in America as the "stylish stout." The scant wrap-around coats and the hats cater to the sylph-like. The cloche for headgear has been the style all summer but now that the first touch of autumn is in the air, the big picture hat is coming in. Possibly American influence is responsible for this. At any rate, the large hat with floppy and down drawn brims will be distinctly the aristocratic mode this fall.

Paris is now showing an advance hint of the fall styles in fur coats all of which stress simplicity and youthful, straight lines. Fur coats of former years were bulky and added years as well as pounds to the appearance. Now one can be as youthful and slender in a fur coat as in the newest and smartest frock or fabric coat. The tailored trend in fur coat styles has a great deal to do with their youthfulness, and the use of flatter and shorter pelts makes the slender line easier of achievement.

Two outstanding style points of this season's fur coats are the dolman sleeves and the bloused back. The absence of circular and flared flounces is noticeable. Sleeves are plain and there are very few deep cuffs of a contrasting fur. Collars are smaller than last year and either of the straight puff variety or long collar ending in a surplice line.

For sport wear, the smartest coats are of pony, either red or gray, muskrat, antelope, carcacul, raccoon, leopard and hair seal. For more formal wear there is caracul in platinum, brown, cocoa, and black, ermine in either natural or summer shade, squirrel, seal natural or dyed, Jap mink and Jap weasel.

Some of the smartest fur coats that will be shown for winter are reversable. They have cloth on one side and fur on the other, and are made so that either side is perfect in workmanship and appearance.

"BIG PARADE" STORY OF WAR

When Laurence Stallings wrote "The Big Parade" which comes to the Ceramic theatre for three days starting Thursday, Sept. 23, it was with the intention of telling a simple story of three doughboys and their adventures in France. When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, King Vidor and the fine cast had finished with it the story remained as simple and appealing as when written but it was vitalized into a recognized work that can be fairly termed a masterpiece.

'SWEET DADDIES' SIDNEY PICTURE

George Sidney, for many seasons a feature player in motion pictures, will be seen in one of the leading roles in M. C. Levee's First National production, "Sweet Daddies," which opens at the American Theatre tomorrow. Sidney is famous for his Hebrew characterizations.

In "Sweet Daddies" Sidney plays the part of a wealthy merchant who enters into partnership with a son of Erin named Pat O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien is played by Charlie Murray, well-known Irish screen comic.

The nature of the business engaged in by the two men is somewhat obscure and the prohibition agents get after them. But everything turns out right in the end.

Meanwhile the son and daughter of the partners fall in love with each other. Jack Mulhall and Jobyna Ralston, Harold Lloyd's leading lady, take these parts. Vera Gordon, famous actress, is also seen in one of the featured roles.

When "Sweet Daddies" was previewed in Hollywood a noted film executive was in the audience, and, on the strength of Sidney's portrayal, signed him to play the star role in the photoplay version of David Warfield's "The Auctioneer," soon to be filmed.

"BIG PARADE" STORY OF WAR

When Laurence Stallings wrote "The Big Parade" which comes to the Ceramic theatre for three days starting Thursday, Sept. 23, it was with the intention of telling a simple story of three doughboys and their adventures in France. When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, King Vidor and the fine cast had finished with it the story remained as simple and appealing as when written but it was vitalized into a recognized work that can be fairly termed a masterpiece.

Did 'Ja Ever Have A Birthday Party

YOU know the old gag of sending out invitations and hoping that the guests brought you nice presents. Great stuff, isn't it? W eknow just how you felt because we are having a birthday this week, just been six months ago since we opened our first store, (eight now) and boy, how we've worked since, trying to give people more for their money than they've seen before or since. And have we succeeded? Well, we can tell the whole wide world that we have, we've grown like corn in hot sun, but we haven't forgotten that we owe two-thirds of our success to you folks, so, we are going to have a birthday party starting tomorrow and lasting until LABOR DAY, and it's going to be some party, we are going to say it with values on nationally known automobile accessories. Do you get what we mean? Real cut prices on every thing in our store. Are you coming to our party? We knew you would. See you tomorrow.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK ONE.

"But Henry, my dear!" Mrs. Hamill was expostulating. "Why on earth play the eight spot in a case like that, when you knew very well I had—" She broke off. "Hello, Jock," she said, and smiled at him. "Do sit down, my dear, and observe the peculiar maneuvers of Mr. Henry Barbour. I want you to learn from him how not to play bridge!"

Mrs. Hamill was the kind of woman who can make such remarks and, in the modern parlance, get away with them. No one ever waxed wroth at Mrs. Hamill. No man, that is. She was too altogether exquisite. She had great brown eyes, dark brows and lashes, astonishing silver hair, which she wore cut in a shingle bob, a small slim figure, and hands as soft and appealing as a baby's. Hands to be kissed, those. Hands to be caught and held in bigger hands, intensely. Hands to reach out in pretty supplication and to close tight like little white bars across what was given. . . . Her age was problematical. It seemed to vary with her gowns, with her moods, with her companions, until it ran the whole scale of the years between 25 and 45. What it actually was Jock never knew. Once, long ago, he had asked, and Madelaine Hamill had answered him almost savagely, "I have forgotten. On purpose." This served to whet his curiosity, so that thereafter he watched and wondered, and came in time to the confusing realization that his mother was young with men, middle-aged with women, and old when she was alone.

Jock sat down as she had directed, greeting the three men each in turn. They were frequent visitors to the house and he knew them all well — Saunders Lincoln, of the iron-gray hair and the still-athletic figure, so particularly well that he had called him "Uncle Link" and received from him rather breath-taking checks at Christmas almost ever since he could remember. "Uncle" was here merely a term of familiarity, however; Saunders Lincoln was not a relative. "Why don't you marry him?" Jock had demanded of his mother on a former occasion, and had learned that he was already married to, and separated from, a woman who, on account of her religion, would not agree to a divorce.

"Marriage," Mrs. Hamill had added, "is a mistake for one of my temperament, anyhow. I'm too fond of men in general." Which was quite true. Her Utopia was a world peopled solely by men, with herself a gorgeous goddess before whom all did obeisance—not too impersonally. She could not bear women and women, of course, could not bear her. She made young ones fell too young, awkward, gauche; and older ones envious and faintly antagonistic.

"I'm leaving tomorrow, sorry to say."

"Not anxious to get back; eh?"

"Not at all, no."

"Jock," announced Jock's mother casually, "is a liar. He's quite wild to get back, as a matter of fact. I'll bid one no trump."

This was the signal for all conversation to cease, so Jock had no opportunity to debate the point. He sprawled in his chair, sipping at a highball that had been handed him, and followed the play languidly with his glance. Presently he took a pencil and began to scribble on the back of a bridge-score. This absorbed him for some moments, after which he left the room, taking the paper with him. It was a poem to Yvonne, a poem beginning, "Oh voice that sings a song in the night, For the wind to carry forever—"

Upstairs in his own quarters he read it aloud to himself. Then he said, "Punk!" rather sheepishly, and locked it away in a strong box.

Later, when Mrs. Hamill ascended the stairs and tapped at his door, she found him stretched out across his bed in a fantastic green-and-black dressing-gown, reading Perfect Behavior by Donald Ogden Stewart. His reaction from exhibitions of sentiment on his own part was always humor on the part of others. "Makes me snap out of it," he would have said.

"Yes, they've gone."

"Good game?"

"Excellent, except for Henry Barbour. The man is a perfect nitwit and persists in leading from the ace, despite my frenzied and perpetual protestations." She seated herself on the edge of the bed, took one of Jock's cigarettes and smoked it thoughtfully. "What's on your mind, Jocky?"

"Nothing."

"Nonsense! I knew there was something the minute you came into the room."

Jock remained silent, and Mrs. Hamill, after a long glance at him, concluded that she must by indirections find directions out. "Have a good time at the dance?"

"Wonderful."

"How's Molly?"

"All right, I guess. She went home about 10 o'clock." Jock's voice was noncommittal, but to his mother, who knew him very much better than mothers usually know their 22-year-old sons, he told volumes.

"Who was there?" she inquired.

Mrs. Hamill was quietly triumphant. "Oh, so Molly went home at 10 o'clock and there was a girl from New York!" She shook her head reprovingly. "Jock dear, must I remind you that 99 per cent of this world's hapless husbands are gentlemen who permitted themselves inadvertently to be caught on the rebound?"

"I'm not 'caught,'" Jock protested, but without conviction.

"What's her name?"

"Yvonne Mountford."

Between Mrs. Hamill's eyes there appeared a wrinkle—promptly erased, because wrinkles are vicious things with a tendency to stay where they're put. "That name sounds familiar," she mused, "but I can't think—well, what does she look like?"

"Red hair," Jock succinctly.

"Oh."

Jock got up, with a conclusive air of having disposed of the topic to every one's satisfaction, and began to pack the silver-lettered bowl of his pipe with tobacco. "Now!" he said. "How 'bout my allowance for this year?"

She mentioned a generous sum. Sums in that household were always generous. "That's the berries," approved Jock, "but can you afford it?"

"I think so."

"It's a lot of money."

"I have a lot of money, Jock," said Mrs. Hamill. "More than I can spend by myself."

Jock knew that this was so. Had you asked him where the money came from he would doubtless have said, "Oil, or something," rather vaguely; but that it did come, in large quantities, he was well aware. His understanding was that investments made by his father years ago had since proved unexpectedly prosperous, putting his mother and himself on easy street. Beyond a certain gratitude and a fleeting mental tribute to his father's business acumen, he gave the matter no thought whatever.

Yvonne was not again mentioned in conversation. But when Mrs. Hamill had gone to her own room and was seated before her dressing table, gazing at her reflection over a corps of assorted bottles and jars, she repeated the name over. "Yvonne Mountford. Now where have I heard that before?" Bye and bye she sighed, "Poor Molly!"

Mrs. Hamill had more than the usual maternal conviction that if she were younger, and if Jock were not her son, she would be violently and utterly in love with him; hence she could sigh, at times, for girls he did not love.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK ONE.

"But Henry, my dear!" Mrs. Hamill was expostulating. "Why on earth play the eight spot in a case like that, when you knew very well I had—" She broke off. "Hello, Jock," she said, and smiled at him. "Do sit down, my dear, and observe the peculiar maneuvers of Mr. Henry Barbour. I want you to learn from him how not to play bridge!"

Mrs. Hamill was the kind of woman who can make such remarks and, in the modern parlance, get away with them. No one ever waxed wroth at Mrs. Hamill. No man, that is. She was too altogether exquisite. She had great brown eyes, dark brows and lashes, astonishing silver hair, which she wore cut in a shingle bob, a small slim figure, and hands as soft and appealing as a baby's. Hands to be kissed, those. Hands to be caught and held in bigger hands, intensely. Hands to reach out in pretty supplication and to close tight like little white bars across what was given. . . . Her age was problematical. It seemed to vary with her gowns, with her moods, with her companions, until it ran the whole scale of the years between 25 and 45. What it actually was Jock never knew. Once, long ago, he had asked, and Madelaine Hamill had answered him almost savagely, "I have forgotten. On purpose." This served to whet his curiosity, so that thereafter he watched and wondered, and came in time to the confusing realization that his mother was young with men, middle-aged with women, and old when she was alone.

Jock sat down as she had directed, greeting the three men each in turn. They were frequent visitors to the house and he knew them all well — Saunders Lincoln, of the iron-gray hair and the still-athletic figure, so particularly well that he had called him "Uncle Link" and received from him rather breath-taking checks at Christmas almost ever since he could remember. "Uncle" was here merely a term of familiarity, however; Saunders Lincoln was not a relative. "Why don't you marry him?" Jock had demanded of his mother on a former occasion, and had learned that he was already married to, and separated from, a woman who, on account of her religion, would not agree to a divorce.

"Marriage," Mrs. Hamill had added, "is a mistake for one of my temperament, anyhow. I'm too fond of men in general." Which was quite true. Her Utopia was a world peopled solely by men, with herself a gorgeous goddess before whom all did obeisance—not too impersonally. She could not bear women and women, of course, could not bear her. She made young ones fell too young, awkward, gauche; and older ones envious and faintly antagonistic.

"I'm leaving tomorrow, sorry to say."

"Not anxious to get back; eh?"

"Jock," announced Jock's mother casually, "is a liar. He's quite wild to get back, as a matter of fact. I'll bid one no trump."

This was the signal for all conversation to cease, so Jock had no opportunity to debate the point. He sprawled in his chair, sipping at a highball that had been handed him, and followed the play languidly with his glance. Presently he took a pencil and began to scribble on the back of a bridge-score. This absorbed him for some moments, after which he left the room, taking the paper with him. It was a poem to Yvonne, a poem beginning, "Oh voice that sings a song in the night, For the wind to carry forever—"

Upstairs in his own quarters he read it aloud to himself. Then he said, "Punk!" rather sheepishly, and locked it away in a strong box.

Later, when Mrs. Hamill ascended the stairs and tapped at his door, she found him stretched out across his bed in a fantastic green-and-black dressing-gown, reading Perfect Behavior by Donald Ogden Stewart. His reaction from exhibitions of sentiment on his own part was always humor on the part of others. "Makes me snap out of it," he would have said.

"Yes, they've gone."

"Good game?"

"Excellent, except for Henry Barbour. The man is a perfect nitwit and persists in leading from the ace, despite my frenzied and perpetual protestations." She seated herself on the edge of the bed, took one of Jock's cigarettes and smoked it thoughtfully. "What's on your mind, Jocky?"

"Nothing."

"Nonsense! I knew there was something the minute you came into the room."

Jock remained silent, and Mrs. Hamill, after a long glance at him, concluded that she must by indirections find directions out. "Have a good time at the dance?"

"Wonderful."

"How's Molly?"

"All right, I guess. She went home about 10 o'clock." Jock's voice was noncommittal, but to his mother, who knew him very much better than mothers usually know their 22-year-old sons, he told volumes.

"Who was there?" she inquired.

Mrs. Hamill was quietly triumphant. "Oh, so Molly went home at 10 o'clock and there was a girl from New York!" She shook her head reprovingly. "Jock dear, must I remind you that 99 per cent of this world's hapless husbands are gentlemen who permitted themselves inadvertently to be caught on the rebound?"

SHIPWRECK IN CERAMIC FILM

"Isle of Retribution" Booked for Three Day Engagement.

A spectacular shipwreck in which a staunch schooner is knifed by a gigantic iceberg and goes down in the midst of menacing floes; the battle of a soft, spoiled rich man's son against the implacable elements of the Alaska Coast and the red cruelty of one of the greatest fiction characters ever conceived by mortal man; and the most dramatic, gruelling fight ever staged in the snow-swept spaces make "The Isle of Retribution" a memorable picture. The production, directed for F. B. O. by James Hogan from the famous novel by Edison Marshall, is stark, staggering drama with all of the delightful comedy touches for which Mr. Hogan is justly famous. It comes to the Ceramic theatre for a 3 day run beginning Thursday and if the reception it has received elsewhere is any criterion it bids fair to pack that popular local playhouse to the curbstone at every showing. Lillian Rich is featured in an exceptional cast which includes such celebrated thespians as Robert Frazer, David Torrence, Mildred Harris, Victor M'Laglen, Kathleen Kirkham and Inez Gomez. The part of the mad brute "Doomsdorf," master of the isolated island on which the helpless fugitives from the storm are cast is easily the finest characterization since Jack London's immortal "Sea Wolf."

YOUTH SLAYS AGED TEACHER

Victim Struck on Head With Hammer.

Calisch, according to police was struck down in a Brooklyn restaurant, dying half an hour later. The lad, immediately arrested, is alleged to have told police of an unconquerable desire to slay his aged instructor.

"I first decided to commit suicide," Silverstein is alleged to have told police. "Then I decided it would be better to kill the old man." He is alleged to have admitted he fought for two hours against the overwhelming desire to commit the murder, and finally succumbed.

Police said they found a bottle of cynaide of potassium, a deadly poison, in the youth's pocket.

Five hundred stone houses are to be erected by refugees on land which hey have bought near Piraeus, Greece.

Cebula Allows Three Hits In Five Frames; Breezes Ten Batters

Big Twirler is "On," Clouts Out Double in Fourth to Send in Second Run of Contest; Ashe Given Faultless Support.

CHESTER and Laughlin, West Virginia representatives of the City Industrial Baseball League, and perennial contenders for the pennant, met in battle royal at Newell park last evening and the Chester nine, defeated a couple of weeks ago by the Laughlins, came back to hand the McCoyites a 2 to 0 shutout, with Mike Cebula fanning 10 opposing batters in five innings of play.

As on the occasion of the previous clash, Manager Riley threw his pitching ace, "Mike," into the breach while Laughlin sent the speedman Ashe to the firing line. A nip and tuck fight resulted with the outcome in doubt until the last man was retired.

All Chester seemingly was in attendance, massed in noisy phalanx along the third base sector and extending into left field. And no real Newell baseball fan remained at home. The visitors were lined up, many deep, from the home plate background into deep right yelling vociferously the entire while their favorites worked. Betwixt and between and everywhere they could find places, were hundreds from East Liverpool. Automobiles surrounded the field. It was a gala diamond occasion, marking the biggest crowd undoubtedly that has seen a 1926 contest here.

And "Mike" was in form. That statement tells cryptically the story of the victory. For, despite an infield made up of two players out of position, Wilde taking P. Cebula's berth at short with Evans substituting for Greene at third and Wyant, ordinarily a pitcher, in middle for Evans and Stoffell, another twirler, in right, the hefty hurler refused to permit the down river aggregation to get a man further than third. And on only one occasion did a Newell runner reach that point. He allowed but three hits and one of these blows, a hard drive at L. McMath, might have been turned into a putout, had McMath been able to locate the ball as it bounded away from him.

The Chester twirler turned in 10 strikeouts which happened to be exactly two-thirds of the putout for the day. In other words he turned them back at an average clip of two to each inning.

Only Ashe and Bubin failed to be victims of his speed. In the fifth, with darkness rapidly gathering and the tying runs on the bags, he fanned Babb and Finley, usually dependable swatters, effectively ending the contest.

Once only did "Mike" falter and that was in the third when, after fanning Hunselman, he walked Ashe and Babb, the latter following Parsons' strikeout. Babb made a clean steal of second, but Finley rapped feebly to the hilltop, enabling the pitcher to assist to Heckathorne and the crisis was passed.

Bubin got around as far as the hot corner in the third when his blow to L. McMath started him off at first. He went to second on a passed ball. He clung to the keystone sack as Sayres lifted to Stoffel but surprised with a fine steal to third as Aufderheide was wielding the willow at the plate. But there he died as Aufderheide missed the third strike.

Laughlin threatened seriously in the final swatting period of the fifth. Hunselman started with a walk but was forced by Ashe at second, L. McMath to Wilde. Parsons singled to left and W. Watson, running for Ashe, took second. There they languished as Cebula released his stuff on Babb and Finley, fanning both.

But the game was no walkaway. Ashe, Newell speed merchant, was on the job every moment. He was a trifle wild, however, walking two and hitting one. These shortcomings contributed to his team's undoing. He walked Evans, first man up. Then Heckathorne and L. McMath, fast men, bunted successively. The speedy Wilde made good with a long fly to Parsons on which Evans counted. Ashe then fanned Wyant and caused F. Marshall to foul to Babb, the latter making a fine catch.

He retired his opponents in a row in the second. Evans, singling to right in the third, died on the paths as Ashe turned back Heckathorne, L. McMath and Wilde in order.

In the fourth Chester turned in another run which cinched the game. Wyant opened by hitting the first ball pitched to right. F. Marshall sacrificed, Ashe to Sayre. Stoffel fanned. W. McMath was hit. Then Mike Cebula doubled to left. The ball bounded over Parsons, enabling Wyant to finish and W. McMath to reach third. The latter, if faster, might also have scored. Evans walked, but Heckathorne fanned.

Ashe refused further scoring. L. McMath opened the fifth with a single to right, but was nipped off first, Ashe to Babb. Wilde flew to Aufderheide, who made a fine catch. And then Ashe struck out Wyant.

L. McMath took the game's hitting honors with two singles in three tries, although Evans hung up a perfect mark with two walks and a single in three attempts.

The contest was a great diamond exhibition. There was honor enough for victor and loser, with Laughlin giving their hurler perfect support.

Next Two Weeks Will Decide Pennant Race

Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Foaming at the mouth probably will be condemned in some circles as ungentlemanly and lacking in sanitation; therefore, those who feel that way about an ancient and honored function will be somewhat depressed to learn that in St. Louis an entire population today foams at will and without warning and is proud of it.

One glance at the standing of the clubs in the National league has been known to send large families foaming about the house, individually and in concert. Mere mention of the miraculous fact that the Cardinals are up with the pace during the last week in August has served to put a frothy "top" on a plain glass of water. Only righteous and strictly biased foam is tolerated.

It seems to me that if they were a trifle less premature, they might save a lot of wear and tear on the salivary glands, considering what the next two weeks will mean to the National league race. The Cards are a hot choice today. Within two weeks, they may be considerably hotter, in which case one may foam at leasure and with justification, or they may be absolutely frigid, in which case one wouldn't care about foaming with a mouth full of soap.

The next two weeks will tell the story of the pennant race, the greatest the National league has known since the memorable campaign of 1908. The preface will be written in St. Louis on Sunday when the Cardinals will open a series with the Champion Pirates, with the league leadership at stake. The plot will thicken rapidly when, after a single game with the Cubs, the Cards will invade Cincinnati for another showdown set of games. The climax will come immediately thereafter in another Cardinal-Pirate series, their last meeting of the year.

That, briefly, is the situation today. It would seem to throw the real burden of proof on the Cardinals, at least for the time being. The Reds need only win the majority of games in two series with the Cubs to profit automatically while the Cards and Pirates are at each other's throats.

But, later, the same thing will react to the Cardinals' favor when, beginning September 10, the Reds and Pirates will play a two-game series while the Cards are dallying with Boston. And if you think this means a stand-off on paper, you will do well to consider the records which show that the Cards have won 12 out of 15 with the Braves, while the Reds have taken 9 out of 16 with the Cubs.

However, past performances can run for the end book at this stage of proceedings. The ball club that can show the most punch and consistency today, tomorrow, next week and next month will win the pennant, not the entry that is trying to prove something by what happened in June.

All three contenders are sprinting home right now. The Cards dropped their first in nine games yesterday and fell into third place. The Reds ran their streak into ten straight. The Pirates made it eight out of the last twelve.

Pay your money and take your choice.

The Senators and the Browns had the American League all to themselves yesterday, and for the Senators, everything was quite all right. Heavy hitting at the start gave them a sizeable lead, and St. Louis dropped on the short end of a 9 to 6 score. Rain caused postponement of all the other games.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The Giants almost won a game yesterday, but infield errors put Jack Scott at a disadvantage and the Cincinnati Reds came through on top, 4 to 3.

The Robins regretted their action a little while ago in toppling the Pirates out of first place, so they handed the dish back again yesterday, 10 to 1. Ray Kremer pitched beautiful ball, while Burleigh Grimes bowled for the Doggers, allowing a rally of five runs in two innings, before he was relieved of the responsibility.

The Braves and the Cards divided honors in their double header at St. Louis yesterday. The visitors took the first, 2 to 1, then fought a close battle to give Hornsby's boys the second, 6 to 5.

Long-distance batting was the rule of the Chicago Cubs, leaving the Philadelphia Nationals on the sour end of both games of a double-header. The first one went 9 to 4, while two homers by Hartnett and one by Wilson in the second helped shut out the visitors, 9 to 0.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

"Just what does begin the back swing? Do the hands start it, or the body or what?" These and similar questions are often asked, and it is safe to assume that the average golfer asks such things of himself a good many times. The golf swing starts with a sort of rhythmic signal throughout the entire body. How can you say exactly where you begin to walk? It's the same thing with the swing. The exertion starts as a whole, and continues throughout as a whole. I don't think it is a good idea for the player to design to put some one part of his body into action to start the back swing. Invariably the golfers who do this have something awkward about their swing. Get ready for your swing, letting the address and the waggle really begin it, then let the action flow into the swing as a whole. Selecting some one point to move first, such as the hips or a knee, results in awkwardness and unnaturalness.

Three Major Events On Today's Program At Trapshoot Meet

DATON, O., Aug. 25.—Today's program at the Amateur Trapshooting association's 27th. annual meeting calls for three major events:

The race for state champions; the professional clay targets championship, and the state team championship.

S. L. Jenny, of Highland, Ills., won the amateur clay target championship of North America from a field of 565 crack gunners only by a toss-up after four 25-shot shootoffs had failed to decide a tie between Jenny and E. J. Smith, Aberdeen, S. D., E. F. Woodward, Houston, Texas; W. G. Warren, Chicago, Ills. and D. M. Hudson, Hammond, Ind., each of whom shot 199 targets out of a possible 200.

Mrs. J. C. Wright of Atlanta, Ga., was crowned the new women's champion, clicking off 190.

Gene to Shift Camp to Site Near Philadelphia.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 25.—Following a long walk on the board walk early this morning, Jack Dempsey declared his intention of settling down again to serious training this afternoon with the local dog track as the locale. He might have worked a few rounds yesterday, but the new ring wasn't ready, so he confined himself to light exercises. He was almost mobbed when he appeared on the walk with Mrs. Estelle Taylor Dempsey.

The new ring will be covered to protect the champion from sun and rain.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 25. — Gene Tunney was scheduled to get in a regulation workout today, in spite of the impending shift of the challenger's camp to the Glen Brook Country club, Stroudsburg, Pa., in order to be near the scene of the big fight at Philadelphia on September 23. Tunney declared himself to be in the best condition of his career this morning.

Big Twirler is "On," Clouts Out Double in Fourth to Send in Second Run of Contest; Ashe Given Faultless Support.

CHESTER and Laughlin, West Virginia representatives of the City Industrial Baseball League, and perennial contenders for the pennant, met in battle royal at Newell park last evening and the Chester nine, defeated a couple of weeks ago by the Laughlins, came back to hand the McCoyites a 2 to 0 shutout, with Mike Cebula fanning 10 opposing batters in five innings of play.

As on the occasion of the previous clash, Manager Riley threw his pitching ace, "Mike," into the breach while Laughlin sent the speedman Ashe to the firing line. A nip and tuck fight resulted with the outcome in doubt until the last man was retired.

All Chester seemingly was in attendance, massed in noisy phalanx along the third base sector and extending into left field. And no real Newell baseball fan remained at home. The visitors were lined up, many deep, from the home plate background into deep right yelling vociferously the entire while their favorites worked. Betwixt and between and everywhere they could find places, were hundreds from East Liverpool. Automobiles surrounded the field. It was a gala diamond occasion, marking the biggest crowd undoubtedly that has seen a 1926 contest here.

And "Mike" was in form. That statement tells cryptically the story of the victory. For, despite an infield made up of two players out of position, Wilde taking P. Cebula's berth at short with Evans substituting for Greene at third and Wyant, ordinarily a pitcher, in middle for Evans and Stoffell, another twirler, in right, the hefty hurler refused to permit the down river aggregation to get a man further than third. And on only one occasion did a Newell runner reach that point. He allowed but three hits and one of these blows, a hard drive at L. McMath, might have been turned into a putout, had McMath been able to locate the ball as it bounded away from him.

The Chester twirler turned in 10 strikeouts which happened to be exactly two-thirds of the putout for the day. In other words he turned them back at an average clip of two to each inning.

Only Ashe and Bubin failed to be victims of his speed. In the fifth, with darkness rapidly gathering and the tying runs on the bags, he fanned Babb and Finley, usually dependable swatters, effectively ending the contest.

Once only did "Mike" falter and that was in the third when, after fanning Hunselman, he walked Ashe and Babb, the latter following Parsons' strikeout. Babb made a clean steal of second, but Finley rapped feebly to the hilltop, enabling the pitcher to assist to Heckathorne and the crisis was passed.

Bubin got around as far as the hot corner in the third when his blow to L. McMath started him off at first. He went to second on a passed ball. He clung to the keystone sack as Sayres lifted to Stoffel but surprised with a fine steal to third as Aufderheide was wielding the willow at the plate. But there he died as Aufderheide missed the third strike.

Laughlin threatened seriously in the final swatting period of the fifth. Hunselman started with a walk but was forced by Ashe at second, L. McMath to Wilde. Parsons singled to left and W. Watson, running for Ashe, took second. There they languished as Cebula released his stuff on Babb and Finley, fanning both.

But the game was no walkaway. Ashe, Newell speed merchant, was on the job every moment. He was a trifle wild, however, walking two and hitting one. These shortcomings contributed to his team's undoing. He walked Evans, first man up. Then Heckathorne and L. McMath, fast men, bunted successively. The speedy Wilde made good with a long fly to Parsons on which Evans counted. Ashe then fanned Wyant and caused F. Marshall to foul to Babb, the latter making a fine catch.

He retired his opponents in a row in the second. Evans, singling to right in the third, died on the paths as Ashe turned back Heckathorne, L. McMath and Wilde in order.

In the fourth Chester turned in another run which cinched the game. Wyant opened by hitting the first ball pitched to right. F. Marshall sacrificed, Ashe to Sayre. Stoffel fanned. W. McMath was hit. Then Mike Cebula doubled to left. The ball bounded over Parsons, enabling Wyant to finish and W. McMath to reach third. The latter, if faster, might also have scored. Evans walked, but Heckathorne fanned.

Ashe refused further scoring. L. McMath opened the fifth with a single to right, but was nipped off first, Ashe to Babb. Wilde flew to Aufderheide, who made a fine catch. And then Ashe struck out Wyant.

L. McMath took the game's hitting honors with two singles in three tries, although Evans hung up a perfect mark with two walks and a single in three attempts.

The contest was a great diamond exhibition. There was honor enough for victor and loser, with Laughlin giving their hurler perfect support.

Next Two Weeks Will Decide Pennant Race

Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Foaming at the mouth probably will be condemned in some circles as ungentlemanly and lacking in sanitation; therefore, those who feel that way about an ancient and honored function will be somewhat depressed to learn that in St. Louis an entire population today foams at will and without warning and is proud of it.

One glance at the standing of the clubs in the National league has been known to send large families foaming about the house, individually and in concert. Mere mention of the miraculous fact that the Cardinals are up with the pace during the last week in August has served to put a frothy "top" on a plain glass of water. Only righteous and strictly biased foam is tolerated.

It seems to me that if they were a trifle less premature, they might save a lot of wear and tear on the salivary glands, considering what the next two weeks will mean to the National league race. The Cards are a hot choice today. Within two weeks, they may be considerably hotter, in which case one may foam at leasure and with justification, or they may be absolutely frigid, in which case one wouldn't care about foaming with a mouth full of soap.

The next two weeks will tell the story of the pennant race, the greatest the National league has known since the memorable campaign of 1908. The preface will be written in St. Louis on Sunday when the Cardinals will open a series with the Champion Pirates, with the league leadership at stake. The plot will thicken rapidly when, after a single game with the Cubs, the Cards will invade Cincinnati for another showdown set of games. The climax will come immediately thereafter in another Cardinal-Pirate series, their last meeting of the year.

That, briefly, is the situation today. It would seem to throw the real burden of proof on the Cardinals, at least for the time being. The Reds need only win the majority of games in two series with the Cubs to profit automatically while the Cards and Pirates are at each other's throats.

But, later, the same thing will react to the Cardinals' favor when, beginning September 10, the Reds and Pirates will play a two-game series while the Cards are dallying with Boston. And if you think this means a stand-off on paper, you will do well to consider the records which show that the Cards have won 12 out of 15 with the Braves, while the Reds have taken 9 out of 16 with the Cubs.

However, past performances can run for the end book at this stage of proceedings. The ball club that can show the most punch and consistency today, tomorrow, next week and next month will win the pennant, not the entry that is trying to prove something by what happened in June.

All three contenders are sprinting home right now. The Cards dropped their first in nine games yesterday and fell into third place. The Reds ran their streak into ten straight. The Pirates made it eight out of the last twelve.

Pay your money and take your choice.

The Senators and the Browns had the American League all to themselves yesterday, and for the Senators, everything was quite all right. Heavy hitting at the start gave them a sizeable lead, and St. Louis dropped on the short end of a 9 to 6 score. Rain caused postponement of all the other games.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The Giants almost won a game yesterday, but infield errors put Jack Scott at a disadvantage and the Cincinnati Reds came through on top, 4 to 3.

The Robins regretted their action a little while ago in toppling the Pirates out of first place, so they handed the dish back again yesterday, 10 to 1. Ray Kremer pitched beautiful ball, while Burleigh Grimes bowled for the Doggers, allowing a rally of five runs in two innings, before he was relieved of the responsibility.

The Braves and the Cards divided honors in their double header at St. Louis yesterday. The visitors took the first, 2 to 1, then fought a close battle to give Hornsby's boys the second, 6 to 5.

Long-distance batting was the rule of the Chicago Cubs, leaving the Philadelphia Nationals on the sour end of both games of a double-header. The first one went 9 to 4, while two homers by Hartnett and one by Wilson in the second helped shut out the visitors, 9 to 0.

Lady Astor Drops Her Offer to Send British Family to Russia

LONDON.—Lady Astor is backing out of her offer to send a Socialist family to Russia, according to the "Sunday Worker" the extreme Labor Weekly.

"Correspondence from Nancy Astor, M. P. to Jim Morton, an iron moulder of Liverpool, who took up her offer," says the newspaper, reveals the fact that Nancy is adamant on the question of passage money versus expenses.

"Nancy's original offer certainly said passage money, but Jim Morton in his first inquiry mentioned expenses, and he claims that unless he has rail expenses from Liverpool to London and some money for the minimum amount of clothing for his wife and two children then the callenge obviously cannot be taken up.

"It seems certain that Nancy Astor does not really want to send a Socialist family to Russia. She doubtless regrets her impulsive offer and realizes from countless testimonies the "terrible" effect that experience of life in Soviet Russia has on British Workers."

California Man at 101 Seeks Divorce From Seventh Wife

SANTA ANA, Cal.—Probably the oldest applicant for a divorce in the United States had a petition for a separation on file in court here today.

Juan Magana, 101, who remembers six wives, now wants to get rid of his seventh, Mathilda, 56. He has been a "kissless bridegroom." Magana charged, and he wants to be free.

Haskin's Letter

distance off-shore can be determined by the time required for sound to move the distance under water.

To determine this a hydrophone is fixed under water close in shore. When a bomb is exploded by the ship, the sound waves are carried to this hydrophone, which upon receipt of them instantly and automatically releases a radio flash, which goes back to the ship. The radio transmission through the air is to all intents instantaneous, hence the observer on shipboard needs only to record the instant of the bomb explosion and the instant of the radio flash-back, to know the time required for a sound wave to reach shore. From this the distance is quickly figured. More than one hydrophone station ashore is needed to fix the exact position of a ship, two charted stations being used, and sometimes three. Each records the same bomb explosion, the time of the flash-back being different from each shore station.

This device has enabled sounding and charting work to go on at all times and under conditions hitherto impossible in coast survey work. It involves several pieces of mechanism, all of which have been worked out to practical success.

While the Coast and Geodetic Survey has done this extensive work off the west coast, the Navy has also done a large amount of charting on the Pacific, using the sonic depth-finder method, which likewise makes use of the travel of sound waves under water. This is a method which was beginning to be understood prior to the War but had its real development as a device for the detection of submarines. Science has now turned it to account for charting the ocean bottom, the work in the Pacific being in aid of the scientists who have sought on the ocean bottom the record of causes of the Santa Barbara and other earthquake disturbances.

By utilizing waters of the Pykara, the largest river in the Nigiris, India, where it drops 400 feet in a series of falls, one of the greatest hydro-electric plants in that part of Asia will be developed.

Lady Astor Drops Her Offer to Send British Family to Russia

LONDON.—Lady Astor is backing out of her offer to send a Socialist family to Russia, according to the "Sunday Worker" the extreme Labor Weekly.

"Correspondence from Nancy Astor, M. P. to Jim Morton, an iron moulder of Liverpool, who took up her offer," says the newspaper, reveals the fact that Nancy is adamant on the question of passage money versus expenses.

"Nancy's original offer certainly said passage money, but Jim Morton in his first inquiry mentioned expenses, and he claims that unless he has rail expenses from Liverpool to London and some money for the minimum amount of clothing for his wife and two children then the callenge obviously cannot be taken up.

"It seems certain that Nancy Astor does not really want to send a Socialist family to Russia. She doubtless regrets her impulsive offer and realizes from countless testimonies the "terrible" effect that experience of life in Soviet Russia has on British Workers."

SANTA ANA, Cal.—Probably the oldest applicant for a divorce in the United States had a petition for a separation on file in court here today.

Juan Magana, 101, who remembers six wives, now wants to get rid of his seventh, Mathilda, 56. He has been a "kissless bridegroom." Magana charged, and he wants to be free.

distance off-shore can be determined by the time required for sound to move the distance under water.

To determine this a hydrophone is fixed under water close in shore. When a bomb is exploded by the ship, the sound waves are carried to this hydrophone, which upon receipt of them instantly and automatically releases a radio flash, which goes back to the ship. The radio transmission through the air is to all intents instantaneous, hence the observer on shipboard needs only to record the instant of the bomb explosion and the instant of the radio flash-back, to know the time required for a sound wave to reach shore. From this the distance is quickly figured. More than one hydrophone station ashore is needed to fix the exact position of a ship, two charted stations being used, and sometimes three. Each records the same bomb explosion, the time of the flash-back being different from each shore station.

This device has enabled sounding and charting work to go on at all times and under conditions hitherto impossible in coast survey work. It involves several pieces of mechanism, all of which have been worked out to practical success.

While the Coast and Geodetic Survey has done this extensive work off the west coast, the Navy has also done a large amount of charting on the Pacific, using the sonic depth-finder method, which likewise makes use of the travel of sound waves under water. This is a method which was beginning to be understood prior to the War but had its real development as a device for the detection of submarines. Science has now turned it to account for charting the ocean bottom, the work in the Pacific being in aid of the scientists who have sought on the ocean bottom the record of causes of the Santa Barbara and other earthquake disturbances.

By utilizing waters of the Pykara, the largest river in the Nigiris, India, where it drops 400 feet in a series of falls, one of the greatest hydro-electric plants in that part of Asia will be developed.

State Fair Next Week Will be Larger Than Ever.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 25.—With compilation of entries for the 1926 State Fair livestock departments practically completed, a splendid indication of the quality of next week's exposition is available.

According to Chas. V. Truax, director of Agriculture, the success of every phase of the livestock exhibition is definitely assured.

"Practically every department on the grounds is far ahead of last year, while many are setting new records for Ohio and for fairs of the country as well," Director Truax states.

A week before the opening of State Fair, there were more than 40 head of horses entered for the liberal premium awards than were shown last year, when a total of 282 pure bred Belgian and Percherons competed in the Coliseum arena. In the cattle department, new herds will be represented, while the aggregate number of animals to be displayed will be materially above the figures established a year ago.

In the swine department, the Berkshire classification already has twice as many animals enrolled as were entered in the 1925 fair. Durocs and Polands are well up to their usual standards. Every breed that will compete in the big swine arena with its four comfortable grandstands shows an increase over last year.

More than 2,500 head of sheep will be in the rings next week. This will maintain for Ohio the lead long held in its sheep show.

In checking over the entries recorded for the coming competitions, it is discovered that Ohio State university is credited with being the largest single competitor in the livestock department. Two breeds of horses, 14 beef cattle, four of dairy cattle, two of hogs and six breeds of sheep have been qualified by this state institution.

Cooper Resigns As President of Ohio Bell Company

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—C. P. Cooper resigned today as president of the Ohio Bell telephone company to become a vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company. He will be succeeded by Edwin F. Carter of St. Louis, Mo.

The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share of the preferred stock payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 20. Expenditure of $2,352,417 for additions and improvements was authorized.

Karl Burr of Columbus was made general counsel, succeeding S. H. Tolles who died last month at Denver, Colo.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 25.—With compilation of entries for the 1926 State Fair livestock departments practically completed, a splendid indication of the quality of next week's exposition is available.

According to Chas. V. Truax, director of Agriculture, the success of every phase of the livestock exhibition is definitely assured.

"Practically every department on the grounds is far ahead of last year, while many are setting new records for Ohio and for fairs of the country as well," Director Truax states.

A week before the opening of State Fair, there were more than 40 head of horses entered for the liberal premium awards than were shown last year, when a total of 282 pure bred Belgian and Percherons competed in the Coliseum arena. In the cattle department, new herds will be represented, while the aggregate number of animals to be displayed will be materially above the figures established a year ago.

In the swine department, the Berkshire classification already has twice as many animals enrolled as were entered in the 1925 fair. Durocs and Polands are well up to their usual standards. Every breed that will compete in the big swine arena with its four comfortable grandstands shows an increase over last year.

More than 2,500 head of sheep will be in the rings next week. This will maintain for Ohio the lead long held in its sheep show.

In checking over the entries recorded for the coming competitions, it is discovered that Ohio State university is credited with being the largest single competitor in the livestock department. Two breeds of horses, 14 beef cattle, four of dairy cattle, two of hogs and six breeds of sheep have been qualified by this state institution.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—C. P. Cooper resigned today as president of the Ohio Bell telephone company to become a vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company. He will be succeeded by Edwin F. Carter of St. Louis, Mo.

The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share of the preferred stock payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 20. Expenditure of $2,352,417 for additions and improvements was authorized.

Karl Burr of Columbus was made general counsel, succeeding S. H. Tolles who died last month at Denver, Colo.

MILLIONS, all over the world, as far as moving pictures spread, will learn with deep regret the death of Rudolph Valentino very young man of intense fee[illegible] and earnestness, Valentino held his place, without a rival in his [illegible]. Foreign born, with no friends in America to help him, he made his way by hard work, and his talent gave intense pleasure to tens of millions. His life was too short, but it was not wasted.

DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT, president of Harvard for 40 years, is dead, in his 93rd year. Theodore Roosevelt said of him "He is the only man I envy," which is surprising. You would expect Roosevelt to envy Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, Genthis Khan and Tamarlane. President Taft said of Dr. Eliot: "He is as well preserved as though he had spent his years in the atmosphere of the supreme court."

ALTHOUGH head of a great university, Dr. Eliot was not an orthodox Christian. He said fear of hell "has not prov[illegible] effective to deter men [illegible] ing." And of heaven, [illegible] as never yet been described, while [illegible] as very attractive to the [illegible] woman. Both heaven and hell are, Gibbon said, unimaginable."

He even said that men and women would not be any more inclined to good or evil, "if heaven were burned or hell quenched. The prevailing Christian ideas of Heaven or hell have hardly any more influence with educated people in these days than Olympus and Hades have."

He attacked from the pulpit, but all that sounds mild enough now.

POLITICIANS say President Coolidge wants Frank L. Smith, of Chicago, to retire from the race for senator. That would make room for a pro-world court Republican candidate, and would admirably suit Mr. Brennan, also of Chicago, and Democratic nominee for the senate. Mr. Brennan would become sole proprietor of the anti-world court issue, so strong in Illinois that it prevented Senator McKinley's re-nomination.

GREECE has a new boss, General Condylis, and Pangalos, his predecessor, is under arrest. Greece works swiftly, dramatically. Condylis prepared his revolution, army and navy joining him, the crowd always ready for a change, Pangalos ran away in a flying machine. Fast Greek army planes overtook and turned him over to the Greek destroyer Pergamos. Pangalos persuaded the Pergamos captain to run away with him.

AN AMERICAN horse won the Grand Prix at Deauville. Twenty thousand prosperous spendthrifts from all nations witnessed the American victory and not one cheered. Dead silence greeted the American winner. That will not hurt the feelings of this nations. It might persuade the American spendthrifts to do their spendthrifting at home. Our disregard of law offers them all gambling conveniences from Saratoga to Miami.

Police Reserves Called Out to Quell Disturbances.

FASCISTI GUARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—An unending stream of people, formed into a line six deep for blocks, today, passed into Campbell's funeral church on Broadway, where the body of Rudolph Valentino, lies in state and paid tribute to the famous motion picture star. Fully ten thousand were in the surging crush of humanity. They passed the casket at the rate of 80 a minute.

Police in Control.

It was a more orderly and reverent crowd today. There was no repetition of the rioting of yesterday and last night when persons were injured and scores of women fainted. The line inside the church moved along briskly and quietly. Most of the people genuflected or blessed themselves as they reached the casket and took one swift glance at Valentino in repose.

Police were in complete control of the situation. There was no pushing or rowdyness. Girls and women predominated. Many of them were on the verge of tears.

Black-shirted members of the New York Facisti—an honor guard of six—stood near the casket as the people filed by. Across their satin black shirts were blazing rows of service ribbons.

While the great throng was paying respectful homage to Valentino, defi-

Quarterly Conference at Campmeeting Grounds Today.

Free Methodist campmeetings, under way in the tabernacle on Anderson boulevard, will continue until Sunday, with the concluding services on Sunday night.

Rev. Oliver Atkinson, of Uniontown, Pa., preached at yesterday afternoon's services.

The young people's meeting last evening was in charge of Adelaide Latshaw, missionary from Africa. In addition to the regular services, an address was given by Anthony Suchocki, ministerial student.

Dr. E. M. Poland, Pittsburgh, president of the "No Tobacco Army," and editor of the "No Tobacco Educator" gave a half-hour talk on "Evils of Tobacco."

Improvements to Rock Springs Park Started By New Operator

Six Hundred Gallons of Paint Arrives for Use on Buildings and Fences—Work Will be Pushed.

Work of improving Rock Springs park under the direction of C. C. Macdonald of Akron, who has leased the playground for twenty-five years, will begin this week, when shipment of 600 gallons of paint is scheduled to arrive to be applied to park buildings.

New color combination of the entire park is to be straw yellow and white and painters will start their work at the entrance right away. Pickets missing from the parkway fence are being replaced and a landscape gardener will soon be on the job, mapping out his plans for putting the natural scenery of the park into shape.

"I plan to bring the park back in popularity and in improvements and facilities to the days when it was the most popular playground and outing spot in West Virginia, declared Mr. Macdonald.

GERTRUDE EDERLE WILL BE GIVEN ROYAL RECEPTION UPON RETURN

Channel Swimmer Scheduled to Reach New York on Friday—To Be Welcomed by Mayor Walker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A welcome home demonstration, such as will rival if not surpass that accorded Bobby Jones, will be put on for the benefit of Gertrude Ederle, heroine of the recent record-breaking channel swim, when she arrives on the Berengaria on Friday. To the shriek of whistles in the harbor and a "water saluto" from a battery of fire boats, "Trudy" will be escorted ashore by a mayor's committee of welcome and paraded proudly up Broadway to city hall to be officially greeted and felicitated by Mayor Walker.

In spite of the fact that "Trudy" turned professional last year, fifty A. A. U. clubs plan to be represented in the line of march to city hall.

Following the mayor's greeting a reception to New York's "leading lady" will be held in the aldermanic chambers, following which the parade will be resumed to her now-famous Amsterdam avenue home. A guard of honor, composed of mounted, motorcycle and foot policemen, will accompany the swimmer on her triumphal entry, seated between her father and mother.

FARM HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Residence of Charles Zimmerman Near Leetonia Burns.

Fire, caused by a gas stove explosion late yesterday afternoon, totally destroyed the 11 room farm residence occupied by Charles Zimmerman, two miles south of Leetonia. The loss is estimated at $6,500.

The blaze started when Mrs. Zimmerman lit the stove on the back porch preparatory to moving it to the yard. The flames spread to the house and soon the entire structure was a mass of fire.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade but their efforts in fighting the flames proved unavailing. But few articles of household goods were saved.

Playground Outing At Fredericktown All Day Thursday

Annual playground picnic will be held tomorrow at Fredericktown with approximately 100 youngsters participating in the outing.

The children will be taken to the picnic grounds in trucks. The program is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock in the morning and end at 4:30 in the afternoon.

The outing will be supervised by Frank Manton, playground director, and Miss Irma Jones, assistant. Each youngstown will take his own lunch. Games, swimming and other sports are on the program.

The playground season will close on Friday evening with races and novelty events. Prizes will be awarded to winners. The hours will be from 6 to 8.

STORES PLAN "DOLLAR DAY"

More than 70 merchants are taking part in the semi-annual "dollar day" which will be observed by stores here tomorrow under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' division of the chamber of commerce.

Managers and clerks have been busy during the week arranging the varied assortment of merchandise which will be offered to the buying public tomorrow at greatly reduced prices.

Anticipating large crowds, many of which are expected to visit the city from all sections of Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock counties, store owners have engaged a large number of extra sales people to assist the regular clerks.

WALKER NAMED CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY G. O. P. ORGANIZATION

Central Committee Arranges for Fall Campaign.

CROXALL HONORED

County Candidates are Members of Campaign Committee.

County Auditor Elmer E. Walker, Damascus, was elected chairman of the Republican county central committee at a reorganization meeting held in common pleas court room No. 1, Lisbon, Tuesday night.

L. H. Johnson, clerk to the board of county commissioners was elected secretary, with Joseph T. Croxall of East Liverpool as treasurer.

Mr. Walker did not solicit the election, but accepted with the understanding that he would have the wholehearted support of the entire committee.

The report of former treasurer Thomas H. Stevens, East Liverpool, showed a balance in the general fund of the committee, and this was turned over to Treasurer-elect Croxall.

From the general central committee an executive committee is to be selected based upon one member for each 1,000 votes cast at the last general election for President Coolidge.

A committee to draft resolutions of respect in memory of the late Charles E. Hamilton was named by Chairman Walker, the committee consisting of Attorney William B. Moore, Lisbon, J. T. Croxall, East Liverpool, and Samuel Bye.

The campaign committee is to be composed of all county candidates.

There are just three women on the county committee, Miss Rose Hill, Yellow Creek township, and Mrs. John Hutter and Mrs. Robert Young, both of East Palestine.

After the regular business of the meeting had been transacted, brief addresses were made by Mrs. Marshall Cronin and Attorney H. W. Vodrey of East Liverpool; Probate Judge Lodge Riddle of Lisbon; R. N. Chamberlain of East Palestine and C. C. White, Lisbon.

"I was selected the head of this committee without solicitation," Chairman Walker said before the meeting closed. "I want your help. I'll be fair and square and will always be willing to take your advice. Many hands make light work. I hold no animosity toward a soul in this county and I have nothing but friendship for every one."

WISE NAMED POLICE CHIEF

CANTON, O., Aug. 25.—Police Sergeant John G. Wise, was appointed acting chief of the Canton police department today by Mayor S. M. Swarts to supplant S. A. Lengel, former chief, who was removed yesterday by the mayor on charges of bungling the Mellett murder case, associating with law violators and neglect of duty.

Wise, who is a young war veteran, has been termed the "most honest man in the police department," and in his work on the Mellett slaying has gathered valuable evidence.

Ruling Announced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The interstate commerce commission today held that the proposal of the railroads to increase the freight rate on iron and steel articles, imported in carloads from New Orleans and other gulf ports, except Texas, with its restriction to lines east of the Mississippi river, was justified.

NEW HIGH RECORD SET IN APPEALED CASE OF DEPOSED POLICE CHIEF

Fifty-nine Persons Subpoened to Appear for Examination Today While 96 Others Will Report Tomorrow—Hearing Resumed at 9:30 O'clock This Morning When Fogo is Recalled.

HEARING IS HALTED FREQUENTLY AS JUDGE SPENCE QUESTIONS WITNESSES

Acting Police-Chief Newton Asserts That "I Don't Want the Job; I Have Another One Waiting for Me," When Placed Upon Stand Today—Court Adjourns at 11:30 for Lunch.

Columbiana county common pleas court records to date in the matter of number of witnesses in any one case will be shattered when the appeal hearing of former Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville, is brought to a conclusion before Judge W. H. Spence, it was indicated today.

Subpoenas have been issued for 229 witnesses in the hearing. Of this number 59 were scheduled for questioning today and 96 more have been ordered to report for examination on Thursday.

A. L. Newton, Wellsville's acting chief of police following Fultz's removal, was the chief witness for the prosecution as the hearing was resumed this morning.

Shows Police Manual.

"I don't want Fultz's job," asserted Newton, while he was being questioned by the court. "I have another job waiting for me and I'm not trying to get the place."

Newton had previously told Judge Spence that he was the oldest man on the force, and eligible for the appointment as head of the department.

The Fultz case was resumed at 9:35 this morning when Mayor W. L. Fogo was recalled to the stand and was asked to identify the fire and police manual of the city of Wellsville, pages 25 to 29, inclusive, referring to police duties. The court told counsel that it was necessary to show how the book was formed before it could be admitted.

"You have had all the time you wanted to prepare the case," the court informed Attorney S. W. Crawford. "It's an easy matter to show whether rules have been adopted by the civil service commission." Mayor Fogo then left the stand.

Sisters Are Called.

Lindy Schmidt, a sister of "Ike" Freeman, was examined by Attorney Crawford and testified that Mandy Edwards had got one dollar after she voted last November.

Dora Schmidt, another sister of Freeman's, was informed by the court during the early part of her examination that if money was given anyone for voting, that the witness would not be compelled to testify if she was in any way connected with a violation of law and her testimony would incriminate her.

She said that she had talked to Mayor Fogo at city hall after Chief Newton went to her house and hold her the mayor wanted "us over there." She testified that her brother had been arrested many times.

Rules Against Testimony.

Mayor Fogo was again recalled to the stand and testified that the woman had been subpoened and that he had never talked to her.

The direct examination of Joseph Carney, who sold the Gem Moving Picture theatre in East End, East Liverpool, to Fultz, was cut short by the court who said that "this may be omitted."

Counsel for Mayor Fogo was bringing out the fact that Carney had sold the theatre to Fultz.

"He might be engaged in a hundred lines of business outside of chief of police but this does not enter into the case. The evidence is not competent," the court said to Attorney Crawford.

"The court does not seek to prevent you from showing his duties about the city of Wellsville.

Government Men Here to Combat Black Rust.

The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of plant industry, co-operating with state agricultural and other agencies, is carrying its campaign against the barberry bush into the East Liverpool district.

Ralph Gosen, Myron Hetzel and Harry Atwood, from the United States department of agriculture, and Paul Liley, from the state department of agriculture, have been detailed by John W. Baringer, of the federal barberry eradication forces to inspect shrubbery in the city for common barberry bushes which are alleged to spread black stem rust to grain.

The government agents started work this morning. The barberry scouts will be reuired to visit every property in the city as well as farm property in the vicinity.

The survey of East Liverpool is part of a campaign now in progress in 13 north central states. The movement is sponsored by the national and state governments with many other interested agencies participating. In accordance with a plan worked out by the United States department of agriculture, each state is being covered, county by county, the scouts visiting every property and making a thorough inspection for the presence of barberries.

The Japanese barberry, the agents say, is harmless and should not be destroyed.

Important Meet of Northside Civic Association Thursday

Business of importance will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of the Northside Civic association in the Northside fire station at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. All residents of the Northside, Maplewood and Park boulevard sections have been invited to attend.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25.—With the declarations of United States Senator Frank Willis, Simeon Fess, and Myers Y. Cooper, Ohio's G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, and other speakers who addressed their convention still ringing in their ears, and the promises of strictest economy in the administration of state affairs still warm, Republicans reassembled in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium this morning to adopt their platform and complete plans for their campaigning preliminary to the November election.

The opening session yesterday afternoon at which Senator Fess sounded the party keynote, was marked by unequalled enthusiasm. Committees appointed in the earlier hours functioned like carefully designed machinery, and went through their business rapidly, speakers sounded the party's sentiments on the vital topics of the day and all was ready for the submission of the platform when the convention adjourned last night.

Closest harmony marked the convention and there was not a contest in the drafting of the planks for the platform upon which the candidates will seek election this fall. Meanwhile the committee working on the financial management of the campaigns went forward in its work.

Fess praised the National Administration's Tariff and Immigration policies and lauded the handling by President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of the financial problems, pointing out that, as a result of their able services, the national debt was reduced to $19,500,000,000 from $26,500,000,000 during the past five years of Republican administration.

Fess predicted that, barring Democratic trifling, the entire debt will be wiped out within the next thirty years.

Senator Willis stressed the present era of business prosperity, contrasting employment, business and industrial conditions today with those prevailing when the late President Harding was inaugurated five years ago. He referred to the refusal of Democrats to vote for Woman Suffrage, and predicted that "under Republican leadership, the United States will not become a member of the League of Nations, or any other super-government."

Cooper said the pre-primary campaign was a clean one, voiced belief that the entire Republican ticket in Ohio will be elected this fall and promised to put into the business of government the same principles that made for success "in my private enterprise and those you use in yours."

Mrs. Dwight J. Peterson, Toledo, addressing the convention, telling the delegates "why I am a Republican," said Willis voted for suffrage and former Atlee Pomerene, Democratic candidate for re-election, did not. She said Governor Donahey never appointed a woman to any major position and that he refused to see women leaders for conferences relative to state conditions.

Spendthrifts, Come Hon..

MILLIONS, all over the world, as far as moving pictures spread, will learn with deep regret the death of Rudolph Valentino very young man of intense feeling and earnestness, Valentino held his place, without a rival in his [illegible] Foreign born, with no friends in America to help him, he made his way by hard work, and his talent gave intense pleasure to tens of millions. His life was too short, but it was not wasted.

DR. CHARLES W. ELIOT, president of Harvard for 40 years, is dead, in his 93rd year. Theodore Roosevelt said of him "He is the only man I envy," which is surprising. You would expect Roosevelt to envy Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, Genthis Khan and Tamarlane. President Taft said of Dr. Eliot: "He is as well preserved as though he had spent his years in the atmosphere of the supreme court."

ALTHOUGH head of a great university, Dr. Eliot was not an orthodox Christian. He said fear of hell "has not proved effective to deter men [illegible]ing." And of heaven, [illegible]s never yet been described as very attractive to the average woman. Both heaven and hell are, Gibbon said, unimaginable."

He even said that men and women would not be any more inclined to good or evil, "if heaven were burned or hell quenched. The prevailing Christian ideas of Heaven or hell have hardly any more influence with educated people in these days than Olympus and Hades have."

He attacked from the pulpit, but all that sounds mild enough now.

POLITICIANS say President Coolidge wants Frank L. Smith, of Chicago, to retire from the race for senator. That would make room for a pro-world court Republican candidate, and would admirably suit Mr. Brennan, also of Chicago, and Democratic nominee for the senate. Mr. Brennan would become sole proprietor of the anti-world court issue, so strong in Illinois that it prevented Senator McKinley's re-nomination.

GREECE has a new boss, General Condylis, and Pangalos, his predecessor, is under arrest. Greece works swiftly, dramatically. Condylis prepared his revolution, army and navy joining him, the crowd always ready for a change, Pangalos ran away in a flying machine. Fast Greek army planes overtook and turned him over to the Greek destroyer Pergamos. Pangalos persuaded the Pergamos captain to run away with him.

AN AMERICAN horse won the Grand Prix at Deauville. Twenty thousand prosperous spendthrifts from all nations witnessed the American victory and not one cheered. Dead silence greeted the American winner. That will not hurt the feelings of this nations. It might persuade the American spendthrifts to do their spendthrifting at home. Our disregard of law offers them all gambling conveniences from Saratoga to Miami.

Jumping Ahead Of Geography

The school geographies do not show ZION NATIONAL PARK. It has been created out of a wild, half-known region since they were printed.

Every well-infromed person will want to know about the new National park in canyon land. A handsome illustrated booklet from our Washington Information Service tells the story in words and pictures.

Police Reserves Called Out to Quell Disturbances.

FASCISTI GUARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—An unending stream of people, formed into a line six deep for blocks, today, passed into Campbell's funeral church on Broadway, where the body of Rudolph Valentino, lies in state and paid tribute to the famous motion picture star. Fully ten thousand were in the surging crush of humanity. They passed the casket at the rate of 80 a minute.

Police in Control.

It was a more orderly and reverent crowd today. There was no repetition of the rioting of yesterday and last night when persons were injured and scores of women fainted. The line inside the church moved along briskly and quietly. Most of the people genuflected or blessed themselves as they reached the casket and took one swift glance at Valentino in repose.

Police were in complete control of the situation. There was no pushing or rowdyness. Girls and women predominated. Many of them were on the verge of tears.

Black-shirted members of the New York Facisti—an honor guard of six—stood near the casket as the people filed by. Across their satin black shirts were blazing rows of service ribbons.

While the great throng was paying respectful homage to Valentino, defi-

Quarterly Conference at Campmeeting Grounds Today.

Free Methodist campmeetings, under way in the tabernacle on Anderson boulevard, will continue until Sunday, with the concluding services on Sunday night.

Rev. Oliver Atkinson, of Uniontown, Pa., preached at yesterday afternoon's services.

The young people's meeting last evening was in charge of Adelaide Latshaw, missionary from Africa. In addition to the regular services, an address was given by Anthony Suchocki, ministerial student.

Dr. E. M. Poland, Pittsburgh, president of the "No Tobacco Army," and editor of the "No Tobacco Educator" gave a half-hour talk on "Evils of Tobacco."

Improvements to Rock Springs Park Started By New Operator

Six Hundred Gallons of Paint Arrives for Use on Buildings and Fences—Work Will be Pushed.

Work of improving Rock Springs park under the direction of C. C. Macdonald of Akron, who has leased the playground for twenty-five years, will begin this week, when shipment of 600 gallons of paint is scheduled to arrive to be applied to park buildings.

New color combination of the entire park is to be straw yellow and white and painters will start their work at the entrance right away. Pickets missing from the parkway fence are being replaced and a landscape gardener will soon be on the job, mapping out his plans for putting the natural scenery of the park into shape.

"I plan to bring the park back in popularity and in improvements and facilities to the days when it was the most popular playground and outing spot in West Virginia, declared Mr. Macdonald.

"People from Akron, who used to

GERTRUDE EDERLE WILL BE GIVEN ROYAL RECEPTION UPON RETURN

Channel Swimmer Scheduled to Reach New York on Friday—To Be Welcomed by Mayor Walker.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A welcome home demonstration, such as will rival if not surpass that accorded Bobby Jones, will be put on for the benefit of Gertrude Ederle, heroine of the recent record-breaking channel swim, when she arrives on the Berengaria on Friday. To the shriek of whistles in the harbor and a "water saluto" from a battery of fire boats, "Trudy" will be escorted ashore by a mayor's committee of welcome and paraded proudly up Broadway to city hall to be officially greeted and felicitated by Mayor Walker.

In spite of the fact that "Trudy" turned professional last year, fifty A. A. U. clubs plan to be represented in the line of march to city hall.

Following the mayor's greeting a reception to New York's "leading lady" will be held in the aldermanic chambers, following which the parade will be resumed to her now-famous Amsterdam avenue home. A guard of honor, composed of mounted, motorcycle and foot policemen, will accompany the swimmer on her triumphal entry, seated between her father and mother.

FARM HOUSE IS DESTROYED

Residence of Charles Zimmerman Near Leetonia Burns.

Fire, caused by a gas stove explosion late yesterday afternoon, totally destroyed the 11 room farm residence occupied by Charles Zimmerman, two miles south of Leetonia. The loss is estimated at $6,500.

The blaze started when Mrs. Zimmerman lit the stove on the back porch preparatory to moving it to the yard. The flames spread to the house and soon the entire structure was a mass of fire.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade but their efforts in fighting the flames proved unavailing. But few articles of household goods were saved.

The building is owned by Harry Holloway.

Emmons is a member of the resolution committee and also secretary of the eighteenth district committee.

Playground Outing At Fredericktown All Day Thursday

Annual playground picnic will be held tomorrow at Fredericktown with approximately 100 youngsters participating in the outing.

The children will be taken to the picnic grounds in trucks. The program is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock in the morning and end at 4:30 in the afternoon.

The outing will be supervised by Frank Manton, playground director, and Miss Irma Jones, assistant. Each youngstown will take his own lunch. Games, swimming and other sports are on the program.

The playground season will close on Friday evening with races and novelty events. Prizes will be awarded to winners. The hours will be from 6 to 8.

STORES PLAN "DOLLAR DAY"

More than 70 merchants are taking part in the semi-annual "dollar day" which will be observed by stores here tomorrow under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' division of the chamber of commerce.

Managers and clerks have been busy during the week arranging the varied assortment of merchandise which will be offered to the buying public tomorrow at greatly reduced prices.

Anticipating large crowds, many of which are expected to visit the city from all sections of Columbiana, Beaver and Hancock counties, store owners have engaged a large number of extra sales people to assist the regular clerks.

WALKER NAMED CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY G. O. P. ORGANIZATION

Central Committee Arranges for Fall Campaign.

CROXALL HONORED

County Candidates are Members of Campaign Committee.

County Auditor Elmer E. Walker, Damascus, was elected chairman of the Republican county central committee at a reorganization meeting held in common pleas court room No. 1, Lisbon, Tuesday night.

L. H. Johnson, clerk to the board of county commissioners was elected secretary, with Joseph T. Croxall of East Liverpool as treasurer.

Mr. Walker did not solicit the election, but accepted with the understanding that he would have the wholehearted support of the entire committee.

The report of former treasurer Thomas H. Stevens, East Liverpool, showed a balance in the general fund of the committee, and this was turned over to Treasurer-elect Croxall.

From the general central committee an executive committee is to be selected based upon one member for each 1,000 votes cast at the last general election for President Coolidge.

A committee to draft resolutions of respect in memory of the late Charles E. Hamilton was named by Chairman Walker, the committee consisting of Attorney William B. Moore, Lisbon, J. T. Croxall, East Liverpool, and Samuel Bye.

The campaign committee is to be composed of all county candidates.

There are just three women on the county committee, Miss Rose Hill, Yellow Creek township, and Mrs. John Hutter and Mrs. Robert Young, both of East Palestine.

After the regular business of the meeting had been transacted, brief addresses were made by Mrs. Marshall Cronin and Attorney H. W. Vodrey of East Liverpool; Probate Judge Lodge Riddle of Lisbon; R. N. Chamberlain of East Palestine and C. C. White, Lisbon.

"I was selected the head of this committee without solicitation," Chairman Walker said before the meeting closed. "I want your help. I'll be fair and square and will always be willing to take your advice. Many hands make light work. I hold no animosity toward a soul in this county and I have nothing but friendship for every one."

WISE NAMED POLICE CHIEF

CANTON, O., Aug. 25.—Police Sergeant John G. Wise, was appointed acting chief of the Canton police department today by Mayor S. M. Swarts to supplant S. A. Lengel, former chief, who was removed yesterday by the mayor on charges of bungling the Mellett murder case, associating with law violators and neglect of duty.

Wise, who is a young war veteran, has been termed the "most honest man in the police department," and in his work on the Mellett slaying has gathered valuable evidence.

Ruling Announced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The interstate commerce commission today held that the proposal of the railroads to increase the freight rate on iron and steel articles, imported in carloads from New Orleans and other gulf ports, except Texas, with its restriction to lines east of the Mississippi river, was justified.

NEW HIGH RECORD SET IN APPEALED CASE OF DEPOSED POLICE CHIEF

Fifty-nine Persons Subpoened to Appear for Examination Today While 96 Others Will Report Tomorrow—Hearing Resumed at 9:30 O'clock This Morning When Fogo is Recalled.

HEARING IS HALTED FREQUENTLY AS JUDGE SPENCE QUESTIONS WITNESSES

Acting Police-Chief Newton Asserts That "I Don't Want the Job; I Have Another One Waiting for Me," When Placed Upon Stand Today—Court Adjourns at 11:30 for Lunch.

Columbiana county common pleas court records to date in the matter of number of witnesses in any one case will be shattered when the appeal hearing of former Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville, is brought to a conclusion before Judge W. H. Spence, it was indicated today.

Subpoenas have been issued for 229 witnesses in the hearing. Of this number 59 were scheduled for questioning today and 96 more have been ordered to report for examination on Thursday.

A. L. Newton, Wellsville's acting chief of police following Fultz's removal, was the chief witness for the prosecution as the hearing was resumed this morning.

Shows Police Manual.

"I don't want Fultz's job," asserted Newton, while he was being questioned by the court. "I have another job waiting for me and I'm not trying to get the place."

Newton had previously told Judge Spence that he was the oldest man on the force, and eligible for the appointment as head of the department.

The Fultz case was resumed at 9:35 this morning when Mayor W. L. Fogo was recalled to the stand and was asked to identify the fire and police manual of the city of Wellsville, pages 25 to 29, inclusive, referring to police duties. The court told counsel that it was necessary to show how the book was formed before it could be admitted.

"You have had all the time you wanted to prepare the case," the court informed Attorney S. W. Crawford. "It's an easy matter to show whether rules have been adopted by the civil service commission." Mayor Fogo then left the stand.

Sisters Are Called.

Lindy Schmidt, a sister of "Ike" Freeman, was examined by Attorney Crawford and testified that Mandy Edwards had got one dollar after she voted last November.

Dora Schmidt, another sister of Freeman's, was informed by the court during the early part of her examination that if money was given anyone for voting, that the witness would not be compelled to testify if she was in any way connected with a violation of law and her testimony would incriminate her.

She said that she had talked to Mayor Fogo at city hall after Chief Newton went to her house and hold her the mayor wanted "us over there." She testified that her brother had been arrested many times.

Rules Against Testimony.

Mayor Fogo was again recalled to the stand and testified that the woman had been subpoened and that he had never talked to her.

The direct examination of Joseph Carney, who sold the Gem Moving Picture theatre in East End, East Liverpool, to Fultz, was cut short by the court who said that "this may be omitted."

Counsel for Mayor Fogo was bringing out the fact that Carney had sold the theatre to Fultz.

"He might be engaged in a hundred lines of business outside of chief of police but this does not enter into the case. The evidence is not competent," the court said to Attorney Crawford.

"The court does not seek to prevent you from showing his duties about the city of Wellsville.

Government Men Here to Combat Black Rust.

The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of plant industry, co-operating with state agricultural and other agencies, is carrying its campaign against the barberry bush into the East Liverpool district.

Ralph Gosen, Myron Hetzel and Harry Atwood, from the United States department of agriculture, and Paul Lileg, from the state department of agriculture, have been detailed by John W. Baringer, of the federal barberry eradication forces to inspect shrubbery in the city for common barberry bushes which are alleged to spread black stem rust to grain.

The government agents started work this morning. The barberry scouts will be reuired to visit every property in the city as well as farm property in the vicinity.

The survey of East Liverpool is part of a campaign now in progress in 13 north central states. The movement is sponsored by the national and state governments with many other interested agencies participating. In accordance with a plan worked out by the United States department of agriculture, each state is being covered, county by county, the scouts visiting every property and making a thorough inspection for the presence of barberries.

The Japanese barberry, the agents say, is harmless and should not be destroyed.

Important Meet of Northside Civic Association Thursday

Business of importance will be considered at the regular monthly meeting of the Northside Civic association in the Northside fire station at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. All residents of the Northside, Maplewood and Park boulevard sections have been invited to attend.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25.—With the declarations of United States Senator Frank Willis, Simeon Fess, and Myers Y. Cooper, Ohio's G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, and other speakers who addressed their convention still ringing in their ears, and the promises of strictest economy in the administration of state affairs still warm, Republicans reassembled in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium this morning to adopt their platform and complete plans for their campaigning preliminary to the November election.

The opening session yesterday afternoon at which Senator Fess sounded the party keynote, was marked by unequalled enthusiasm. Committees appointed in the earlier hours functioned like carefully designed machinery, and went through their business rapidly, speakers sounded the party's sentiments on the vital topics of the day and all was ready for the submission of the platform when the convention adjourned last night.

Closest harmony marked the convention and there was not a contest in the drafting of the planks for the platform upon which the candidates will seek election this fall. Meanwhile the committee working on the financial management of the campaigns went forward in its work.

Fess praised the National Administration's Tariff and Immigration policies and lauded the handling by President Coolidge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon of the financial problems, pointing out that, as a result of their able services, the national debt was reduced to $19,500,000,000 from $26,500,000,000 during the past five years of Republican administration.

Fess predicted that, barring Democratic trifling, the entire debt will be wiped out within the next thirty years.

Senator Willis stressed the present era of business prosperity, contrasting employment, business and industrial conditions today with those prevailing when the late President Harding was inaugurated five years ago. He referred to the refusal of Democrats to vote for Woman Suffrage, and predicted that "under Republican leadership, the United States will not become a member of the League of Nations, or any other super-govern ment."

Cooper said the pre-primary campaign was a clean one, voiced belief that the entire Republican ticket in Ohio will be elected this fall and promised to put into the business of government the same principles that made for success "in my private enterprise and those you use in yours."

Mrs. Dwight J. Peterson, Toledo, addressing the convention, telling the delegates "why I am a Republican," said Willis voted for suffrage and former Atlee Pomerene, Democratic candidate for re-election, did not. She said Governor Donahey never appointed a woman to any major position and that he refused to see women leaders for conferences relative to state conditions.

SOLONS TO ACT ON SEWER PLAN

Will Hold Conference With Traction Company.

Looking forward to rushing local sewer construction projects to completion at the earliest possible moment, city solons will put the plan up to the officials of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company and then will meet on Monday night in an adjourned session to decide upon their course of action.

That immediate action is necessary, in view of conditions in the west end of the city over the week-end following one of the heaviest rain storms in recent years, was the opinion of councilmen and city officials.

As a result, members of the council street and light committee, Engineer McGill, Safety-Service Director G. P. Ashley and Solicitor Samuel C. Luccock will hold a conference with representatives of the traction company, within the next few days, if possible, and will ask the car company how much of the cost it will bear in installing the needed sewers at the Commerce and Seventeenth street intersection and in Twentieth street.

That the McQueen's run storm sewer might have carried away the near deluge of water that swept down Saturday night had the city been able to clear it out properly was the opinion of several councilmen at last night's session. It was pointed out that the city had cleaned out part of the sewer last year, going as far as its money would carry the work. When funds ran out, work had to stop and at this point, it was said, the break occurred.

Construction of another breaker in McQueen's Run hollow as an additional preventative measure met with approval of council. The one breaker now in use was practically covered with rock and debris Sunday and although slightly twisted stood up well under the battering it received.

A 24-inch sewer to carry away the Commerce street surplus would cost $24,000, solons were told, and a 36-inch pipe would cost $10,000 additional.

FERNLEAF CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Games and music were the diversions. Contests were won by Mrs. John Hand and Mrs. Nona Moorehead, the consolation award going to Mrs. William Wilson.

Mrs. O. Givens rendered a number of piano selections. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Dwight Moorehead and Mrs. Fern Fawcett.

At the close of the affair a four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Nancy Kenney and Mrs. Denton Thomas.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Ed McIntosh, Eleventh street.

Sunday School Class Meets.

Mrs. Walter Weldon was hostess to members of the Loyal Women's Sunday school class of the First Christian church last evening at her home in Chester avenue. The monthly business session was followed by a social hour.

Undergoes Operation.

MRS. J. W. LAWSON FUNERAL FRIDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Lawson, of this city, who died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edith Chapman, in Cleveland, will be held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of a son, J. C. Lawson, in Riverside avenue.

The services will be in charge of Rev. Frank H. Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased had been a lifelong member.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Although it was originally planned to bring the body to Wellsville last night, the removal will not be made until this evening.

Mrs. Lawson was born in 1845 in Madison township. She lived there until her marriage and afterward resided in Wellsville. Her husband died three years ago.

CITY MAY CUT OFF "ARCADIA"

Set Date for Hearing on Proposed Move.

If there are any reasons for not repealing the ordinance passed by council several months ago, making the "Arcadia" sub-division in the west end of the city a part of the municipality, solons will hear them in open session on the night of September 21.

At their adjourned meeting last night, council decided upon this course of hearing protests, if any, before formally taking action repealing the measure which made the sub-division a part of the city.

In an ordinance acted on several months ago by council, "Arcadia" was added to the city prior to the sale by auction of a number of lots there.

In recent weeks, councilmen have brought to the attention of city officials the fact that it would practically be impossible to install sewers and make other improvements such as might be demanded by persons who bought lots in "Arcadia," in view of the city's limited finances, although no such requests have developed until the present time.

What money the city can obtain, solons pointed out, is badly needed in the construction of sewers and other important improvement work in the city proper.

CHESTER TOSSERS HERE THURSDAY

The Chester City Industrial League club, leading the race down the second half, will stack up against the Wellsville nine tomorrow evening at Central park.

With "Mike" Cebula on the mound, Chester last night shut out Laughlin, the first half winners, 2 to 0, Cebula allowing three hits. Wilde or Stoffell may be assigned to mound duty against the locals tomorrow.

Widower Congratulated

"Since my wife's death, five years ago, I have suffered greatly from stomach and liver trouble and gas attacks. I lost over 50 lbs., and at times was as yellow as saffron. My doctors could not help me. Six doses of MAYR'S have entirely cured me. I have regained my weight and every one is congratulating me how well I look." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway.

B. R. T. AUXILIARY MEET TOMORROW

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Moose hall, in Sixth and Main streets. Officers of the organization request a complete attendance.

O. N. O. Meet Postponed.

Meeting of the O. N. O. club, which was to have been held this evening at the home of Mrs. J. Brown, in St. Clair avenue, East Liverpool, has been postponed until Wednesday, September 8.

WOMEN ARE IN MINORITY

VIENNA.—With a population of a little more than six millions, Austria now has 238,690 more women than men. It will take about eighteen years to even things between the sexes in the country, it is estimated, although the birth rate of boys has been ten per cent greater than girls during the last six years.

This condition, which is due to the war, is reverse of that of pre-war Austria, which, with a population almost three times as great, had about 400,000 surplus men.

LEGION SEEKS TO GET OUT VOTERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., August 25.—Twenty-six American Legion state departments have pledged their active support in the attempt of the National American commission of the American Legion, working in conjunction with the National Civic federation, to stimulate participation of erstwhile neglectful citizens in party politics, and to awaken the dormant vote of the country at the general election Nov. 2.

"The movement is growing with a sudden, irresistible force, and letters from state Legion officials, many of whom at this time are busily engaged with their state conventions, are arriving daily offering to do everything in their power to aid in arousing men and women to their duties of citizenship," Frank C. Cross, National director of the American commission of the Legion, said today.

"Editors throughout the country are commenting on the huge possibilities for good that the movement will do and are commending the legion for tackling the problem, which all realize is a difficult one. But the Legion never hesitates at difficulties, and what could be more inspiring than to know we have a part in bringing out the controlling force in the election of our public officials? If we can awaken the dormant voter we will have awakened the honest voter, not the one herded to the polls by selfish bosses. Some editors even declare that this great movement spells the doom of bossism."

POSTAL SERVICE IS IMPROVED

VIENNA.—The Austrian postal service is more efficient today with thirty-five per cent less employees than it was in 1920, says a departmental report. When the League of Nations insisted that the government rid itself of thousands of unneeded wage earners as the initial step toward monetary stability, the postal department was attacked first. Altogether 14,777 postal employees have been discharged from the former 40,000 employed.

SOLONS TO ACT ON SEWER PLAN

Will Hold Conference With Traction Company.

Looking forward to rushing local sewer construction projects to completion at the earliest possible moment, city solons will put the plan up to the officials of the Steubenville, East Liverpool and Beaver Valley Traction company and then will meet on Monday night in an adjourned session to decide upon their course of action.

That immediate action is necessary, in view of conditions in the west end of the city over the week-end following one of the heaviest rain storms in recent years, was the opinion of councilmen and city officials.

As a result, members of the council street and light committee, Engineer McGill, Safety-Service Director G. P. Ashley and Solicitor Samuel C. Luccock will hold a conference with representatives of the traction company, within the next few days, if possible, and will ask the car company how much of the cost it will bear in installing the needed sewers at the Commerce and Seventeenth street intersection and in Twentieth street.

That the McQueen's run storm sewer might have carried away the near deluge of water that swept down Saturday night had the city been able to clear it out properly was the opinion of several councilmen at last night's session. It was pointed out that the city had cleaned out part of the sewer last year, going as far as its money would carry the work. When funds ran out, work had to stop and at this point, it was said, the break occurred.

Construction of another breaker in McQueen's Run hollow as an additional preventative measure met with approval of council. The one breaker now in use was practically covered with rock and debris Sunday and although slightly twisted stood up well under the battering it received.

A 24-inch sewer to carry away the Commerce street surplus would cost $24,000, solons were told, and a 36-inch pipe would cost $10,000 additional.

FERNLEAF CLUB IS ENTERTAINED

Games and music were the diversions. Contests were won by Mrs. John Hand and Mrs. Nona Moorehead, the consolation award going to Mrs. William Wilson.

Mrs. O. Givens rendered a number of piano selections. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Dwight Moorehead and Mrs. Fern Fawcett.

At the close of the affair a four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughters, Mrs. Nancy Kenney and Mrs. Denton Thomas.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Ed McIntosh, Eleventh street.

Sunday School Class Meets.

Mrs. Walter Weldon was hostess to members of the Loyal Women's Sunday school class of the First Christian church last evening at her home in Chester avenue. The monthly business session was followed by a social hour.

Undergoes Operation.

MRS. J. W. LAWSON FUNERAL FRIDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. J. W. Lawson, of this city, who died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edith Chapman, in Cleveland, will be held Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of a son, J. C. Lawson, in Riverside avenue.

The services will be in charge of Rev. Frank H. Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased had been a lifelong member.

Burial will be made in Spring Hill cemetery.

Although it was originally planned to bring the body to Wellsville last night, the removal will not be made until this evening.

Mrs. Lawson was born in 1845 in Madison township. She lived there until her marriage and afterward resided in Wellsville. Her husband died three years ago.

CITY MAY CUT OFF "ARCADIA"

Set Date for Hearing on Proposed Move.

If there are any reasons for not repealing the ordinance passed by council several months ago, making the "Arcadia" sub-division in the west end of the city a part of the municipality, solons will hear them in open session on the night of September 21.

At their adjourned meeting last night, council decided upon this course of hearing protests, if any, before formally taking action repealing the measure which made the sub-division a part of the city.

In an ordinance acted on several months ago by council, "Arcadia" was added to the city prior to the sale by auction of a number of lots there.

In recent weeks, councilmen have brought to the attention of city officials the fact that it would practically be impossible to install sewers and make other improvements such as might be demanded by persons who bought lots in "Arcadia," in view of the city's limited finances, although no such requests have developed until the present time.

What money the city can obtain, solons pointed out, is badly needed in the construction of sewers and other important improvement work in the city proper.

CHESTER TOSSERS HERE THURSDAY

The Chester City Industrial League club, leading the race down the second half, will stack up against the Wellsville nine tomorrow evening at Central park.

With "Mike" Cebula on the mound, Chester last night shut out Laughlin, the first half winners, 2 to 0, Cebula allowing three hits. Wilde or Stoffell may be assigned to mound duty against the locals tomorrow.

Widower Congratulated

"Since my wife's death, five years ago, I have suffered greatly from stomach and liver trouble and gas attacks. I lost over 50 lbs., and at times was as yellow as saffron. My doctors could not help me. Six doses of MAYR'S have entirely cured me. I have regained my weight and every one is congratulating me how well I look." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in Moose hall, in Sixth and Main streets. Officers of the organization request a complete attendance.

O. N. O. Meet Postponed.

Meeting of the O. N. O. club, which was to have been held this evening at the home of Mrs. J. Brown, in St. Clair avenue, East Liverpool, has been postponed until Wednesday, September 8.

WOMEN ARE IN MINORITY

VIENNA.—With a population of a little more than six millions, Austria now has 238,690 more women than men. It will take about eighteen years to even things between the sexes in the country, it is estimated, although the birth rate of boys has been ten per cent greater than girls during the last six years.

This condition, which is due to the war, is reverse of that of pre-war Austria, which, with a population almost three times as great, had about 400,000 surplus men.

LEGION SEEKS TO GET OUT VOTERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., August 25.—Twenty-six American Legion state departments have pledged their active support in the attempt of the National American commission of the American Legion, working in conjunction with the National Civic federation, to stimulate participation of erstwhile neglectful citizens in party politics, and to awaken the dormant vote of the country at the general election Nov. 2.

"The movement is growing with a sudden, irresistible force, and letters from state Legion officials, many of whom at this time are busily engaged with their state conventions, are arriving daily offering to do everything in their power to aid in arousing men and women to their duties of citizenship," Frank C. Cross, National director of the American commission of the Legion, said today.

"Editors throughout the country are commenting on the huge possibilities for good that the movement will do and are commending the legion for tackling the problem, which all realize is a difficult one. But the Legion never hesitates at difficulties, and what could be more inspiring than to know we have a part in bringing out the controlling force in the election of our public officials? If we can awaken the dormant voter we will have awakened the honest voter, not the one herded to the polls by selfish bosses. Some editors even declare that this great movement spells the doom of bossism."

POSTAL SERVICE IS IMPROVED

VIENNA.—The Austrian postal service is more efficient today with thirty-five per cent less employees than it was in 1920, says a departmental report. When the League of Nations insisted that the government rid itself of thousands of unneeded wage earners as the initial step toward monetary stability, the postal department was attacked first. Altogether 14,777 postal employees have been discharged from the former 40,000 employed.

COUNCIL HOLDS SPECIAL MEET

Members of council met last night in the municipal building for the purpose of confirming the annual tax levy adopted two weeks ago at the regular session. The budget as approved will be submitted to the state tax commission at Charleston.

Hancock county levy amounting to 20 cents on the $100 valuation, will continue throughout the ensuing year as a result of the action taken at a meeting of the county court held at New Cumberland.

Two weeks ago the commissioners surveyed their prospective expenditures for the coming year and decided that no change was necessary. Yesterday, after the customary two weeks interim, they met and confirmed their action.

The levy by districts follows:

PANHANDLE HERDS GIVEN AWARDS

Two dairy herds in the northern panhandle gained state recognition in the annual survey of the department of dairy husbandry of West Virginia College of Agriculture for the year ending July 1, 1926. Fifteen herds were picked as outstanding in the state, and the Mt. de Chantal farm of Wheeling gained sixth place with 17 Holsteins averaging 335-7 pounds of butter fat. S. P. Wood, of West Alexander, Pa., was awarded eleventh place in the standing with nine Holsteins that averaged 315-5 pounds of butter fat production.

Armstrong Jones, a Berkeley county farmer, carried top honors this year, when his herd of nine Jerseys showed an average production of 416.6 pounds of butter fat. No herd consisting of less than five cows was permitted to enter the competition. A beautifully engraved silver loving cup will be presented to Mr. Jones this fall, the cup to become the permanent possession of any entry winning the same three times.

SPUD INSPECTION PROVES SUCCESS

West Virginia potatoes, given inspection under the new arrangement between the state and federal governments, have received a warm welcome on the leading markets of the country since the movement of the "Mountain State Brand" started early this month. The price brought by the West Virginia potatoes, properly graded and found to be up to the standard of the "U. S. No. 1 Grade," were very satisfactory to the growers in every case, according to the state department of agriculture.

Although this is the first year that West Virginia potato growers have ever secured federal-state inspection of their potatoes, they have already convinced themselves that they can compete with the finest potatoes grown anywhere. This does not mean, of course, that any kind of potatoes can be thrown on the market, but when carefully graded and prepared for market so they can pass the U. S. grades, they can command the kind of prices that justify the additional care that they gave their potatoes.

KIWANIS STATE MEET SCHEDULED

Charles W. Gold, of Greensboro, N. C., international trustee of the Kiwanis International organization, and Fred C. W. Parker, international secretary and editor of the Kiwanis magazine, will be two of the speakers at the West Virginia district Kiwanis convention in Charleston on September 27 and 28, it was announced yesterday.

Some of the plans for entertaining the club are as yet tentative, it was said. About 1,000 delegates from all over the state are expected to be in Charleston for the meeting.

Many of the Kiwanians will make the trip by motor. It has been announced that a "motorcade" of Kiwanians and their families will form in the northern part of the state and proceed down the Ohio river and pass through Huntington. Special trains or coaches have always been provided towns where it is not convenient to come by automobile.

Lodge Meeting Held.

$46,000,000 Tube Under River Nearing Completion.

TOLLS PAY BILL

New Route Will Have 3,800 Cars Per Hour Capacity.

NEW YORK—The new Holland Vehicular Tunnel connecting New York with Jersey City under the Hudson River is practically completed and will be thrown open to the public the early part of next year.

Imagine, if you will, two spacious, well-lighted, tile-walled caverns, incased in a tube two miles long, with 1900 vehicles bulging forth at either end every hour, and you have some conception of thsi stupendous engineering accomplishment.

There are vehicle tunnels in London and other European cities, but none approaches the Holland Tunnel in length and traffic capacicty.

With 3,800 vehicles an hour rolling through the two twenty-foot roadways, the engineers were confronted with the extremely difficult problem of providing a ventilating system which would properly eliminate the resulting dangerous exhaust gases.

Ventilating Scheme.

Because of the tunnel's length and the presence of these gases, the ordinary method of ventilating a tunnel, blowing in it at one end and out the other, was found impracticable. The amount of air necessary to dissipate the gases would have created a veritable gale whichc would have been uncomfortable and even dangerous.

Therefore, a plan was hit upon whereby air comes into the tunnel roadway through continuous openings on either side of the roadway at from ten to fifteen foot intervals, leading from fresh air ducts under the road way. The air mixes with the exhaust gases and they gradually rise and are eliminated through openings leading into exhaust ducts. This method also minimizes the smoke danger from possible fires, as tests have shown that smoke cannot spread more than thirty feet on each side of its source because of the upward course of the air currents in the tunnel.

Tolls To Pay Bill.

It is estimated that it will take ten minutes for pleasure cars to negotiate the tunnel with fifteen minutes allowed for trucks. By the present ferry rout, trans-Hudson motorists must consume a half an hour when traffic is at its lightest and as much as two and three hours on Sundays when tourists abound.

Ole Singstad, chief engineer, attributes the success of the project to the work of its first chief engineer Holland, for whom the tunnel was named. Holland died October 27, 1924, two days before the New York and New Jersey headings were scheduled to meet under the river. He was succeeded as chief engineer by M. H. Freeman who also died less than five months later.

It is expected that the tunnel will soon earn its cost, $46,000,000, by revenue from toll charges.

Austria plans to spend $30,000,000 in improving its telephone system.

KIWANIS STATE MEET SCHEDULED

Charles W. Gold, of Greensboro, N. C., international trustee of the Kiwanis International organization, and Fred C. W. Parker, international secretary and editor of the Kiwanis magazine, will be two of the speakers at the West Virginia district Kiwanis convention in Charleston on September 27 and 28, it was announced yesterday.

Some of the plans for entertaining the club are as yet tentative, it was said. About 1,000 delegates from all over the state are expected to be in Charleston for the meeting.

Many of the Kiwanians will make the trip by motor. It has been announced that a "motorcade" of Kiwanians and their families will form in the northern part of the state and proceed down the Ohio river and pass through Huntington. Special trains or coaches have always been provided towns where it is not convenient to come by automobile.

Lodge Meeting Held.

Members of Rock Springs Rebekah lodge No. 161 met last night in the I. O. O. F.-K. of P. hall. Social hour followed the business session.

Sunday School Picnic.

Annual picnic of the First Christian church Sunday school is being held this afternoon at Rock Springs park. Sport program will be followed by a picnic supper at 6 o'clock.

Fancywork Club Meeting.

Members of the Eastern Star Fancywork club will meet tomorrow evening in the Masonic temple. Officers will be elected at this session. Hostesses will be Mrs. J. Sturgis, Mrs. Frank Huff and Mrs. C. R. Campbell.

$46,000,000 Tube Under River Nearing Completion.

TOLLS PAY BILL

New Route Will Have 3,800 Cars Per Hour Capacity.

NEW YORK—The new Holland Vehicular Tunnel connecting New York with Jersey City under the Hudson River is practically completed and will be thrown open to the public the early part of next year.

Imagine, if you will, two spacious, well-lighted, tile-walled caverns, incased in a tube two miles long, with 1900 vehicles bulging forth at either end every hour, and you have some conception of thsi stupendous engineering accomplishment.

There are vehicle tunnels in London and other European cities, but none approaches the Holland Tunnel in length and traffic capacicty.

With 3,800 vehicles an hour rolling through the two twenty-foot roadways, the engineers were confronted with the extremely difficult problem of providing a ventilating system which would properly elimnate the resulting dangerous exhaust gases.

Ventilating Scheme.

Because of the tunnel's length and the presence of these gases, the ordinary method of ventilating a tunnel, blowing in it at one end and out the other, was found impracticable. The amount of air necessary to dissipate the gases would have created a veritable gale whichc would have been uncomfortable and even dangerous.

Therefore, a plan was hit upon whereby air comes into the tunnel roadway through continuous openings on either side of the roadway at from ten to fifteen foot intervals, leading from fresh air ducts under the road way. The air mixes with the exhaust gases and they gradually rise and are eliminated through openings leading into exhaust ducts. This method also minimizes the smoke danger from possible fires, as tests have shown that smoke cannot spread more than thirty feet on each side of its source because of the upward course of the air currents in the tunnel.

Tolls To Pay Bill.

It is estimated that it will take ten minutes for pleasure cars to negotiate the tunnel with fifteen minutes allowed for trucks. By the present ferry rout, trans-Hudson motorists must consume a half an hour when traffic is at its lightest and as much as two and three hours on Sundays when tourists abound.

Ole Singstad, chief engineer, attributes the success of the project to the work of its first chief engineer Holland, for whom the tunnel was named. Holland died October 27, 1924, two days before the New York and New Jersey headings were scheduled to meet under the river. He was succeeded as chief engineer by M. H. Freeman who also died less than five months later.

It is expected that the tunnel will soon earn its cost, $46,000,000, by revenue from toll charges.

Austria plans to spend $30,000,000 in improving its telephone system.

Arctic Imagination

Lincoln Ellsworth, the young sportsman-philanthropist who accompanied Amundsen and Nobile on their flight over the Pole, has kept modestly in the background since that exploit. Recently, he gave a little talk to some American newspaper men that is all the more worth recording because of the unseemly squabble that his associates have gotten into. Listen to this:

"As the snow-crowned peaks of Spitzbergen lost their identity in the deepening blue of the southern sky, civilization seemed to recede beyond recall, and we hung like a speck suspended at the heart of an oppressive mystery. A sense of utter solitude took possession of us.

'Il found myself hanging over the side of the fuselage, lost in wonder and amazement at a world that God had seemingly forgotten.

"As to the value of the flight above its appeal to the imagination, only time can tell."

It is good to know that there was a man in that airship with the heart of a poet, and to have authentic expression of such a mood as may come to many of us hereafter, when Arctic flights become more common. If the Arctic is never good for anything else, it will serve to stir the human imagination.

Hundred Billions In Home Trade

The total volume of American business during the current year, the National Association of Retail Credit Men estimates, will exceed $100,000,000,000. Just say that over slowly—"one hundred billion dollars."

That is still more eloquent testimony to the value of the domestic market. Compared with that stupendous total, the greatest foreign trade on record was a mere mouthful. Exports and imports together reached about $13,000,000,000 in the big year of 1920; and for a good deal of that, be it remembered, the buyers have not yet paid. Ordinarily our foreign trade amounts to seven or eight billions.

We sell to ourselves more than 12 times as much as we sell to all the rest of the world together. When we prospering now, it is due pre-eminently to the fact that we get rich by selling to ourselves. And the domestic market is still far from being fully developed.

Foreign trade opportunities are important; yet for every such opportunity abroad there are 20 right here at home, for the man who has vision to see them and enterprise to seek them.

A Royal Cyclist

Two policemen, halting a lone motor-cyclist racing toward Brussels the other day, when they asked to look at his driver's license, found to their chagrin that the cyclist was King Albert.

"You did right to stop me," said the good-natured king. "It is your duty. But I am a little late for work." So he sped on toward his palace.

Albert is economizing, to set a good example to his people. Given dictatorial powers, he is doing his best to restore his country to prosperity through thrift and hard work. So he lets his three royal automobiles stand in the garage unused, while he rides a plebeian motorcycle.

The moral effect is probably good. Yet is it sound business policy? The big expense of an automobile, as every intelligent owner knows, is the overhead expense; and the overhead is going right on with those three cars, whether the king uses them or not. Also, while snorting around on a motorcycle, he may break his royal neck, which is worth as much to the country as it is to him.

France Prospering

Ambassador Herrick, returning from France for a vacation, tells Americans that the basic economic condition of France is "splendid," that there is work for the natives and in addition 2,000,000 foreign laborers are employed there, and the country's present financial condition is most political, due to loss of confidence in the government.

Americans are glad to hear this. It might help matters, though, if the ambassador would tell it to the French, who have been imagining themselves poor, downtrodden and helpless, and blaming all their troubles on "Shylock Uncle Sam" because he wants to collect fifty cents on the dollar in 62 years.

Silent Building

Electric welding's the thing. In a test at Washington, made by the Bureau of Standards, two plates of a big steel girder were joined together silently, and so solidly that when a crushing machine was used to test them, the girder buckled while the joint held. Electric rivets beat steel rivets, for strength and quietness both.

So, they say, we shall soon have silent construction of steel buildings. Skyscrapers will rise as quickly as Solomon's Temple is famed to have risen. That will be a great boon to the nerves of city-dwellers.

Now is the time when the amateur gardener goes out manfully and hoes the flowers out of his weed garden.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Manhattan is a trifle annoyed with its summer desolation. This summer it was worse than ever before. Week ends gave it such a deserted village look that a clocker discovered pedestrianic traffic had slowed up 75 per cent one Saturday afternoon.

"To be seen in town" has become a social gauche comparable to tan oxfords with evening dress. And the usual week-end from Friday night to Monday morning was lengthened from Thursday night to Tuesday morning. It was not an elegant gesture for business.

Coupled with this was the exodus to Europe and resorts a little nearer New York. The idea is being advanced that if New Yorkers by leaving town give the impression summer weather is intolerable how can they really expect visitors to come here?

In other words a "Stay at Home" movement is being urged. Big sums are to be expended by awakened civic boosting organizations to dispel the illustion New York is not a summer town. As a matter of fact there is no city in the world offering such advantages.

So-called "heat waves" are rare. New York nights are almost invariably cool. The finest bathing beaches in the world are short distances away. Hotel rates go down instead of up. There are the best of summery theatrical oferings and outdoor amusement parks and eating places.

The truth is that New York has paid no attention to her summer attractions until merchants began to howl. Modern cooling and ventilating systems have given hotels, stores and public amusement places a comfort beyond that of any other city.

It is the old time New Yorkers who appreciate the town's summer virtues. The mansions of the newly rich are shuttered but in old Murray Hill and other aristocratic purlieus people have long since learned summer is the most delightful season of all.

A leading man was recently sent a huge basket of flowers on an opening night. He was touched and in his dressing room said: "This is the first time in my life I ever received flowers."

"Don't let it discourage you," chirped the comedienne, "you will probably also get a few at the finish."

The recent passing of E. E. Thomas, of the Morning Telegraph, recalls a vivid epoch in the progress of automobile speed. Mr. Thomas was once arrested for driving his car beyond the six mile an hour speed law.

It may be broad humor but I think the most hilarious touch I have seen in the theatre was an one of those street back drops of a musical comedy. A sign read: "The Eagle Laundry—We Wash Your Eagle Free."

Tommy Lyman, Broadway's sweet singer, is on his way back to Broadway. Tommy is a pale faced young man with a wistful voice who roams from table to table in the cafes of Paris, London and New York singing of soft moonlight nights and faithless lovers. He is called "The Tubercular Tenor" although his capacious lungs are sound as a dollar. He is a glum and silent figure when not singing. He neither smokes or drinks.

There is also another silent figure of the night clubs. He is called "The Turk" for no apparent reason. He always comes alone, immaculately dressed and usually spends is time pencilling odd hieroglyphics on the white table cloth.

The Navy's Peacetime Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 25.—The science of navigation, the charting of the oceans, and the operations of naval strategy have all undergone very great changes since the World War and because of inventions during the war or resulting from the War. The United States Navy has occupied an advanced position in bringing the new discoveries into practical use, and many of the modern inventions are the work of officers of the Navy.

The sonic depth-finder, the radio compass, and the radio-acoustic device, are all either Naval inventions or have been developed by the Navy. The air navigating skill which enabled Commander Byrd to fly over the North Pole was a development of naval science since the War, and equally important work has been done afloat.

During recent the Navy dirigible Los Angeles has made a number of flights along the Atlantic Coast, engaged in calibrating radio compass stations. This statement has been accepted by the public as no doubt a proper thing for the big airship to be doing, but only those trained in radio navigation aids have known what it really meant.

The extent to which the radio compass method has come to be used by floating craft to determine their positions has grown until it might safely be called the modern method of position finding. It is quite possible that the day will come when navigators no longer consult the sun and stars at all in locating their positions at sea, but rely wholly on radio waves from shore stations, which no doubt will come to be visually recorded on a luminous chart by some automatic system.

The Navy's radio compass stations, established at the close of the War and steadily extended, gave to ships at sea 150,000 records of their position last year, and this increased use of the radio compass service has helped develop the accuracy of the work. The one method of testing absolutely the accuracy of the work is by calibration on a visible object with which the station is in radio contact.

Thus while stations may be calibrated with a vessel afloat, the range of action of an airship in a complete circle around the radio compass station is much more advantageous. The experts in charge of the work also have wanted for some time to get some special checks on radio compass locations of aircraft in order to make certain on several points of difference between air locating and sea locating.

The Process of Calibrating.

The process of calibrating the radio compass with the airship Los Angeles involves two simultaneous readings over consecutive intervals of time. A visual bearing on the ship is made at the same instant a radio signal arrives, and this is repeated as the airship moves in a circle around the compass station. Deflections between the exact visible bearing, and the radio compass record, are thereby carefully plotted, and the station has an exact record of any deflections in its radio compass bearings.

The work done this summer on two trips of the Los Angeles, one along the New England Coast as far as Cape Cod, and another south from her New Jersey base to the North Carolina coast, has been conducted on a basis of the airship's operating in a circle on 15 miles radious from the radio compass being tested. A continuous radio signal was sent from the airship, except at intervals for receiving radio messages from the land station.

At the compass station one receiver is kept steadily at the task of recording the signals from the ship and the position recorded by radio compass, with the time of each reading. Located beside the compass coil is a transit, with another observer taking visual records of the position of the airship and recording these, with the time of each. These two recorders then plot their results and the comparison gives the complete record of deviation of the radio compass findings from precise visual bearings.

While position finding for ships at sea, and especially coastwise shipping in foggy or bad weather, was the first idea back of the Navy radio compass stations, the assistance to air navigation is likely in time to be an equally useful purpose. With the cooperation of the Hydrographic Office, which is charting landmarks along probable coastwise airways, the compass stations will be equipped to give aircraft which is radio-equipped the data on its position in all sorts of weather conditions and regardless of visibility.

While the mammoth airship has been working along the east coast on radio compass calibrations, another branch of the government service has been at work for many months on the west coast with coastal surveys conducted by the aid of radio and underwater sound waves. The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey has had two of its vessels, the Guide and the Pioneer, working off the coast of Oregon and Washington, which have been charted and mapped out to the depth of more than a mile.

Radio Acoustic Scheme.

The radio-acoustic scheme used by these ships is now being added to the equipment of the U. S. S. Lydonia, the largest Coast and Geddetic Survey ship on the east coast. This equipment is designed to give these ship their exact position off-shore in any sort of weather, so that they can go ahead making soundings and not have to wait for clear days to keep the position record. The principle involved lies in timing underwater sound waves between ship and shore, and recording the time by radio flash. Since the rate of sound waves undersea water is fixed at 4,800 feet per second, the

ABSOLUTELY NO REASON FOR IT.

Harry Beresford, the actor, was born in England but has lived long enough in America practically to have recovered from it. One fall a friend sent him two tickets for one of the world's series ball games at the Polo Grounds, and he took with him to the game a newly arrived Englishman, a distant kinsman and also an actor.

The stranger sat patiently enough through seven innings. The whole riotous proceeding was a puzzle to him but he was too polite to mention it. Then, when the mighty crowd, following the baseball custom, stood up to stretch, he rose, too, and started for the aisle.

"Hold on!" said Beresford. "It ain't over yet."

"I was only going to get a cup of tea, old chap," explained his guest.

"You can't get tea now," said Beresford; "the game goes right on."

"You mean to say there is no tea being served?" demanded the Englishman in amazement.

"Certainly not!" said Beresford.

"Well," demanded the other, "what then, is the purpose of the bally game?"

This statement has been accepted by the public as no doubt a proper thing for the big airship to be doing, but only those trained in radio navigation aids have known what it really meant.

The extent to which the radio compass method has come to be used by floating craft to determine their positions has grown until it might safely be called the modern method of position finding. It is quite possible that the day will come when navigators no longer consult the sun and stars at all in locating their positions at sea, but rely wholly on radio waves from shore stations, which no doubt will come to be visually recorded on a luminous chart by some automatic system.

The Navy's radio compass stations, established at the close of the War and steadily extended, gave to ships at sea 150,000 records of their position last year, and this increased use of the radio compass service has helped develop the accuracy of the work. The one method of testing absolutely the accuracy of the work is by calibration on a visible object with which the station is in radio contact.

Thus while stations may be calibrated with a vessel afloat, the range of action of an airship in a complete circle around the radio compass station is much more advantageous. The experts in charge of the work also have wanted for some time to get some special checks on radio compass locations of aircraft in order to make certain on several points of difference between air locating and sea locating.

The Process of Calibrating.

The process of calibrating the radio compass with the airship Los Angeles involves two simultaneous readings over consecutive intervals of time. A visual bearing on the ship is made at the same instant a radio signal arrives, and this is repeated as the airship moves in a circle around the compass station. Deflections between the exact visible bearing, and the radio compass record, are thereby carefully plotted, and the station has an exact record of any deflections in its radio compass bearings.

The work done this summer on two trips of the Los Angeles, one along the New England Coast as far as Cape Cod, and another south from her New Jersey base to the North Carolina coast, has been conducted on a basis of the airship's operating in a circle on 15 miles radious from the radio compass being tested. A continuous radio signal was sent from the airship, except at intervals for receiving radio messages from the land station.

At the compass station one receiver is kept steadily at the task of recording the signals from the ship and the position recorded by radio compass, with the time of each reading. Located beside the compass coil is a transit, with another observer taking visual records of the position of the airship and recording these, with the time of each. These two recorders then plot their results and the comparison gives the complete record of deviation of the radio compass findings from precise visual bearings.

While position finding for ships at sea, and especially coastwise shipping in foggy or bad weather, was the first idea back of the Navy radio compass stations, the assistance to air navigation is likely in time to be an equally useful purpose. With the cooperation of the Hydrographic Office, which is charting landmarks along probable coastwise airways, the compass stations will be equipped to give aircraft which is radio-equipped the data on its position in all sorts of weather conditions and regardless of visibility.

While the mammoth airship has been working along the east coast on radio compass calibrations, another branch of the government service has been at work for many months on the west coast with coastal surveys conducted by the aid of radio and under-water sound waves. The United States Coast and Geodetic Survey has had two of its vessels, the Guide and the Pioneer, working off the coast of Oregon and Washington, which have been charted and mapped out to the depth of more than a mile.

Radio Acoustic Scheme.

The radio-acoustic scheme used by these ships is now being added to the equipment of the U. S. S. Lydonia, the largest Coast and Geodetic Survey ship on the east coast. This equipment is designed to give these ship their exact position off-shore in any sort of weather, so that they can go ahead making soundings and not have to wait for clear days to keep the position record. The principle involved lies in timing underwater sound waves between ship and shore, and recording the time by radio flash. Since the rate of sound waves undersea water is fixed at 4,800 feet per second, the

ABSOLUTELY NO REASON FOR IT.

Harry Beresford, the actor, was born in England but has lived long enough in America practically to have recovered from it. One fall a friend sent him two tickets for one of the world's series ball games at the Polo Grounds, and he took with him to the game a newly arrived Englishman, a distant kinsman and also an actor.

The stranger sat patiently enough through seven innings. The whole riotous proceeding was a puzzle to him but he was too polite to mention it. Then, when the mighty crowd, following the baseball custom, stood up to stretch, he rose, too, and started for the aisle.

"Hold on!" said Beresford. "It ain't over yet."

"I was only going to get a cup of tea, old chap," explained his guest.

"You can't get tea now," said Beresford; "the game goes right on."

"You mean to say there is no tea being served?" demanded the Englishman in amazement.

"Certainly not!" said Beresford.

"Well," demanded the other, "what then, is the purpose of the bally game?"

Juice of Lemon Whitens The Skin

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

POLICE CLAIM MAN DESTITUTE

Stranger Who Exploded Bomb in Pittsburgh Unidentified.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25.—A foreigner in destitute circumstances exploded the bomb in the Farmers' Deposit National bank here late yesterday, which claimed two lives and injured 40 persons, according to the theory on which police were working today.

The bomb-carrier received the full force of the blast and was almost decapitated. George C. Ortmann, bank policeman, who was rushing the man when the bomb exploded, died ten minutes later in a hospital.

Police Lieut. Peter Connors, head of the homicide squad, said there was a bare possibility that the identity of the bomb hurler will be established.

Hundreds of persons viewed the body in the morgue today, but thus far none has recognized the man. The only clues police have, which may ultimately lead to identifying him, are a cheap belt buckle, initialed "L," and remnants of his clothing.

Examination of parts of the bomb picked up from the floor of the wrecked banking room showed it to be of the nitroglycerine type. Had the bomb not been on the marble floor when it exploded many more persons would have been killed, police believe.

Twenty-four persons, bank employes, depositors and passersby, were rushed to hospitals in ambulances and any means of transportation available.

After receiving first aid treatment, fifteen of the victims were taken to their homes. The condition of four others is critical, although physicians hoped all would recover.

The interior of the bank in the vicinity of the explosion was wrecked. President Coll estimated the damage to the building and bank fixtures at $150 000.

The bank opened for business as usual today.

nite arrangements for the funeral services Monday were made. It was announced that the funeral procession will start from Campbell's at Sixty-sixth street and Broadway, at 10:30 Monday morning.

The hearse, containing the body of the late motion picture star, will be followed by three hundred automobiles carrying stage and screen celebrites and close friends of Valentino.

Aeroplanes will fly overhead, dropping flowers on the procession. The cortage will proceed down Broadway, the street that knew "Rudy" so well before he gained his world-wide fame at Hollywood, to the actor's church at Forty-ninth street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Thousands of admirers of Rudolph Valentino assembled again today in the streets for blocks around Campbell's funeral church in Broadway in the hope of getting a two-second glimpse of the body of the famous motion picture star which is lying in state.

Several Are Injured.

They came in great numbers in spite of the fact that one hundred persons were injured late yesterday and last night when a crowd of 100,000 fought with police reserves for a glimpse of the features of the dead star. Most of the injured were women and three of them policemen. They were deluged with fragments of plate glass windows that had been pushed in or injured in the rioting in the streets.

Sidewalks and streets were littered with pocketbooks, umbrellas, furs and women's shoes when the doors of the chapel were closed at midnight and the police chased, or rather tried to chase, the people home.

Reserves Called Out.

The doors of the funeral chapel were opened at 9:30 and the crowd began to file in rapidly. They passed the casket at the rate of thirty-five a minute. The crowd was distinctly orderly this morning. It was estimated that 50,000 persons, at least, would view the body today.

Two hundred police reserves, picked men from every precinct in the city, stood guard at the chapel to prevent a repetition of yesterday's rioting.

The riotious scenes enacted at the funeral curch were without precedent in New York, in the opinion of the police. Frank Campbell, proprietor of the chapel and a veteran undertaker, said:

"I have never seen anything like it. I had something to do with the funeral of President Grant, and we thought we had huge crowds to handle, but it was nothing like this."

Counts made during the night showed that the line of people were passing the coffin, where Valentino lay in peaceful repose, at the rate of 150 a minute, or 9,000 an hour. The people filed by from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until midnight when they almost caused another riot when men were sent out with megaphones notifying them that the doors were closed.

Mussolini Sends Wreath.

This morning a huge be-ribboned wreath, inscribed "From Benito Mussolini," was beside the casket. New York Fascisti announced the premier had cabled to provide the wreath in his name.

Shortly after midnight ten men clad in the black shirts of the Fascisti, who said they represented the Fascisti league of North America, arrived and arranged to have two of their number stand guard over the coffin throughout the night, each pair standing guard two hours. They said this action had been taken upon the cabled advice of Mussolini.

Early today the body of Valentino was moved to the first floor of the funeral church to facilitate handling of the throng. It had been removed from the "gold room," upstairs.

As another huge crowd began to form, Police Commissioner George McLaughlin took personal charge of police arrangements.

Services Next Monday.

No change had been made this morning in the plan to hold the funeral service next Monday in St. Malachi's church, although an International News Service dispatch from Paris today carried a request from Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the dead screen star, that the funeral be delayed until he gets to America. He has sailed for the United States on the White Star liner Homeric.

MISSING FLYER IS LOCATED

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Two boys, who found Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis wandering in the mountain forests between here and Lewiston, brought the missing army aviator to Bellefonte hospital today.

Hospital physicians said Lieut. Bettis was suffering from a fractured jaw and a fractured leg. Although the pilot's physical condition generally is good; it will be some time before he is able to leave the hospital, it was learned.

The boys brought Bettis here in an automobile from the mountains. He was almost exhausted from lack of food and from his harrowing experience in the treacherous Alleghenies.

At the hospital, it was said Bettis had not been questioned about the crash because his fractured jaw made it difficult for him to talk, but the boys who brought him here said his plane was wrecked.

229 Witnesses Called

said that he had drunk a bottle of beer in the office of the late Mayor Barnes, in the presence of Barnes, Chief Fultz, but that no one gave it to him.

"Now wait," the court interposed, "the questions should be connected with Fultz." "That may be excluded."

The witness couldn't say whether Fultz or any one else in the office had anything to drink. There was no cross-examination.

Admits Drinking at City Hall.

Acting Chief of Police Newton was on the stand longer than any other witness thus far in this case.

Newton testified that he had knowledge about drinking in the city hall at different times and of the stuff that had been confiscated. He said he saw Chief Fultz drink in the mayor's office.

Under further examination Newton said Chief Fultz had warned him not to make raids without warrants, and that sometimes Fultz went with him and at other times Fultz gave him warrants and at very few places we got anything.

The nestion of how many poker rooms in Wellsville in 1925 was ordered omitted from the record by the court.

Newton testified of Officer Hurd in helping making raids and that he had put Hurd in the cellroom one time when Hurd was drunk and that Fultz later ordered Hurd placed in the volunteer police room but that he did not inform the mayor of the incident.

Newton said he made no police slip and that Hurd created no disorder. He testified that he assisted making a raid at 1224 Commeree street; that he reported the place to Mayor Fogo but not to Chief Fultz because he did not see Fultz, neither did he call at his home.

"Wait, the court will take you for a minute," Judge Spence said to the witness, "Did you make raids?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell Fultz before you got the warrants?"

"I didn't tell Fultz."

"As a matter of fact, you and the mayor attempted to operate independently of the chief."

"I can't say that. I reported one to Fultz and made a raid."

"You know your duty was to report to the chief?"

"I can't say the chief was in town or not."

"On statement you said you drank at city hall?"

"Was it intoxicating?"

"It was home brew."

"Did you tell Mayor Fogo you were in the habit of drinking at city hall?"

"He found it out at the hearing."

"And you'r still acting chief of police?"

"Yes."

"Under Mayor Fogo?"

"Yes."

Under cross examination by Attorney Bennett, the witness was asked if he had not talked to people about Fultz.

"I can't say that I have," the witness replied, and he continued, "he never expressed any feeling about Chief Fultz."

"Didn't you say after the hearing you would swear to to anything in the higher court to get Fultz out"?

No Ill Will Toward Fultz.

"No, sir. I never showed any ill will or hatred toward Fultz."

The witness went on to say that he had been on the police force for 15 years and that there had been gambling and other violations of law there for the last 20 years.

Testimony given at the Wellsville hearing by Modesta Lozzi, both direct and cross examination, was admitted to the record by the court, because the witness had failed to respond to a summons.

Samuel Hannum, druggist, testified briefly, that the call for the sheriff to come to Wellsville to make a raid on the Newton farm was sent over the telephone in his store and that the call was put in by Dr. Swift.

Newton, in response to a query by the court, testified that officers went to his farm to make a raid and that he told them he would assist them but that no raid was made.

Court adjourned at 11:30.

Witness after witness placed on the stand Tuesday afternoon refused to answer queries put to them by counsel for the city of Wellsville on the ground that what they might testify to would be self incriminating. The court sustained this view of the witnesses, and openly charged them that "they need not testify to anything that in their opinion would incriminate them in any criminal action."

City Solicitor Luccock took exception to the ruling of the court, but this did not alter the view of Judge Spence who firmly held to his ruling.

Prohibition Inspector Testifies.

The star witness of the afternoon session Tuesday proved to be A. G. Baynham, deputy state prohibition inspector working out of the office of Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald of Columbus, admitted under direct and cross examination that when he talked to Fultz about the conditions in Wellsville, declared that Fultz had offered him his cooperation at any time.

Baynham declared that he went to Wellsville upon orders of his superior officer after letters had been received at the Columbus office designating certain places where it was supposed there was an alleged violation of the liquor laws. He testified that out of five searches four arrests were made and the victims taken before Mayor George H. Russell at Salem, and fines were assessed amounting to $2,900.

"Did Chief Fultz assist you in any of these raids?" the witness was asked.

"No he didn't."

"Did you ask him?"

"No sir. We talked over conditions later, however."

"What did the Chief say?"

"I do not know now what he did say."

"How did you know about those places in Wellsville?"

"The letters gave me the information, and we visited the homes mentioned in the letters."

The witness admitted that he did not make any other investigations.

"Did you ever ask Fultz to aid you in making arrests?" the witness was asked under cross-examination by Attorney Frank H. Grosshans of counsel for Fultz.

"No sir."

"Or the sheriff or any other officers?"

"No, I never did. Fultz told me he would glady assist me any time."

Tells of "Densmore's Place."

Mrs. Elizabeth Rolley under direct examination by Attorney Cochran admitted that she had talked with Fultz about a raid on the Densmore "place," but she could not remember the time of the conversation. "It's been so long ago I forget," the witness said.

Under cross-examination by Attorney W. A. O'Grady, Mrs. Rolley testified that Fultz told her "they" were going to raid the place and if "I didn't keep my mouth shut I'd be arrested."

"What did he say about tipping?"

"I do not recall."

"Who all was there at the time?"

"Oyster, Fultz, Thompson and my husband."

"Where does your husband work?"

Admits Poker Game.

Lester Rolley, husband of the preceding witness, declared he had been employed in a stud poker game at the Densmore place, but he did not know for how long a time. He testified that he received $1.50 per hour.

He admitted that Densmore's place had been "pinched" once when he was there, when the game was being played at 1321 Main street. He said there was just one game going at a time.

"Any liquor sold there?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

"Who sold it?"

"Earl Densmore."

"See Fultz there any?"

"Once, when the place was raided and I was arrested then."

"What kind of a club room was it?" Attorney Ben L. Bennett queried Rolley.

"Gambling."

"Ever raided by the chief of police?"

"Yes, the police took a forfeit."

"Another day your wife tipped you off?"

"Yes."

"What did Fultz say to your wife about tipping off the game?"

"When did you quit?" Attorney Crawford asked.

"When we got arrested."

When Lester Trainer was placed on the stand he immediately admitted that he played poker, and that he was also a sign painter.

"I've already said," put in the court, "that unless you connect Fultz with these things it is a waste of time to proceed along these lines."

Mayor Fogo Called.

"The civil service commission sets the duties of the chief of police," put in the court.

"They are not in the civil service book," came from Attorney Crawford.

"Then his oath of office will cover that," declared the court.

Mayor Fogo was then handed a photograph showing a lot of stills, containers, that one time was testified held liquor.

"When was that taken?"

"After the hearing in Wellsville," the witness replied.

Mayor Fogo then admitted that Fultz took part in a raid where some of the stuff photographed was taken. He testified that on the second raid made Fultz was not in it because of being off on account of illness.

"The mayor cannot testify about the stills, but the people who brought them in can," interjected the court, it being testified that seven or eight stills had been brought in.

"You have experienced difficulties in enforcing the law?" asked Mr. O'Grady under cross-examination.

"No doubt there are difficulties at all times."

"Ever exterminate gambling in your former years in office?"

"There was not as much then as now."

"What policy did you lay down when you took office?"

"I told the police the strings were cut, and that I wanted all the gamblers and all the bootleggers brought in."

"Who told you a still was operating in Wellsville?"

"Newton."

"Send Fultz after it?"

"Yes."

"He bring it in?"

"Yes."

"Who gave you information about the second still?"

"Newton."

"Say anything to Fultz about that one?"

Fultz Obeyed Orders.

"Did he ever refuse your orders?"

"He never did."

"Ever refuse to sign any warrant?"

"No sir."

Was there any time Chief Fultz ever refused to anything you asked of him?"

"He never refused to sign any papers."

"He brought in stills?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you say in the presence of Mayor Blackburn that you would remove Fultz?"

"I never did."

"Any gambling in Wellsville?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Any drinking?"

"No sir."

"Have you knowledge there are about 32 places in Wellsville where you can get drink now?"

"I have not."

"You told Fultz not to patrol the town in a machine?"

"Yes."

"Newton has a machine?"

"Yes."

"Why did you discriminate between Fultz and Newton?"

"I ride with Newton since I have no service director."

"Don't you go on raids."

"How many outside officers have come in?"

"Sheriff made 15 to 20 searches and got two pinches, I understand.

"Why did you select Newton to go on raids instead ofFultz?"

"Newton worked for the city of Wellsville and for Catlett to get inside information. He's turned in over $5,000 to the city."

"Why was Fultz suspended?" asked Mr. Cochran on re-direct examination.

Discusses Monte Carlo.

Frank Geisse testified that he knew a place called "Monte Carlo," and that he worked there off and on for about a year in 1925. He said the proprietors of the place were Ralph Anania, Fred Wolf, Willard Davidson, Robert Thompson and himself. He testified the place was within two blocks of the Wellsville city building, and that it was opened early in 1925 and closed last December, and that it had been raided two or three times. He testified that the fine was paid by Willard Davidson, and that the fine was taken out of the receipts of the house.

"You're putting the cart before the horse in this case," Judge Spence declared. "There is no evidence that you have connected Fultz with the place."

"You gave money to Fultz?" the witness was asked.

"Yes, a check for my appearance, and the check was returned for there was no evidence," the witness replied.

Under cross examination by Attorney Grosshans the witness testified that all evidence of gambling had been removed. He also declared liquor was not permitted to be sold in the place, but that the "house took a rake off on each game" He also testified that the place had been raided three times and that fines were paid twice.

Hackworth Refuses Information.

Willis E. Hackworth was told that he did not have to offer any testimony that might incriminate him in any violation of law when he took the stand and after he was asked if he ever played in a stud poker game, he was excused from further inquiry.

Robert Thompson, 34, a clerk, said that he had been associated with others in the operation of a club for about eight months, and that it was a social club. He testified there had been card playing for money and that the place had been raided and a check for $800 had been put up as a forfeit.

Mrs.. Oyster, wife of the merchant police told Mrs. Rolley the place was to be raided," Thompson testified, and "we were fined." He also said that the place had been raided eight or ten times and that "we paid fines each time."

Fogo is Recalled.

Mayor Fogo was then recalled, and referring to the mayor's docket, showed that for the $800 forfeit check, James Viola had entered a plea of guilty before Mayor Barnes, and that a fine of $250 had been suspended. Fultz filed the affidavit.

Willard Davidson, examined by Attorney Cochran, said he was one of the owners of "Monte Carlo" and that he had been arrested there. "If I thought the officers were coming I would tip the game off," Davidson testified "so they would not get pinched if I could help it."

Patsy Aaania told the court that when he was not engaged in keeping a club room clean he "mixed concrete when the weather would permit."

"Ever see cards played for money in that club room?" the witness was asked by Mr. Cochran.

"No, sir."

This club room that the witness referred to was located on Twelfth street, Wellsville.

"You ever engaged in the business of dealing cards?" Leonard Swaile was asked under direct examination by Mr. Cochran.

"Do I have to answer that?" he asked the court.

"You don't have to answer that if you connect yourself with any crime."

"You worked for Modesta Lozzi where liquor was sold?"

"You don't have to answer," the court replied to a query.

"I refuse to answer," the witness testified.

Charles McSwiggin testified that "Monte Carlo" closed the first of the year, and that he dealt cards there for three weeks. He said there were several tables, chairs and a desk in the room.

Sheriff's Office Called.

Dr. E. F. Swift, under examination by Attorney Cochran, testified to Chief Fultz calling for aid from the sheriff's office at Lisbon to investigate a report that there was a still on Newton's farm and that he didn't want to take part in the work on account of Newton being a fellow officer. Sheriff Wright was in Columbus at the time and the call was responded to be Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter and Deputy James Elliott. The witness also testified that Officer Pugh went with the deputies.

"Did you find a still on the Newton farm?" the court asked.

"I don't know."

Wright's Sworn Statement.

The statement of William Wright, of Wellsville, which was made by him before he was released from the county jail, and introduced by Attorney Ben L. Bennett of counsel for Fultz reads:

"William Wright personally appeared before me, the undersigned, M. K. Zimerman, justice of the peave in and for Center township, Columbiana county, Ohio, and being first duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

"That he is the William Wright who testified in the matter of the hearing of J. H. Fultz before the civil service commission of the City of Wellsville. That the testimony so submitted by him to said commission, so far as it pertained to any relationship between affiant and the said J. H. Fultz was false and untrue.

"That the day prior to his being called as a witness in said case, John Riel, a former chief of police of the city of Wellsville, called at affiant's home and talked with him concerning said case; that the said Riel suggested that it was important to have some testimony against the Chief, J. H. Fultz, to the effect that some one had paid him money. That affiant, ever since the arrest of his brother, Walter Wright, and his conviction and electrocution for murder, which arrest was brought about through the efforts of the said J. H. Fultz, has entertained a grudge against the said Fultz, and when the said John Riel talked with him concerning the matter, affiant grasped the opportunity as a means of getting even with Fultz, as a means of getting even with Fultz.

"That affiant says that he at no time ever paid the said J. H Fultz any money for the privilege of operating a still, engaging in the traffic of intoxicating liquor or for any other purpose at any time; that when affiant was so engaged in the operation of a still and traffic in intoxicating liquors, it was without the knowledge, so far as he is concerned, of the said J. H. Fultz, and that the said Fultz at the time of affiant's arrest for operating a still, told him that if he ever caught him again engaging in either the operation of a still or the traffice in intoxicating liquors, he would lock him up.

"That on the evening of the afternoon that affiant talked with the said John Riel, W. L. Fogo, Mayor of the city of Wellsville called at his home concerning the statement he had made to Riel, and that affiant reaffirmed said statements and at that time asked the said W. L. Fogo if anybody was to be permitted to engage in the sale of intoxicating liquors in Wellsville, if he would be accorded privilege also, and that the said W. L. Fogo replied as follows. "I can give you no answer now, but if anybody is permitted during by administration to sell liquor, you will be given the same privilege."

"That thereafter affiant became apprehensive as to submitting said testimony and getting himself in any trouble, and he conferred with Edward Fogo, son of W. L. Fogo, about the matter, and was told by the said Edward Fogo that if he offered his testimony, nothing could happen to him, and that if it did, they would stand by him.

"That affiant further states that the statement of W. L. Fogo appearing in the newspapers of the city of East Liverpool and Wellsville regarding the visit of the said J. H. Fultz to affiant's home at about the hour of 1 o'clock on the night that he submitted his testimony is untrue.

"That affiant has never talked with the said W. L. Fogo since the night he testified in said hearing and he has never told the said W. L. Fogo anything concerning the visit of Fultz to his home, and that the said J. H. Fultz on said night at his home in the city of Wellsville, did not request affiant to change his testimony in the manner set forth in said statements, but inquired of affiant why he had offered the false testimony against him and urged him to tell the truth, and that the truth of the situation is the reverse of the testimony so submitted.

"That affiant at this time offers this, his statement under oath, without any promise of reward, leniency or assistance on behalf of any person in connection with said case, but because he believed it in the interest of justice so to do, and because he feels that he has wronged the said J. H. Fultz and wishes to make amends so far as possible for his conduct in so doing. That his testimony against the said Fultz was prompted solely and absolutely by his desire to get even for the electrocution of his brother, brought about by said Fultz, as hereinbefore stated.

"This statement is also made by affiant with full knowledge of the gravity of the serious situation into which it may lead him."

Three Things

In LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes you get all that can be in any very fine cigarette—also the added pleasure produced by the extra process of toasting.

But here are three additional things:

LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos are toasted for 45 minutes in superheat. This (1) removes all "bite" and harshness. It (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals the moist fragrance in, insuring freshness.

"IT'S TOASTED" represents a costly extra process that adds the finishing touch to a wonderfully fine cigarette.

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

bite arrangements for the funeral services Monday were made. It was announced that the funeral procession will start from Campbell's at Sixty-sixth street and Broadway, at 10:30 Monday morning.

The hearse, containing the body of the late motion picture star, will be followed by three hundred automobiles carrying stage and screen celebrites and close friends of Valentino.

Aeroplanes will fly overhead, dropping flowers on the procession. The cortage will proceed down Broadway, the street that knew "Rudy" so well before he gained his world-wide fame at Hollywood, to the actor's church at Forty-ninth street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Thousands of admirers of Rudolph Valentino assembled again today in the streets for blocks around Campbell's funeral church in Broadway in the hope of getting a two-second glimpse of the body of the famous motion picture star which is lying in state.

Several Are Injured.

They came in great numbers in spite of the fact that one hundred persons were injured late yesterday and last night when a crowd of 100,000 fought with police reserves for a glimpse of the features of the dead star. Most of the injured were women and three of them policemen. They were deluged with fragments of plate glass windows that had been pushed in or injured in the rioting in the streets.

Sidewalks and streets were littered with pocketbooks, umbrellas, furs and women's shoes when the doors of the chapel were closed at midnight and the police chased, or rather tried to chase, the people home.

Reserves Called Out.

The doors of the funeral chapel were opened at 9:30 and the crowd began to file in rapidly. They passed the casket at the rate of thirty-five a minute. The crowd was distinctly orderly this morning. It was estimated that 50,000 persons, at least, would view the body today.

Two hundred police reserves, picked men from every precinct in the city, stood guard at the chapel to prevent a repetition of yesterday's rioting.

The riotious scenes enacted at the funeral curch were without precedent in New York, in the opinion of the police. Frank Campbell, proprietor of the chapel and a veteran undertaker, said:

"I have never seen anything like it. I had something to do with the funeral of President Grant, and we thought we had huge crowds to handle, but it was nothing like this."

Counts made during the night showed that the line of people were passing the coffin, where Valentino lay in peaceful repose, at the rate of 150 a minute, or 9,000 an hour. The people filed by from 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon until midnight when they almost caused another riot when men were sent out with megaphones notifying them that the doors were closed.

Mussolini Sends Wreath.

This morning a huge be-ribboned wreath, inscribed "From Benito Mussolini," was beside the casket. New York Fascisti announced the premier had cabled to provide the wreath in his name.

Shortly after midnight ten men clad in the black shirts of the Fascisti, who said they represented the Fascisti league of North America, arrived and arranged to have two of their number stand guard over the coffin throughout the night, each pair standing guard two hours. They said this action had been taken upon the cabled advice of Mussolini.

Early today the body of Valentino was moved to the first floor of the funeral church to facilitate handling of the throng. It had been removed from the "gold room," upstairs.

As another huge crowd began to form, Police Commissioner George McLaughlin took personal charge of police arrangements.

Services Next Monday.

No change had been made this morning in the plan to hold the funeral service next Monday in St. Malachi's church, although an International News Service dispatch from Paris today carried a request from Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the dead screen star, that the funeral be delayed until he gets to America. He has sailed for the United States on the White Star liner Homeric.

MISSING FLYER IS LOCATED

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Two boys, who found Lieut. Cyrus K. Bettis wandering in the mountain forests between here and Lewiston, brought the missing army aviator to Bellefonte hospital today.

Hospital physicians said Lieut. Bettis was suffering from a fractured jaw and a fractured leg. Although the pilot's physical condition generally is good; it will be some time before he is able to leave the hospital, it was learned.

The boys brought Bettis here in an automobile from the mountains. He was almost exhausted from lack of food and from his harrowing experience in the treacherous Allegheniez.

At the hospital, it was said Bettis had not been questioned about the crash because his fractured jaw made it difficult for him to talk, but the boys who brought him here said his plane was wrecked.

229 Witnesses Called

said that he had drunk a bottle of beer in the office of the late Mayor Barnes, in the presence of Barnes, Chief Fultz, but that no one gave it to him.

"Now wait," the court interposed, "the questions should be connected with Fultz." "That may be excluded."

The witness couldn't say whether Fultz or any one else in the office had anything to drink. There was no cross-examination.

Admits Drinking at City Hall.

Acting Chief of Police Newton was on the stand longer than any other witness thus far in this case.

Newton testified that he had knowledge about drinking in the city hall at different times and of the stuff that had been confiscated. He said he saw Chief Fultz drink in the mayor's office.

Under further examination Newton said Chief Fultz had warned him not to make raids without warrants, and that sometimes Fultz went with him and at other times Fultz gave him warrants and at very few places we got anything.

The nestion of how many poker rooms in Wellsville in 1925 was ordered omitted from the record by the court.

Newton testified of Officer Hurd in helping making raids and that he had put Hurd in the cellroom one time when Hurd was drunk and that Fultz later ordered Hurd placed in the volunteer police room but that he did not inform the mayor of the incident.

Newton said he made no police slip and that Hurd created no disorder. He testified that he assisted making a raid at 1224 Commerce street; that he reported the place to Mayor Fogo but not to Chief Fultz because he did not see Fultz, neither did he call at his home.

"Wait, the court will take you for a minute," Judge Spence said to the witness. "Did you make raids?"

"Yes."

"Did you tell Fultz before you got the warrants?"

"I didn't tell Fultz."

"As a matter of fact, you and the mayor attempted to operate independently of the chief."

"I can't say that. I reported one to Fultz and made a raid."

"You know your duty was to report to the chief?"

"I can't say the chief was in town or not."

"On statement you said you drank at city hall?"

"Was it intoxicating?"

"It was home brew."

"Did you tell Mayor Fogo you were in the habit of drinking at city hall?"

"He found it out at the hearing."

"Yes."

"Under Mayor Fogo?"

"Yes."

Under cross examination by Attorney Bennett, the witness was asked if he had not talked to people about Fultz.

"I can't say that I have," the witness replied, and he continued, "he never expressed any feeling about Chief Fultz."

"Didn't you say after the hearing you would swear to to anything in the higher court to get Fultz out'?"

No Ill Will Toward Fultz.

"No, sir. I never showed any ill will or hatred toward Fultz."

The witness went on to say that he had been on the police force for 15 years and that there had been gambling and other violations of law there for the last 20 years.

Testimony given at the Wellsville hearing by Modesta Lozzi, both direct and cross examination, was admitted to the record by the court, because the witness had failed to respond to a summons.

Samuel Hannum, druggist, testified briefly, that the call for the sheriff to come to Wellsville to make a raid on the Newton farm was sent over the telephone in his store and that the call was put in by Dr. Swift.

Newton, in response to a query by the court, testified that officers went to his farm to make a raid and that he told them he would assist them but that no raid was made.

Court adjourned at 11:30.

Witness after witness placed on the stand Tuesday afternoon refused to answer queries put to them by counsel for the city of Wellsville on the ground that what they might testify to would be self incriminating. The court sustained this view of the witnesses, and openly charged them that "they need not testify to anything that in their opinion would incriminate them in any criminal action."

City Solicitor Lucecock took exception to the ruling of the court, but this did not alter the view of Judge Spence who firmly held to his ruling.

Prohibition Inspector Testifies.

The star witness of the afternoon session Tuesday proved to be A. G. Baynham, deputy state prohibition inspector working out of the office of Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald of Columbus, admitted under direct and cross examination that when he talked to Fultz about the conditions in Wellsville, declared that Fultz had offered him his cooperation at any time.

Baynham declared that he went to Wellsville upon orders of his superior officer after letters had been received at the Columbus office designating certain places where it was supposed there was an alleged violation of the liquor laws. He testified that out of five searches four arrests were made and the victims taken before Mayor George H. Russell at Salem, and fines were assessed amounting to $2,900.

"Did Chief Fultz assist you in any of these raids?" the witness was asked.

"No he didn't."

"Did you ask him?"

"No sir. We talked over conditions later, however."

"What did the Chief say?"

"I do not know now what he did say."

"How did you know about those places in Wellsville?"

"The letters gave me the information, and we visited the homes mentioned in the letters."

The witness admitted that he did not make any other investigations.

"Did you ever ask Fultz to aid you in making arrests?" the witness was asked under cross-examination by Attorney Frank H. Grosshans of counsel for Fultz.

"No sir."

"Or the sheriff or any other officers?"

"No, I never did. Fultz told me he would glady assist me any time."

Tells of "Densmore's Place."

Mrs. Elizabeth Rolley under direct examination by Attorney Cochran admitted that she had talked with Fultz about a raid on the Densmore "place," but she could not remember the time of the conversation. "It's been so long ago I forget," the witness said.

Under cross-examination by Attorney W. A. O'Grady, Mrs. Rolley testified that Fultz told her "they" were going to raid the place and if "I didn't keep my mouth shut I'd be arrested."

"What did he say about tipping?"

"I do not recall."

"Who all was there at the time?"

"Oyster, Fultz, Thompson and my husband."

"Where does your husband work?"

Admits Poker Game.

Lester Rolley, husband of the preceding witness, declared he had been employed in a stud poker game at the Densmore place, but he did not know for how long a time. He testified that he received $1.50 per hour.

He admitted that Densmore's place had been "pinched" once when he was there, when the game was being played at 1321 Main street. He said there was just one game going at a time.

"Any liquor sold there?"

"Yes," the witness replied.

"Who sold it?"

"Earl Densmore."

"See Fultz there any?"

"Once, when the place was raided and I was arrested then."

"What kind of a club room was it?" Attorney Ben L. Bennett queried Rolley.

"Gambling."

"Ever raided by the chief of police?"

"Yes, the police took a forfeit."

"Another day your wife tipped you off?"

"Yes."

"What did Fultz say to your wife about tipping off the game?"

"When did you quit?" Attorney Crawford asked.

"When we got arrested."

When Lester Trainer was placed on the stand he immediately admitted that he played poker, and that he was also a sign painter.

"I've already said," put in the court, "that unless you connect Fultz with these things it is a waste of time to proceed along these lines."

Mayor Fogo Called.

"The civil service commission sets the duties of the chief of police," put in the court.

"They are not in the civil service book," came from Attorney Crawford.

"Then his oath of office will cover that," declared the court.

Mayor Fogo was then handed a photograph showing a lot of stills, containers, that one time was testified held liquor.

"When was that taken?"

"After the hearing in Wellsville," the witness replied.

Mayor Fogo then admitted that Fultz took part in a raid where some of the stuff photographed was taken. He testified that on the second raid made Fultz was not in it because of being off on account of illness.

"The mayor cannot testify about the stills, but the people who brought them in can," interjected the court, it being testified that seven or eight stills had been brought in.

"You have experienced difficulties in enforcing the law?" asked Mr. O'Grady under cross-examination.

"No doubt there are difficulties at all times."

"Ever exterminate gambling in your former years in office?"

"There was not as much then as now."

"What policy did you lay down when you took office?"

"I told the police the strings were cut, and that I wanted all the gamblers and all the bootleggers brought in."

"Who told you a still was operating in Wellsville?"

"Newton."

"Send Fultz after it?"

"Yes."

"He bring it in?"

"Yes."

"Who gave you information about the second still?"

"Newton."

"Say anything to Fultz about that one?"

Fultz Obeyed Orders.

"Did he ever refuse your orders?"

"He never did."

"Ever refuse to sign any warrant?"

"No sir."

Was there any time Chief Fultz ever refused to anything you asked of him?"

"He never refused to sign any papers."

"He brought in stills?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you say in the presence of Mayor Blackburn that you would remove Fultz?"

"I never did."

"Any gambling in Wellsville?"

"Not to my knowledge."

"Any drinking?"

"No sir."

"Have you knowledge there are about 32 places in Wellsville where you can get drink now?"

"I have not."

"You told Fultz not to patrol the town in a machine?"

"Yes."

"Newton has a machine?"

"Yes."

"Why did you discriminate between Fultz and Newton?"

"I ride with Newton since I have no service director."

"Don't you go on raids."

"How many outside officers have come in?"

"Sheriff made 15 to 20 searches and got two pinches, I understand.

"Why did you select Newton to go on raids instead ofFultz?"

"Newton worked for the city of Wellsville and for Catlett to get inside information. He's turned in over $5,000 to the city."

"Why was Fultz suspended?" asked Mr. Cochran on re-direct examination.

Discusses Monte Carlo.

Frank Geisse testified that he knew a place called "Monte Carlo," and that he worked there off and on for about a year in 1925. He said the proprietors of the place were Ralph Anania, Fred Wolf, Willard Davidson, Robert Thompson and himself. He testified the place was within two blocks of the Wellsville city building, and that it was opened early in 1925 and closed last December, and that it had been raided two or three times. He testified that the fine was paid by Willard Davidson, and that the fine was taken out of the receipts of the house.

"You're putting the cart before the horse in this case," Judge Spence declared. "There is no evidence that you have connected Fultz with the place."

"You gave money to Fultz?" the witness was asked.

"Yes, a check for my appearance, and the check was returned for there was no evidence," the witness replied.

Under cross examination by Attorney Grosshans the witness testified that all evidence of gambling had been removed. He also declared liquor was not permitted to be sold in the place, but that the "house took a rake off on each game" He also testified that the place had been raided three times and that fines were paid twice.

Hackworth Refuses Information.

Willis E. Hackworth was told that he did not have to offer any testimony that might incriminate him in any violation of law when he took the stand and after he was asked if he ever played in a stud poker game, he was excused from further inquiry.

Robert Thompson, 34, a clerk, said that he had been associated with others in the operation of a club for about eight months, and that it was a social club. He testified there had been card playing for money and that the place had been raided and a check for $800 had been put up as a forfeit.

Mrs. Oyster, wife of the merchant police told Mrs. Rolley the place was to be raided," Thompson testified, and "we were fined." He also said that the place had been raided eight or ten times and that "we paid fines each time."

Fogo is Recalled.

Mayor Fogo was then recalled, and referring to the mayor's docket, showed that for the $800 forfeit check, James Viola had entered a plea of guilty before Mayor Barnes, and that a fine of $250 had been suspended. Fultz filed the affidavit.

Willard Davidson, examined by Attorney Cochran, said he was one of the owners of "Monte Carlo" and that he had been arrested there. "If I thought the officers were coming I would tip the game off." Davidson testified "so they would not get pinched if I could help it."

Patsy Aania told the court that when he was not engaged in keeping a club room clean he "mixed concrete when the weather would permit."

"Ever see cards played for money in that club room?" the witness was asked by Mr. Cochran.

"No, sir."

This club room that the witness referred to was located on Twelfth street, Wellsville.

"You ever engaged in the business of dealing cards?" Leonard Swaile was asked under direct examination by Mr. Cochran.

"Do I have to answer that?" he asked the court.

"You don't have to answer that if you connect yourself with any crime."

"You worked for Modesta Lozzi where liquor was sold?"

"You don't have to answer," the court replied to a query.

"I refuse to answer," the witness testified.

Leopold Yannucci testified he rented the upper floor of his home in Wellsville to Ralph Anania.

Charles McSwiggin testified that "Monte Carlo" closed the first of the year, and that he dealt cards there for three weeks. He said there were several tables, chairs and a desk in the room.

Sheriff's Office Called.

Dr. E. F. Swift, under examination by Attorney Cochran, testified to Chief Fultz calling for aid from the sheriff's office at Lisbon to investigate a report that there was a still on Newton's farm and that he didn't want to take part in the work on account of Newton being a fellow officer. Sheriff Wright was in Columbus at the time and the call was responded to be Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Kindsvatter and Deputy James Elliott. The witness also testified that Officer Pugh went with the deputies.

"Did you find a still on the Newton farm?" the court asked.

"I don't know."

Wright's Sworn Statement.

The statement of William Wright, of Wellsville, which was made by him before he was released from the county jail, and introduced by Attorney Ben L. Bennett of counsel for Fultz reads:

"William Wright personally appeared before me, the undersigned, M. K. Zimerman, justice of the peace in and for Center township, Columbiana county, Ohio, and being first duly sworn according to law, deposes and says:

"That he is the William Wright who testified in the matter of the hearing of J. H. Fultz before the civil service commission of the City of Wellsville. That the testimony so submitted by him to said commission, so far as it pertained to any relationship between affiant and the said J. H. Fultz was false and untrue.

"That the day prior to his being called as a witness in said case, John Riel, a former chief of police of the city of Wellsville, called at affiant's home and talked with him concerning said case; that the said Riel suggested that it was important to have some testimony against the Chief, J. H. Fultz, to the effect that some one had paid him money. That affiant, ever since the arrest of his brother, Walter Wright, and his conviction and electrocution for murder, which arrest was brought about through the efforts of the said J. H. Fultz, has entertained a grudge against the said Fultz, and when the said John Riel talked with him concerning the matter, affiant grasped the opportunity as a means of getting even with Fultz.

"That affiant says that he at no time ever paid the said J. H Fultz any money for the privilege of operating a still, engaging in the traffic of intoxicating liquor or for any other purpose at any time; that when affiant was so engaged in the operation of a still and traffic in intoxicating liquors, it was without the knowledge, so far as he is concerned, of the said J. H. Fultz, and that the said Fultz at the time of affiant's arrest for operating a still, told him that if he ever caught him again engaging in either the operation of a still or the traffice in intoxicating liquors, he would lock him up.

"That on the evening of the afternoon that affiant talked with the said John Riel, W. L. Fogo, Mayor of the city of Wellsville called at his home concerning the statement he had made to Riel, and that affiant reaffirmed said statements and at that time asked the said W. L. Fogo if anybody was to be permitted to engage in the sale of intoxicating liquors in Wellsville, if he would be accorded privilege also, and that the said W. L. Fogo replied as follows. "I can give you no answer now, but if anybody is permitted during by administration to sell liquor, you will be given the same privilege."

"That thereafter affiant became apprehensive as to submitting said testimony and getting himself in any trouble, and he conferred with Edward Fogo, son of W. L. Fogo, about the matter, and was told by the said Edward Fogo that if he offered his testimony, nothing could happen to him, and that if it did, they would stand by him.

"That affiant further states that the statement of W. L. Fogo appearing in the newspapers of the city of East Liverpool and Wellsville regarding the visit of the said J. H. Fultz to affiant's home at about the hour of 1 o'clock on the night that he submitted his testimony is untrue.

"That affiant has never talked with the said W. L. Fogo since the night he testified in said hearing and he has never told the said W. L. Fogo anything concerning the visit of Fultz to his home, and that the said J. H. Fultz on said night at his home in the city of Wellsville, did not request affiant to change his testimony in the manner set forth in said statements, but inquired of affiant why he had offered the false testimony against him and urged him to tell the truth, and that the truth of the situation is the reverse of the testimony so submitted.

"That affiant at this time offers this, his statement under oath, without any promise of reward, leniency or assistance on behalf of any person in connection with said case, but because he believed it in the interest of justice so to do, and because he feels that he has wronged the said J. H. Fultz and wishes to make amends so far as possible for his conduct in so doing. That his testimony against the said Fultz was prompted solely and absolutely by his desire to get even for the electrocution of his brother, brought about by said Fultz, as hereinbefore stated.

"This statement is also made by affiant with full knowledge of the gravity of the serious situation into which it may lead him."

Three Things

In LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes you get all that can be in any very fine cigarette—also the added pleasure produced by the extra process of toasting.

But here are three additional things:

LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos are toasted for 45 minutes in superheat. This (1) removes all "bite" and harshness. It (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals the moist fragrance in, insuring freshness.

"IT'S TOASTED" represents a costly extra process that adds the finishing touch to a wonderfully fine cigarette.

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

FRENCH WOMEN OPPOSED TO FAT

PARIS, Aug. 25.—"Thou shalt not be fat" is the eleventh commandment of fashionable Paris.

I have seen not more than three fat Parisiennes since I arrived here two months ago. Whenever I catch a glimpse of a fat woman resembling a tent waddling along the avenue, I know at once she is an American.

French women somehow do not seem to tend to embonpoint. But if in exceptional cases they show a disposition to stoutness, they become as alarmed as if threatened with some fatal malady and diet and starve and exercise to reduce to normal slim proportions. So in realms of fashion, Paris is a city of svelte women.

In the salons of the fashionable dressmakers, you see only models for the hat pin figure. There is nothing for the unpretty person known in America as the "stylish stout." The scant wrap-around coats and the hats cater to the sylph-like. The cloche for headgear has been the style all summer but now that the first touch of autumn is in the air, the big picture hat is coming in. Possibly American influence is responsible for this. At any rate, the large hat with floppy and down drawn brims will be distinctly the aristocratic mode this fall.

Paris is now showing an advance hint of the fall styles in fur coats all of which stress simplicity and youthful, straight lines. Fur coats of former years were bulky and added years as well as pounds to the appearance. Now one can be as youthful and slender in a fur coat as in the newest and smartest frock or fabric coat. The tailored trend in fur coat styles has a great deal to do with their youthfulness, and the use of flatter and shorter pelts makes the slender line easier of achievement.

Two outstanding style points of this season's fur coats are the dolman sleeves and the bloused back. The absence of circular and flared flounces is noticeable. Sleeves are plain and there are very few deep cuffs of a contrasting fur. Collars are smaller than last year and either of the straight puff variety or long collar ending in a surplice line.

For sport wear, the smartest coats are of pony, either red or gray, muskrat, antelope, carcacul, raccoon, leopard and hair seal. For more formal wear there is caracul in platinum, brown, cocoa, and black, ermine in either natural or summer shade, squirrel, seal natural or dyed, Jap mink and Jap weasel.

Some of the smartest fur coats that will be shown for winter are reversable. They have cloth on one side and fur on the other, and are made so that either side is perfect in workmanship and appearance.

Dollar Day, Thursday, Aug. 26. L. S. Wilson Co. All remaining summer hats, regardless of price, $1.00. A lot of felt and velour hats, one-half former price. 10% off on all new fall and winter hats. L. S. Wilson Co., West Fifth St.

At any rate, the large hat with floppy and down drawn brims will be distinctly the aristocratic mode this fall.

Paris is now showing an advance hint of the fall styles in fur coats all of which stress simplicity and youthful, straight lines. Fur coats of former years were bulky and added years as well as pounds to the appearance. Now one can be as youthful and slender in a fur coat as in the newest and smartest frock or fabric coat. The tailored trend in fur coat styles has a great deal to do with their youthfulness, and the use of flatter and shorter pelts makes the slender line easier of achievement.

Two outstanding style points of this season's fur coats are the dolman sleeves and the bloused back. The absence of circular and flared flounces is noticeable. Sleeves are plain and there are very few deep cuffs of a contrasting fur. Collars are smaller than last year and either of the straight puff variety or long collar ending in a surplice line.

For sport wear, the smartest coats are of pony, either red or gray, muskrat, antelope, carcacul, raccoon, leopard and hair seal. For more formal wear there is caracul in platinum, brown, cocoa, and black, ermine in either natural or summer shade, squirrel, seal natural or dyed, Jap mink and Jap weasel.

Some of the smartest fur coats that will be shown for winter are reversable. They have cloth on one side and fur on the other, and are made so that either side is perfect in workmanship and appearance.

"BIG PARADE" STORY OF WAR

When Laurence Stallings wrote "The Big Parade" which comes to the Ceramic theatre for three days starting Thursday, Sept. 23, it was with the intention of telling a simple story of three doughboys and their adventures in France. When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, King Vidor and the fine cast had finished with it the story remained as simple and appealing as when written but it was vitalized into a recognized work that can be fairly termed a masterpiece.

Did 'Ja Ever Have A Birthday Party

YOU know the old gag of sending out invitations and hoping that the guests brought you nice presents. Great stuff, isn't it? W eknow just how you felt because we are having a birthday this week, just been six months ago since we opened our first store, (eight now) and boy, how we've worked since, trying to give people more for their money than they've seen before or since. And have we succeeded? Well, we can tell the whole wide world that we have, we've grown like corn in hot sun, but we haven't forgotten that we owe two-thirds of our success to you folks, so, we are going to have a birthday party starting tomorrow and lasting until LABOR DAY, and it's going to be some party, we are going to say it with values on nationally known automobile accessories. Do you get what we mean? Real cut prices on every thing in our store. Are you coming to our party? We knew you would. See you tomorrow.

'SWEET DADDIES' SIDNEY PICTURE

George Sidney, for many seasons a featured player in motion pictures, will be seen in one of the leading roles in M. C. Levee's First National production, "Sweet Daddies," which opens at the American Theatre tomorrow. Sidney is famous for his Hebrew characterizations.

In "Sweet Daddies" Sidney plays the part of a wealthy merchant who enters into partnership with a son of Erin named Pat O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien is played by Charlie Murray, well-known Irish screen comic.

The nature of the business engaged in by the two men is somewhat obscure and the prohibition agents get after them. But everything turns out right in the end.

Meanwhile the son and daughter of the partners fall in love with each other. Jack Mulhall and Johnna Kalston, Harold Lloyd's leading lady, take these parts. Vera Gordon, famous actress, is also seen in one of the featured roles.

When "Sweet Daddies" was previewed in Hollywood a noted film executive was in the audience, and, on the strength of Sidney's portrayal, signed him to play the star role in the photoplay version of David Warfield's "The Auctioneer," soon to be filmed.

George Sidney, for many seasons a featured player in motion pictures, will be seen in one of the leading roles in M. C. Levee's First National production, "Sweet Daddies," which opens at the American Theatre tomorrow. Sidney is famous for his Hebrew characterizations.

In "Sweet Daddies" Sidney plays the part of a wealthy merchant who enters into partnership with a son of Erin named Pat O'Brien. Mr. O'Brien is played by Charlie Murray, well-known Irish screen comic.

The nature of the business engaged in by the two men is somewhat obscure and the prohibition agents get after them. But everything turns out right in the end.

Meanwhile the son and daughter of the partners fall in love with each other. Jack Mulhall and Jobyna Ralston, Harold Lloyd's leading lady, take these parts. Vera Gordon, famous actress, is also seen in one of the featured roles.

When "Sweet Daddies" was previewed in Hollywood a noted film executive was in the audience, and, on the strength of Sidney's portrayal, signed him to play the star role in the photoplay version of David Warfield's "The Auctioneer," soon to be filmed.

BOOK ONE.

"But Henry, my dear!" Mrs. Hamill was expostulating. "Why on earth play the eight spot in a case like that, when you knew very well I had—" She broke off. "Hello, Jock," she said, and smiled at him. "Do sit down, my dear, and observe the peculiar maneuvers of Mr. Henry Barbour. I want you to learn from him how not to play bridge!"

Mrs. Hamill was the kind of woman who can make such remarks and, in the modern parlance, get away with them. No one ever waxed wroth at Mrs. Hamill. No man, that is. She was too altogether exquisite. She had great brown eyes, dark brows and lashes, astonishing silver hair, which she wore cut in a shingle bob, a small slim figure, and hands as soft and appealing as a baby's. Hands to be kissed, those. Hands to be caught and held in bigger hands, intensely. Hands to reach out in pretty supplication and to close tight like little white bars across what was given. . . . Her age was problematical. It seemed to vary with her gowns, with her moods, with her companions, until it ran the whole scale of the years between 25 and 45. What it actually was Jock never knew. Once, long ago, he had asked, and Madelaine Hamill had answered him almost savagely, "I have forgotten. On purpose." This served to whet his curiosity, so that thereafter he watched and wondered, and came in time to the confusing realization that his mother was young with men, middle-aged with women, and old when she was alone.

Jock sat down as she had directed, greeting the three men each in turn. They were frequent visitors to the house and he knew them all well — Saunders Lincoln, of the iron-gray hair and the still-athletic figure, so particularly well that he had called him "Uncle Link" and received from him rather breath-taking checks at Christmas almost ever since he could remember. "Uncle" was here merely a term of familiarity, however; Saunders Lincoln was not a relative. "Why don't you marry him?" Jock had demanded of his mother on a former occasion, and had learned that he was already married to, and separated from, a woman who, on account of her religion, would not agree to a divorce.

"Marriage," Mrs. Hamill had added, "is a mistake for one of my temperament, anyhow. I'm too fond of men in general." Which was quite true. Her Utopia was a world peopled solely by men, with herself a gorgeous goddess before whom all did obeisance—not too impersonally. She could not bear women and women, of course, could not bear her. She made young ones feel too young, awkward, gauche; and older ones envious and faintly antagonistic.

"I'm leaving tomorrow, sorry to say."

"Not anxious to get back; eh?"

"Not at all, no."

"Jock," announced Jock's mother casually, "is a liar. He's quite wild to get back, as a matter of fact. I'll bid one no trump."

This was the signal for all conversation to cease, so Jock had no opportunity to debate the point. He sprawled in his chair, sipping at a highball that had been handed him, and followed the play languidly with his glance. Presently he took a pencil and began to scribble on the back of a bridge-score. This absorbed him for some moments, after which he left the room, taking the paper with him. It was a poem to Yvonne, a poem beginning, "Oh voice that sings a song in the night, For the wind to carry forever—"

Upstairs in his own quarters he read it aloud to himself. Then he said, "Punk!" rather sheepishly, and locked it away in a strong-box.

Later, when Mrs. Hamill ascended the stairs and tapped at his door, she found him stretched out across his bed in a fantastic green-and-black dressing-gown, reading Perfect Behavior by Donald Ogden Stewart. His reaction from exhibitions of sentiment on his own part was always humor on the part of others. "Makes me snap out of it," he would have said.

"Yes, they've gone."

"Good game?"

"Excellent, except for Henry Barbour. The man is a perfect nitwit and persists in leading from the ace, despite my frenzied and perpetual protestations." She seated herself on the edge of the bed, took one of Jock's cigarettes and smoked it thoughtfully. "What's on your mind, Jocky?"

"Nothing."

"Nonsense! I knew there was something the minute you came into the room."

Jock remained silent, and Mrs. Hamill, after a long glance at him, concluded that she must by indirections find directions out. "Have a good time at the dance?"

"Wonderful."

"How's Molly?"

"All right, I guess. She went home about 10 o'clock." Jock's voice was noncommittal, but to his mother, who knew him very much better than mothers usually know their 22-year-old sons, he told volumes.

"Who was there?" she inquired.

Mrs. Hamill was quietly triumphant. "Oh, so Molly went home at 10 o'clock and there was a girl from New York!" She shook her head reprovingly. "Jock dear, must I remind you that 99 per cent of this world's hapless husbands are gentlemen who permitted themselves inadvertently to be caught on the rebound?"

"I'm not 'caught,'" Jock protested, but without conviction.

"What's her name?"

"Yvonne Mountford."

Between Mrs. Hamill's eyes there appeared a wrinkle—promptly erased, because wrinkles are vicious things with a tendency to stay where they're put. "That name sounds familiar," she mused, "but I can't think—well, what does she look like?"

"Red hair," Jock succinctly.

"Oh."

Jock got up, with a conclusive air of having disposed of the topic to every one's satisfaction, and began to pack the silver-lettered bowl of his pipe with tobacco. "Now!" he said. "How 'bout my allowance for this year?"

She mentioned a generous sum. Sums in that household were always generous. "That's the berries," approved Jock, "but can you afford it?"

"I think so."

"It's a lot of money."

"I have a lot of money, Jock," said Mrs. Hamill. "More than I can spend by myself."

Jock knew that this was so. Had you asked him where the money came from he would doubtless have said, "Oil, or something," rather vaguely; but that it did come, in large quantities, he was well aware. His understanding was that investments made by his father years ago had since proved unexpectedly prosperous, putting his mother and himself on easy street. Beyond a certain gratitude and a fleeting mental tribute to his father's business acumen, he gave the matter no thought whatever.

Yvonne was not again mentioned in conversation. But when Mrs. Hamill had gone to her own room and was seated before her dressing table, gazing at her reflection over a corps of assorted bottles and jars, she repeated the name over. "Yvonne Mountford. Now where have I heard that before?" Bye and bye she sighed, "Poor Molly!"

Mrs. Hamill had more than the usual maternal conviction that if she were younger, and if Jock were not her son, she would be violently and utterly in love with him; hence she could sigh, at times, for girls he did not love.

SHIPWRECK IN CERAMIC FILM

"Isle of Retribution" Booked for Three Day Engagement.

A spectacular shipwreck in which a staunch schooner is knifed by a gigantic iceberg and goes down in the midst of menacing floes; the battle of a soft, spoiled rich man's son against the implacable elements of the Alaska Coast and the red cruelty of one of the greatest fiction characters ever conceived by mortal man; and the most dramatic, gruelling fight ever staged in the snow-swept spaces make "The Isle of Retribution" a memorable picture. The production, directed for F. B. O. by James Hogan from the famous novel by Edison Marshall, is stark, staggering drama with all of the delightful comedy touches for which Mr. Hogan is justly famous. It comes to the Ceramic theatre for a 3 day run beginning Thursday and if the reception it has received elsewhere is any criterion it bids fair to pack that popular local playhouse to the curbstone at every showing. Lillian Rich is featured in an exceptional cast which includes such celebrated thespians as Robert Frazer, David Torrence, Mildred Harris, Victor M'Laglen, Kathleen Kirkham and Inez Gomez. The part of the mad brute "Doomsdorf," master of the isolated island on which the helpless fugitives from the storm are cast is easily the finest characterization since Jack London's immortal "Sea Wolf."

YOUTH SLAYS AGED TEACHER

Victim Struck on Head With Hammer.

Calisch, according to police was struck down in a Brooklyn restaurant, dying half an hour later. The lad, immediately arrested, is alleged to have told police of an unconquerable desire to slay his aged instructor.

"I first decided to commit suicide," Silverstein is alleged to have told police. "Then I decided it would be better to kill the old man." He is alleged to have admitted he fought for two hours against the overwhelming desire to commit the murder, and finally succumbed.

Police said they found a bottle of cynaide of potassium, a deadly poison, in the youth's pocket.

Five hundred stone houses are to be erected by refugees on land which hey have bought near Piraeus, Greece.

Big Twirler is "On," Clouts Out Double in Fourth to Send in Second Run of Contest; Ashe Given Faultless Support.

CHESTER and Laughlin, West Virginia representatives of the City Industrial Baseball League, and perennial contenders for the pennant, met in battle royal at Newell park last evening and the Chester nine, defeated a couple of weeks ago by the Laughlins, came back to hand the McCoyites a 2 to 0 shutout, with Mike Cebula fanning 10 opposing batters in five innings of play.

As on the occasion of the previous clash, Manager Riley threw his pitching ace, "Mike," into the breach while Laughlin sent the speedman Ashe to the firing line. A nip and tuck fight resulted with the outcome in doubt until the last man was retired.

All Chester seemingly was in attendance, massed in noisy phalanx along the third base sector and extending into left field. And no real Newell baseball fan remained at home. The visitors were lined up, many deep, from the home plate background into deep right yelling vociferously the entire while their favorites worked. Betwixt and between and everywhere they could find places, were hundreds from East Liverpool. Automobiles surrounded the field. It was a gala diamond occasion, marking the biggest crowd undoubtedly that has seen a 1926 contest here.

And "Mike" was in form. That statement tells cryptically the story of the victory. For, despite an infield made up of two players out of position, Wilde taking P. Cebula's berth at short with Evans substituting for Greene at third and Wyant, ordinarily a pitcher, in middle for Evans and Stoffell, another twirler, in right, the hefty hurler refused to permit the down river aggregation to get a man further than third. And on only one occasion did a Newell runner reach that point. He allowed but three hits and one of these blows, a hard drive at L. McMath, might have been turned into a putout, had McMath been able to locate the ball as it bounded away from him.

The Chester twirler turned in 10 strikeouts which happened to be exactly two-thirds of the putout for the day. In other words he turned them back at an average clip of two to each inning.

Only Ashe and Bubin failed to be victims of his speed. In the fifth, with darkness rapidly gathering and the tying runs on the bags, he fanned Babb and Finley, usually dependable swatters, effectively ending the contest.

Once only did "Mike" falter and that was in the third when, after fanning Hunselman, he walked Ashe and Babb, the latter following Parsons' strikeout. Babb made a clean steal of second, but Finley rapped feebly to the hilltop, enabling the pitcher to assist to Heckathorne and the crisis was passed.

Bubin got around as far as the hot corner in the third when his blow to L. McMath started him off at first. He went to second on a passed ball. He clung to the keystone sack as Sayres lifted to Stoffel but surprised with a fine steal to third as Aufderheide was wielding the willow at the plate. But there he died as Aufderheide missed the third strike.

Laughlin threatened seriously in the final swatting period of the fifth. Hunselman started with a walk but was forced by Ashe at second, L. McMath to Wilde. Parsons singled to left and W. Watson, running for Ashe, took second. There they languished as Cebula released his stuff on Babb and Finley, fanning both.

But the game was no walkaway. Ashe, Newell speed merchant, was on the job every moment. He was a trifle wild, however, walking two and hitting one. These shortcomings contributed to his team's undoing. He walked Evans, first man up. Then Heckathorne and L. McMath, fast men, bunted successively. The speedy Wilde made good with a long fly to Parsons on which Evans counted. Ashe then fanned Wyant and caused F. Marshall to foul to Babb, the latter making a fine catch.

He retired his opponents in a row in the second. Evans, singling to right in the third, died on the paths as Ashe turned back Heckathorne, L. McMath and Wilde in order.

In the fourth Chester turned in another run which cinched the game. Wyant opened by hitting the first ball pitched to right. F. Marshall sacrificed, Ashe to Sayre. Stoffel fanned. W. McMath was hit. Then Mike Cebula doubled to left. The ball bounded over Parsons, enabling Wyant to finish and W. McMath to reach third. The latter, if faster, might also have scored. Evans walked, but Heckathorne fanned.

Ashe refused further scoring. L. McMath opened the fifth with a single to right, but was nipped off first, Ashe to Babb. Wilde flew to Aufderheide, who made a fine catch. And then Ashe struck out Wyant.

L. McMath took the game's hitting honors with two singles in three tries, although Evans hung up a perfect mark with two walks and a single in three attempts.

The contest was a great diamond exhibition. There was honor enough for victor and loser, with Laughlin giving their hurler perfect support.

Next Two Weeks Will Decide Pennant Race

Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Foaming at the mouth probably will be condemned in some circles as ungentlemanly and lacking in sanitation; therefore, those who feel that way about an ancient and honored function will be somewhat depressed to learn that in St. Louis an entire population today foams at will and without warning and is proud of it.

One glance at the standing of the clubs in the National league has been known to send large families foaming about the house, individually and in concert. Mere mention of the miraculous fact that the Cardinals are up with the pace during the last week in August has served to put a frothy "top" on a plain glass of water. Only righteous and strictly biased foam is tolerated.

It seems to me that if they were a trifle less premature, they might save a lot of wear and tear on the salivary glands, considering what the next two weeks will mean to the National league race. The Cards are a hot choice today. Within two weeks, they may be considerably hotter, in which case one may foam at leasure and with justification, or they may be absolutely frigid, in which case one wouldn't care about foaming with a mouth full of soap.

The next two weeks will tell the story of the pennant race, the greatest the National league has known since the memorable campaign of 1908. The preface will be written in St. Louis on Sunday when the Cardinals will open a series with the Champion Pirates, with the league leadership at stake. The plot will thicken rapidly when, after a single game with the Cubs, the Cards will invade Cincinnati for another showdown set of games. The climax will come immediately thereafter in another Cardinal-Pirate series, their last meeting of the year.

That, briefly, is the situation today. It would seem to throw the real burden of proof on the Cardinals, at least for the time being. The Reds need only win the majority of games in two series with the Cubs to profit automatically while the Cards and Pirates are at each other's throats.

But, later, the same thing will react to the Cardinals' favor when, beginning September 10, the Reds and Pirates will play a two-game series while the Cards are dallying with Boston. And if you think this means a stand-off on paper, you will do well to consider the records which show that the Cards have won 12 out of 15 with the Braves, while the Reds have taken 9 out of 16 with the Cubs.

However, past performances can run for the end book at this stage of proceedings. The ball club that can show the most punch and consistency today, tomorrow, next week and next month will win the pennant, not the entry that is trying to prove something by what happened in June.

All three contenders are sprinting home right now. The Cards dropped their first in nine games yesterday and fell into third place. The Reds ran their streak into ten straight. The Pirates made it eight out of the last twelve.

Pay your money and take your choice.

The Senators and the Browns had the American League all to themselves yesterday, and for the Senators, everything was quite all right. Heavy hitting at the start gave them a sizeable lead, and St. Louis dropped on the short end of a 9 to 6 score. Rain caused postponement of all the other games.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The Giants almost won a game yesterday, but infield errors put Jack Scott at a disadvantage and the Cincinnati Reds came through on top, 4 to 3.

The Robins regretted their action a little while ago in toppling the Pirates out of first place, so they handed the dish back again yesterday, 10 to 1. Ray Kremer pitched beautiful ball, while Burleigh Grimes bowled for the Doggers, allowing a rally of five runs in two innings, before he was relieved of the responsibility.

The Braves and the Cards divided honors in their double header at St. Louis yesterday. The visitors took the first, 2 to 1, then fought a close battle to give Hornsby's boys the second, 6 to 5.

Long-distance batting was the rule of the Chicago Cubs, leaving the Philadelphia Nationals on the sour end of both games of a double-header. The first one went 9 to 4, while two homers by Hartnett and one by Wilson in the second helped shut out the visitors, 9 to 0.

"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

"Just what does begin the back swing? Do the hands start it, or the body or what?" These and similar questions are often asked, and it is safe to assume that the average golfer asks such things of himself a good many times. The golf swing starts with a sort of rhythmic signal throughout the entire body. How can you say exactly where you begin to walk? It's the same thing with the swing. The exertion starts as a whole, and continues throughout as a whole. I don't think it is a good idea for the player to design to put some one part of his body into action to start the back swing. Invariably the golfers who do this have something awkward about their swing. Get ready for your swing, letting the address and the waggle really begin it, then let the action flow into the swing as a whole. Selecting some one point to move first, such as the hips or a knee, results in awkwardness and unnaturalness.

Three Major Events On Today's Program At Trapshoot Meet

DATON, O., Aug. 25.—Today's program at the Amateur Trapshooting association's 27th. annual meeting calls for three major events:

The race for state champions; the professional clay targets championship, and the state team championship.

S. L. Jenny, of Highland, Ills., won the amateur clay target championship of North America from a field of 565 crack gunners only by a toss-up after four 25-shot shootoffs had failed to decide a tie between Jenny and E. J. Smith, Aberdeen, S. D., E. F. Woodward, Houston, Texas; W. G. Warren, Chicago, Ills. and D. M. Hudson, Hammond, Ind., each of whom shot 199 targets out of a possible 200.

Mrs. J. C. Wright of Atlanta, Ga., was crowned the new women's champion, clicking off 190.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 25.—Following a long walk on the board walk early this morning, Jack Dempsey declared his intention of settling down again to serious training this afternoon with the local dog track as the locale. He might have worked a few rounds yesterday, but the new ring wasn't ready, so he confined himself to light exercises. He was almost mobbed when he appeared on the walk with Mrs. Estelle Taylor Dempsey.

The new ring will be covered to protect the champion from sun and rain.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 25.—Gene Tunney was scheduled to get in a regulation workout today, in spite of the impending shift of the challenger's camp to the Glen Brook Country club, Stroudsburg, Pa., in order to be near the scene of the big fight at Philadelphia on September 23. Tunney declared himself to be in the best condition of his career this morning.

Big Twirler is "On," Clouts Out Double in Fourth to Send in Second Run of Contest; Ashe Given Faultless Support.

CHESTER and Laughlin, West Virginia representatives of the City Industrial Baseball League, and perennial contenders for the pennant, met in battle royal at Newell park last evening and the Chester nine, defeated a couple of weeks ago by the Laughlins, came back to hand the McCoyites a 2 to 0 shutout, with Mike Cebula fanning 10 opposing batters in five innings of play.

As on the occasion of the previous clash, Manager Riley threw his pitching ace, "Mike," into the breach while Laughlin sent the speedman Ashe to the firing line. A nip and tuck fight resulted with the outcome in doubt until the last man was retired.

All Chester seemingly was in attendance, massed in noisy phalanx along the third base sector and extending into left field. And no real Newell baseball fan remained at home. The visitors were lined up, many deep, from the home plate background into deep right yelling vociferously the entire while their favorites worked. Lady Astor Drops Her Offer to Send British Family to Russia

LONDON.—Lady Astor is backing out of her offer to send a Socialist family to Russia, according to the "Sunday Worker" the extreme Labor Weekly.

"Correspondence from Nancy Astor, M. P. to Jim Morton, an iron moulder of Liverpool, who took up her offer," says the newspaper, reveals the fact that Nancy is adamant on the question of passage money versus expenses.

"Nancy's original offer certainly said passage money, but Jim Morton in his first inquiry mentioned expenses, and he claims that unless he has rail expenses from Liverpool to London and some money for the minimum amount of clothing for his wife and two children then the callenge obviously cannot be taken up.

"It seems certain that Nancy Astor does not really want to send a Socialist family to Russia. She doubtless regrets her impulsive offer and realizes from countless testimonies the "terrible" effect that experience of life in Soviet Russia has on British Workers."

SANTA ANA, Cal.—Probably the oldest applicant for a divorce in the United States had a petition for a separation on file in court here today.

Juan Magana, 101, who remembers six wives, now wants to get rid of his seventh, Mathilda, 56. He has been a "kissless bridegroom," Magana charged, and he wants to be free.

distance off-shore can be determined by the time required for sound to move the distance under water.

To determine this a hydrophone is fixed under water close in shore. When a bomb is exploded by the ship, the sound waves are carried to this hydrophone, which upon receipt of them instantly and automatically releases a radio flash, which goes back to the ship. The radio transmission through the air is to all intents instantaneous, hence the observer on shipboard needs only to record the instant of the bomb explosion and the instant of the radio flash-back, to know the time required for a sound wave to reach shore. From this the distance is quickly figured. More than one hydrophone station ashore is needed to fix the exact position of a ship, two charted stations being used, and sometimes three. Each records the same bomb explosion, the time of the flash-back being different from each shore station.

This device has enabled sounding and charting work to go on at all times and under conditions hitherto impossible in coast survey work. It involves several pieces of mechanism, all of which have been worked out to practical success.

While the Coast and Geodetic Survey has done this extensive work off the west coast, the Navy has also done a large amount of charting on the Pacific, using the sonic depth-finder method, which likewise makes use of the travel of sound waves under water. This is a method which was beginning to be understood prior to the War but had its real development as a device for the detection of submarines. Science has now turned it to account for charting the ocean bottom, the work in the Pacific being in aid of the scientists who have sought on the ocean bottom the record of causes of the Santa Barbara and other earthquake disturbances.

By utilizing waters of the Pykara, the largest river in the Nigiris, India, where it drops 400 feet in a series of falls, one of the greatest hydro-electric plants in that part of Asia will be developed.

Lady Astor Drops Her Offer to Send British Family to Russia

LONDON.—Lady Astor is backing out of her offer to send a Socialist family to Russia, according to the "Sunday Worker" the extreme Labor Weekly.

"Correspondence from Nancy Astor, M. P. to Jim Morton, an iron moulder of Liverpool, who took up her offer," says the newspaper, reveals the fact that Nancy is adamant on the question of passage money versus expenses.

"Nancy's original offer certainly said passage money, but Jim Morton in his first inquiry mentioned expenses, and he claims that unless he has rail expenses from Liverpool to London and some money for the minimum amount of clothing for his wife and two children then the callenge obviously cannot be taken up.

"It seems certain that Nancy Astor does not really want to send a Socialist family to Russia. She doubtless regrets her impulsive offer and realizes from countless testimonies the "terrible" effect that experience of life in Soviet Russia has on British Workers."

SANTA ANA, Cal.—Probably the oldest applicant for a divorce in the United States had a petition for a separation on file in court here today.

Juan Magana, 101, who remembers six wives, now wants to get rid of his seventh, Mathilda, 56. He has been a "kissless bridegroom," Magana charged, and he wants to be free.

distance off-shore can be determined by the time required for sound to move the distance under water.

To determine this a hydrophone is fixed under water close in shore. When a bomb is exploded by the ship, the sound waves are carried to this hydrophone, which upon receipt of them instantly and automatically releases a radio flash, which goes back to the ship. The radio transmission through the air is to all intents instantaneous, hence the observer on shipboard needs only to record the instant of the bomb explosion and the instant of the radio flash-back, to know the time required for a sound wave to reach shore. From this the distance is quickly figured. More than one hydrophone station ashore is needed to fix the exact position of a ship, two charted stations being used, and sometimes three. Each records the same bomb explosion, the time of the flash-back being different from each shore station.

This device has enabled sounding and charting work to go on at all times and under conditions hitherto impossible in coast survey work. It involves several pieces of mechanism, all of which have been worked out to practical success.

While the Coast and Geodetic Survey has done this extensive work off the west coast, the Navy has also done a large amount of charting on the Pacific, using the sonic depth-finder method, which likewise makes use of the travel of sound waves under water. This is a method which was beginning to be understood prior to the War but had its real development as a device for the detection of submarines. Science has now turned it to account for charting the ocean bottom, the work in the Pacific being in aid of the scientists who have sought on the ocean bottom the record of causes of the Santa Barbara and other earthquake disturbances.

By utilizing waters of the Pykara, the largest river in the Nigiris, India, where it drops 400 feet in a series of falls, one of the greatest hydro-electric plants in that part of Asia will be developed.

State Fair Next Week Will be Larger Than Ever.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 25.—With compilation of entries for the 1926 State Fair livestock departments practically completed, a splendid indication of the quality of next week's exposition is available.

According to Chas. V. Truax, director of Agriculture, the success of every phase of the livestock exhibition is definitely assured.

"Practically every department on the grounds is far ahead of last year, while many are setting new records for Ohio and for fairs of the country as well," Director Truax states.

A week before the opening of State Fair, there were more than 40 head of horses entered for the liberal premium awards than were shown last year, when a total of 282 pure bred Belgian and Percherons competed in the Coliseum arena. In the cattle department, new herds will be represented, while the aggregate number of animals to be displayed will be materially above the figures established a year ago.

In the swine department, the Berkshire classification already has twice as many animals enrolled as were entered in the 1925 fair. Durocs and Polands are well up to their usual standards. Every breed that will compete in the big swine arena with its four comfortable grandstands shows an increase over last year.

More than 2,500 head of sheep will be in the rings next week. This will maintain for Ohio the lead long held in its sheep show.

In checking over the entries recorded for the coming competitions, it is discovered that Ohio State university is credited with being the largest single competitor in the livestock department. Two breeds of horses, 14 beef cattle, four of dairy cattle, two of hogs and six breeds of sheep have been qualified by this state institution.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—C. P. Cooper resigned today as president of the Ohio Bell telephone company to become a vice president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company. He will be succeeded by Edwin F. Carter of St. Louis, Mo.

The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share of the preferred stock payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 20. Expenditure of $2,352,417 for additions and improvements was authorized.

Karl Burr of Columbus was made general counsel, succeeding S. H. Tolles who died last month at Denver, Colo.

STOCK ENTRIES ARE COMPLETE

State Fair Next Week Will be Larger Than Ever.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 25.—With compilation of entries for the 1926 State Fair livestock departments practically completed, a splendid indication of the quality of next week's exposition is available.

According to Chas. V. Truax, director of Agriculture, the success of every phase of the livestock exhibition is definitely assured.

"Practically every department on the grounds is far ahead of last year, while many are setting new records for Ohio and for fairs of the country as well," Director Truax states.

A week before the opening of State Fair, there were more than 40 head of horses entered for the liberal premium awards than were shown last year, when a total of 282 pure bred Belgian and Percherons competed in the Coliseum arena. In the cattle department, new herds will be represented, while the aggregate number of animals to be displayed will be materially above the figures established a year ago.

In the swine department, the Berkshire classification already has twice as many animals enrolled as were entered in the 1925 fair. Durocs and Polands are well up to their usual standards. Every breed that will compete in the big swine arena with its four comfortable grandstands shows an increase over last year.

More than 2,500 head of sheep will be in the rings next week. This will maintain for Ohio the lead long held in its sheep show.

In checking over the entries recorded for the coming competitions, it is discovered that Ohio State university is credited with being the largest single competitor in the livestock department.
